Rum Charge Holds Bribe Case Figure

CORAOPOLIS BLAZE

Damage estimated today at between $30,000 and $40,000 is the result of the spectacular fire at the Coraopolis plant of the Waverly Oil Company. None of the plant's manufacturing equipment was damaged, firemen holding the flames to the warehouse and office and saving a row of eight big storage tanks adjoining the office. Sparks from a shifting locomotive are believed by company officials to have started the blaze.

RUM CHARGE HOLDS BRIBE CASE FIGURE

A charge of violating the Snyder act was lodged today by District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner against Robert White, 2406 California avenue, alleged go-between in the theft of liquor conspiracy confession from the city detective bureau.

White's answers today seemingly did not satisfy Gardner and his aides. At noon he was led back to jail, but informed that he would be again questioned late today.

The information was lodged after White had been questioned by Gardner, First Assistant District Attorney Andrew T. Park and Chief of County Detectives George W. Murren. It will serve to detain White, who is wanted to tell his story of alleged police booze concessions on the North Side, to the grand jury when it reconvenes the day after the election.

HANDLES BRIBE MONEY

White is said to have confessed to Gardner Saturday that he had received $2,000 from Constable Raymond Bengle, of Aleppo township, to obtain two confessions or "statements," which had been made in a liquor extortion case involving three other constables besides Bengle and a justice of the peace. The five "peached" regarding the theft of the confessions after they had been found guilty in Criminal court.

"We are going to the bottom of this case," declared Gardner. "I am not sure that this bribery will be taken up first by the grand jury when it reconvenes, but I am sure that no time will be lost in sifting it to the bottom."

City Detectives John Crouse and William O'Brien reported to Gardner today saying that they had been ordered by Police Supt. P. P. Walsh to lend any assistance possible in solving the theft of the papers from the office of the city detectives. Gardner said he would be glad to welcome the co-operation.

Assignment of the two detectives on the case was the first definite move of the city police to aid in running down the theft of the papers.

GARDNER NOT READY

Attorney Harry Miller maintains that Ber[illegible], his client, was framed by one of the factions fighting for the booze privileges. He said the entire story will be told to the grand jury probing graft whenever Gardner is ready to hear it.

Gardner said this morning, however, that the grand jury will not hear the bribery story this week, as he is anxious to have the presentments in the graft case prepared and presented to Judge James B. Drew as soon as possible. The jury has been ordered to lose no time in returning some of the 200 indictments the district attorney expects by Friday.

The story told by Miller and the admissions made by White will be gone into at detail today by the District Attorney and his assistants, who will question White. Although he admits taking the money from one of the constables he has denied turning over the alleged confessions.

One of the constables in telling his story to the court said that, after the money had been paid to White, certain evidence was given to the constable at the detective bureau by someone connected with the office.

SUN-TELEGRAPH TOPS CIRCULATION RECORD

A new peak was attained yesterday in the steadily mounting circulation of the Pittsburgh Sunday Sun-Telegraph. Net sales reached an unprecedented figure. The demand for the paper reached extraordinary proportions. By 8 o'clock in the morning the reserve supply in the press and distributing rooms was exhausted. By noon most of the news stands had sold out.

From far and wide came calls for the Sunday Sun-Telegraph. News dealers had laid in large stocks, but they had failed to gauge the intensity of the popular demand. The consequence was that clamorous messages came pouring in from all quarters for more papers.

The Sunday Sun-Telegraph has the largest circulation ever attained by any Pittsburgh paper, and the new high-water mark establishes a new record not only for this newspaper but for Pittsburgh.

It is expected that this record will not stand long. The momentum of the upward movement in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's circulation will, it is believed, soon carry it to new heights.

The phenomenal sale yesterday is attributed to the completeness of the paper. The beautiful color gravure section, with its faithful reproduction of famous paintings, local scenes, and portraits of well-known persons, attracted thousands. The comics also drew thousands, while the complete novel and other features were magnets that brought people in crowds to the news stands. The news columns were, of course, comprehensive and up to the minute.

VAUCLAIN TALKS FOR HOOVER TOMORROW

Business men and women of Pittsburgh, under the leadership of J. S. Crutchfield, prominent produce merchant and Democrat, are sponsoring a mass booster meeting in the interest of the Hoover-Curtis presidential campaign to be held tomorrow night in the auditorium of Schenley High School.

Samuel L. Vauclain, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, and Mrs. A. S. Kech, of Altoona, vice chairman of the Blair County Republican Committee, will be the speakers.

The Hoover Business League, an organization of prominent men and women, is sponsoring the meeting. The league, organized here about a month ago, is actively engaged in assisting the Hoover campaign. Tomorrow's meeting is the first of a series planned here.

Associated with Mr. Crutchfield in forming the league were a number of other prominent Pittsburgh business men, including Jesse C. Stewart, G. E. Sutter, C. P. Goetz, Frank Cruikshank, Sr.; Thomas E. Perry, Jr.; W. H. Stevenson, A. V. Mason, George M. Meyer, George T. Henderson, Fred C. Haller, C. H. Lehmann and O. G. Butts.

NON-PARTISAN BODY

Other prominent members include Mrs. C. A. Verner, A. L. Humphrey, Roy A. Hunt, Robert L. McKallip, Howard Heinz, F. Wilbur Main, C. P. Nicola, B. G. Follansbee, Horace F. Baker, William H. Robinson, B. U. Follansbee, J. W. Oliver and T. P. Gaylord.

The purpose of the league is to promote mass meetings at which prominent speakers will explain why Herbert Hoover deserves the election to the presidency of the United States. The league is a non-partisan organization, according to its organizers.

Mr. Crutchfield will act as chairman of the meeting. In an interview today, he described the league's policies in the following statement:

"Hoover is the best qualified man by experience and administrative capacity to assume the heavy responsibilities of the presidency. Business men throughout the nation realize the desirability of stability and confidence in governmental affairs during the next four years. Under the Coolidge, Hoover and Mellon administration, distinct progress has been made in this direction. The burden of proof rests upon the Democratic party to show why the present administration should be thrown out of office and the Democratic party, under the leadership of Alfred E. Smith, substituted."

THAW LOSES IN $600,000 GIFT SUIT APPEAL

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—The Supreme Court today sustained a Circuit Court decision canceling a gift of $600,000 to Lawrence Thaw, of New York, from his grandmother, Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, of Pittsburgh. The action was taken in denying Thaw's petition for a writ of review.

The Circuit Court held that Thaw had been derelict in his duty in failing to advise his grandmother that the gift and income tax on the gift amounted to $92,000.

ESCAPED THIEF IDENTIFIED

Basil Banghart, arrested in Philadelphia Saturday, was identified today by the secret service operatives here as the convict who escaped from a United States deputy marshal in the Federal Building on October 16.

Banghart has two escapes to his credit. In the penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., for stealing autos, he and three others sawed their exit two years ago. In October he was recaptured in Bedford with another stolen auto. He escaped here.

WESTINGHOUSE LOSES IN RADIO LITIGATION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—(AP.)—The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company today was denied title to the "regenerative" or "feedback" circuit, a basic feature in radio amplification, used in many receiving sets. The Supreme Court announced, without opinion, that the decision of the lower court was affirmed on authority cited.

FIRST SNOW FALLS, FREEZE DUE TONIGHT

The first general freeze of the season is scheduled for tonight. Snow flurries in various parts of the city, the first of the fall, presaged the freezing temperatures. Tomorrow will bring rain or snow, and there is no hope for mild weather at present.

In the Southwest snow and rain were general today and in the Middle West there was snow. Either of these areas might sweep into Pittsburgh tomorrow, bringing their own particular brand of weather.

In the East End today there were intermittent snow storms. One shortly after noon lasted about 10 minutes.

The official prediction is for 30 degrees tonight.

STOWAWAY FOUND ON ZEP OUT AT SEA

(Copyright, 1928, by International News Service. Reproduction in whole or in part expressly prohibited.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—The first airship stowaway in history was found today upon the Graf Zeppelin, a few hours after it had begun its return trans-Atlantic flight from Lakehurst, N. J., to Friedrichshafen, Germany, according to word received here at noon today by International News Service.

He is Clarence Terhune, aged 19, of 2022 North Union boulevard, St. Louis, who had been working as a caddy at the Rye (N. Y.) Country Club.

Capt. Lehmann, of the Graf, put the youth to work washing dishes in the galley.

Terhune, whose life ambition was to make the flight, went to Lakehurst and boarded the ship through the mail hatch at 8 o'clock last night. In the bustle of preparation for the departure and leave-taking, Terhune was completely overlooked.

The young stowaway was discovered at 8 o'clock sitting on a mail bag. He told the ship's captain that he had been making plans for his trip for three months.

The Zeppelin passed the steamship Division, inbound, and a big unidentified outbound Cunarder shortly before 10:30 a. m. At that time the air liner was making 70 miles an hour with a stiff quarter wind. She was approximately 110 miles southeast of Cape Sable, Nova Scotia.

SIGHTED BY FISHERMEN

CHATHAM, Mass., Oct. 29.—Boldly driving her way homeward over the Atlantic with a tailwind at her back, the air liner Graf Zeppelin, the world's mightiest airship, threw the big fishing fleet on the Grand Banks into a state of wild excitement today.

As the mammoth dirigible, carrying 24 passengers and a crew of 40 from Lakehurst, N. J., to Friedrichshafen, Germany, poked her nose out of the misty air above the fishing grounds the deep sea fishermen of the United States, Nova Scotia, Newfoundland and the French provinces were taken completely by surprise.

Radio operators on the trawlers and some of the two and three masters of the fishing fleet jumped to their keys and in a moment the air was humming with dots and dashes telling of the arrival of the giantess of the air.

Radio operators at the Radia Marine Corporation station here were flooded with messages and pictured in their minds a scrambling about the deck of the fishing fleet and of men standing in dories in the 200-mile area covered by the heavy smell of the Atlantic in that vicinity as they saw the air leviathan pass some 1,000 feet over their heads.

Before and after the Zeppelin passed over the fishing fleet, some 300 miles east and south of Newfoundland, the air liner had been

Ottinger Nominated On His Record, Not As Jew—W. R. Hearst

Following is a telegram sent to William Randolph Hearst by J. W. Block of the Independent Civic League of New York, and Mr. Hearst's reply to the same, as published in the New York American:

"NEW YORK, Oct. 26, 1928.

"William Randolph Hearst,
"Los Angeles Examiner.

"Mr. Untermyer is virtually criticizing the nomination of Ottinger for governor of New York, stating that Ottinger was nominated by the Republican party because he is a Jew and solely as a foil to the campaign of bigotry waged by the National Republican party. Untermyer further says that Lehman, the Democratic party's candidate for lieutenant governor, is a better Jew than Ottinger, thus trying to create a race issue. The public would greatly welcome any comment from you on this subject. We greatly deplore attempts to make race and creed political issues in this free country.

"(Signed) INDEPENDENT CIVIC LEAGUE,
J. W. BLOCK."

"Oct. 27, 1928.

"J. W. Block,
"123 Fifth Avenue, New York.

"In answer to your telegram, let me say that Mr. Ottinger is a friend of mine and perhaps I am prejudiced, but in my opinion there is no better man, no better Jew, no better friend and no better citizen than Mr. Ottinger.

"I do not know by what authority Mr. Untermyer assumes to decide that Mr. Lehman is a better Jew than Mr. Ottinger, and I say this without reflection upon Mr. Lehman, who I also know to be a very fine gentleman.

"If, as you say, Mr. Untermyer states that Mr. Ottinger was nominated for governor solely as 'a foil to the campaign of bigotry waged by the National Republican party,' I would like to say two things in reply:

"FIRST—That there seem to be plenty of good sound patriotic reasons why Mr. Ottinger should have been nominated and I do not see why Mr. Untermyer should ignore these reasons. Was not Mr. Ottinger, Republican, elected attorney general of the State of New York two years ago at a time when Mr. Smith, Democrat, carried the state for governor by two hundred and fifty thousand majority?

"Does not that fact show that the citizens of New York State like Mr. Ottinger and want Mr. Ottinger?

"Why then should the Republican party not nominate a man whom the citizens of the state like and want as a public servant?

"Furthermore, has not Mr. Ottinger, as attorney general, made a most excellent record, using the full power of his office to serve and protect the people of New York State, and are not these reasons of popularity and public service sufficient reasons for nominating him for governor of New York State?

"Suppose the Republican party had NOT nominated Mr. Ottinger, could it then not have been accused, and justly accused, of failing to recognize ability and conscientiousness in the service of the party and the service of the public?

"And would not Mr. Untermyer then have arisen upon

BUSH PIRATE BOSS FOR ANOTHER YEAR

By JAMES J. LONG.

Owen J. (Donie) Bush will manage the Pittsburgh baseball club again next year.

Official confirmaton of this was obtained following a conference between President Barney Dreyfuss and Manager Bush in the office of the Pirate magnate at Forbes Field yesterday.

Bush has not yet signed a contract, but he will do so in a day or two, as soon as a regulation form can be forwarded to him at his home in Indianapolis. Financial terms and all other details have been agreed upon, so that the signing of a contract will be mere formality. The agreement reached is for one year.

CONFERENCE BRIEF

Though Bush made two visits to Pittsburgh during the last 10 days, first to see the Carnegie Tech-W. & J. football game on October 20 and last Saturday to witness the Carnegie Tech-Pitt gridiron contest, it was not until yesterday that an opportunity presented itself for the manager and President Dreyfuss to get together for a business talk on the subject of a 1929 contract.

The conference was brief, only a short time being required for the two to come to terms that were mutually satisfactory.

Bush admitted after the confab that he had agreed to manage the Buccaneers next year for his third successive season, and that all details of the agreement had been closed.

"Everything is O. K. and I am glad to say that I am going to remain with the Pirates next year," Donie said. "It does not take long to come to terms with such a fair and liberal employer as Mr. Dreyfuss. I am delighted with the terms of my contract and with the manner in which he always supports me and backs up my judgment in the handling of the club.

"He is the finest man in baseball to work for, and it will be a

GIVES CITY VOICE IN FIXING FARE

The city would have a voice in fixing a "reasonable" fare for buss passengers, under the terms of an ordinance presented today to Council. The measure was referred to committee and will likely be discussed tomorrow.

The ordinance was accompanied by a letter from Charles A. Waldschmidt, city solicitor, stating that Council had requested the legislation last October 10.

Replying to Council's question, Waldschmidt declared the existing agreement with the Pittsburgh Railways Company does not deal with motor buss operation because at the time it was executed, four years ago, the buss service had not been started.

The new ordinance closely follows the letter and spirit of the bill relating to street car service particularly in placing jurisdiction of the buss company in the hands of the Traction Conference Board, a municipal activity.

In that connection, Waldschmidt called attention to a letter from A. W. Robertson, president of the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, stating that the busses would be placed under the jurisdiction of the Traction Conference Board any time Council desired in advance of the decision on the pending ordinance.

The "reasonable" fare will be determined by deducting the operation cost and depreciation loss from the revenues of the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company.

Waldschmidt has inserted a clause in the pending bill which obligates the company to certify "promptly" to the Traction Conference Board the amount of capital invested and any later financing in order to fix definitely the actual cost of the enterprise.

SCHWAB GIVES G.O.P. $25,000

Charles M. Schwab, head of the board of directors of the Bethlehem Steel Company, has contributed $25,000 to the Hoover-Curtis campaign, according to Sherman Farrell, Republican chairman of Cambria county, at a regional meeting of party leaders here today.

Attending the meeting were State Chairman Edward Martin, Charles Johnson, secretary of the state committee; A. Boyd Hamilton, secretary of the State Senate; W. L. Mellon, County Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong and leaders from 14 western counties.

FLA. WIND TOLL 1,836 DEAD

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Oct. 29.—(AP.)—Six weeks after the tropical hurricane, Red Cross officials have announced their official casualty estimate, placing the number of dead at 1,836 and of injured at 1,870 for the entire storm area.

Although various figures have been quoted previously, these were given out at headquarters as representing the first officially complete estimate based on actual figures assembled by workers in each district.

SMITH STARTS FINAL WEEK HOPEFULLY

INVADES MARYLAND FOR TALK TONIGHT

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.
International News Service.

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 29.—Gov. Al Smith set forth today on the final week of the campaign calmly confident and determined to make one of those whirlwind finishes for which he has become famous in his state campaigns in New York.

He enters the drive down the stretch encouraged by the detailed report he received on the general outlook from his National Chairman, John J. Raskob, and refreshed from a week-end rest in the country. Gov. Smith spent the week-end at Raskob's home near here, and for the first time in many hard traveling weeks he had an opportunity to make a detailed survey of the national situation with his campaign director. He said everything "looked all right."

STRENUOUS WEEK

The final week is to be a strenuous one for the Democratic candidate. He will deliver four speeches, more than he has yet attempted in a similar period. They will cover three states, Maryland, New Jersey and New York, three states that are highly important to the Smith cause if, indeed, they are not vital. New York is vital anyway, for no political authority can conceive of a Democratic victory one week from tomorrow should Gov. Smith lose his own state's 45 electoral votes.

Today Gov. Smith invades Maryland, a keen battleground, as always in national campaigns. Although usually Democratic in state elections, Maryland has a habit of annoying the Democrats by giving her eight electoral votes to the Republicans in national elections.

Woodrow Wilson alone of the Democrats since Cleveland has carried the Free State. Bryan lost it three times, once by only 605 votes. Parker lost it in 1904 by a bare 51 votes.

Four years ago Coolidge carried Maryland, but was not a majority winner as the combined Davis-La Follette vote exceeded his by 32,000. It is the Democratic task this year to hold the normal Democratic vote and capture the LaFollette following of three years ago—the same job they have had to tackle in so many western states.

DEMOCRATS CONFIDENT

The Democrats are very confident of Maryland, despite reports of Democratic disaffection in the usually Democratic rural counties because of the religious issue. Their hopes are predicated chiefly on Baltimore city, with its big wet vote. Baltimore city and county cast a little more than half of the entire vote of the state. Four years ago John W. Davis got an even split in the counties of Maryland, but lost Baltimore city and so lost the state.

Gov. Smith's bid for Baltimore will be made in a speech delivered tonight in the same auditorium that saw Woodrow Wilson's nomination in the famous deadlocked convention of 1912. Preceding the speech there will be an hour's parade through the business section of the city, beginning at the Mount Royal station, where the Smith special arrives at 3 p. m.

Tomorrow Gov. Smith returns to New York to finish. Wednesday night he will motor to Newark to speak, Friday night will see him in Brooklyn, and Saturday night he will close the campaign, as he has always done, with a gigantic rally in Madison Square Garden.

The battleground for the closing week embraces 67 electoral votes. Of this group, New Jersey's 14 are causing the Democrats most worry. Eight weeks ago they were as confident of carrying New Jersey as they were New York. But some remarkable Republican organization work, together with what leaders call "Democratic blundering" in the Democratic strongholds of North Jersey, in Hudson and Essex counties, have combined to change the picture.

Gov. Smith will motor in from Raskob's home near Claymont and board his special train here at 1:15 p. m. for the hour and three-quarters trip to Baltimore.

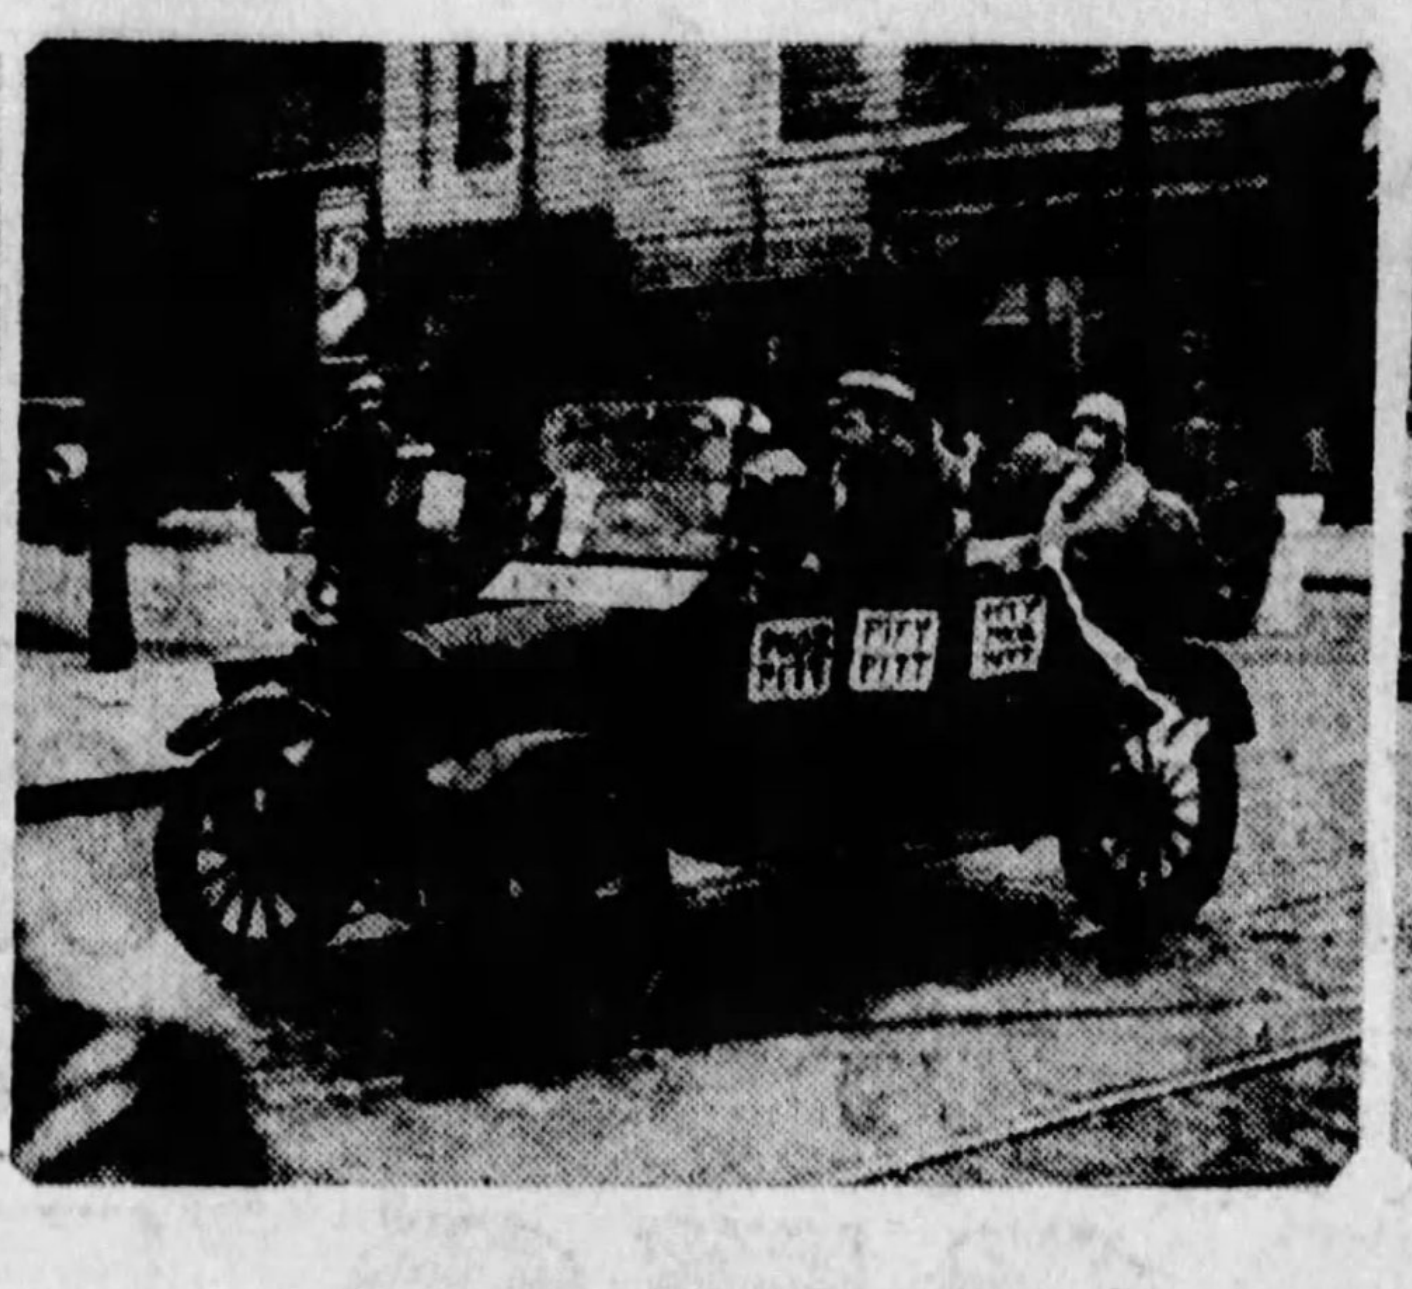
SOLD 90-CENT DOPE DOSE TO LIMB OF LAW FOR $50

Charged with selling narcotics, valued at 90 cents, to a government agent for $50, William Whitman, said to be part owner of the Soho pharmacy, 2200 Fifth avenue, will be given a hearing before a United States commissioner. He was arrested Saturday.

Police "Halt" Parade :-: Tech Whoops It Up Downtown :-: Capitulates to Law

DETERMINATION

Victorious Techites, determined to celebrate their 6-0 triumph over Pitt, found the road downtown blocked by police who turned them back at Forbes street and Craft avenue. Here they are "on their way back" to the campus.



RECONSIDERATION

A lone "flivver" followed the Kiltie band back to the campus, although 25 or 30 started out to make "whoopee." To say they were disappointed over being barred from celebrating downtown would be putting it mildly. They were actually heart-broken.

REDETERMINATION

But patrol wagons and blue-coats held no terror for the big noise boys and girls. They heeded the order of police as far as an organized parade was concerned, but came downtown in groups, yelling and singing at the tops of their voices.

OPEN FOR PARKING

CAPITULATION

They simply had to let Pittsburgh and the rest of the world in on their big time and swarmed through downtown streets, making lots of "boom-boom." An emissary from Inspector James N. Hoey met them astride a motorcycle and told them about the shiny black patrol wagons, so ye studes went back to their campus.

STOWAWAY ON ZEPPELIN

reported by more than a score of steamships.

Radio operators here said that it seemed as if almost every steamship within radio reach of Chatham had sighted the Zeppelin or had picked up news of her and relayed it to shore.

ZEPPLIN SPEEDING

It takes a coastguard cutter four days to run to the Grand Banks, but it took the mighty dirigible less than that number of hours.

The Graf Zeppelin, according to radio reports from her own radio operator and from the radio operators aboard the various liners, apparently was this afternoon proceeding smartly over the New York, Bremen, Antwerp and Harburg steamship lane. This is slightly to the south of the lane used by the Montreal, Quebec, Glasgow and Liverpool steamships.

Leaving Cape Cod at 6:25 a. m., the Zeppelin was sighted by a steam trawler at 7:16 a. m., in latitude 41.29 north, longitude 68.47 west. At 10:15 a. m. she was reported in latitude 42.26 north, longitude 64.15 west.

The Zeppelin was making fast time with the aid of the west northwest tailwind and was meeting with fair weather. At all times of the year a slight haze hangs over the grand fishing banks, but once out of this the Zeppelin again went into clear atmosphere, the bright sun shining on her silver sides. It was cold off the Newfoundland coast, however, but those on board were protected from the icy blasts of the North Atlantic.

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN.
International News Service.

NAVAL AIR STATION, LAKEHURST, N. J., Oct. 29.—Like some fantastic creature of a fairyland, the dirigible Graf Zeppelin soared into a star-lit sky and a hanging full moon early today on the start of her return voyage to Friedrichshafen, Germany, with 63 men and one woman on board. She left the ground with a roar of her five mighty engines at precisely 1:54:30 a. m.

Majestically, almost haughtily it seemed, she rose with the moon beaming down upon her glistening silver sides. She moved slowly and serenely forward and upward, and then swung [illegible] a wide arc. She appeared to be suspended at times as she proudly circled the lights atop the hangar and headed in a northeasterly direction toward the expansive Atlantic with New York City directly in her path.

Cheers burst from the throats of a little band of several hundred thrilled spectators as gradually the lights of the great air liner disappeared from view in the night. For they had witnessed a spectacle that held them breathless and thrilled beyond expression.

CREW IS CALM

They had seen every detail of the dramatic departure. The farewell kisses. The tuning up of the motors in the hangar. The removal of the ship from the hangar. The calm concern of the crew. The bravery of the passengers. And they had joined in the cries of "Auf Wiedersehen."

It was exactly 12:30 a. m. when the motors of the Zeppelin began to hum in the hangar, signalling that the departure was imminent.

"Passengers and crew aboard," was the order of Capt. F. Lehman, third in command.

One by one the passengers mounted the wooden platform that had been built alongside the cabin of the ship. Among the first to enter was Mrs. Clara Adams, of Tannersville, Pa., the lone woman passenger.

"I'm thrilled beyond words," she exclaimed as she waved good-by, to a woman friend in the crowd.

She is a tall, slender woman, the wife of George L. Adams, a retired cannery magnate, and a close friend of Commander Hugo Eckener. She wore a brown ensemble suit, a velour coat with fox collar and a wine-colored hat trimmed in ostrich. Her husband was not present. He had telephoned her "bon voyage" from New York shortly before her departure.

"I'm not the least bit worried," she told International News Service. "You'll hear from me from Germany within three days. Dr. Eckener and his men will see to that."

ECKENER'S SON KISSED

Knute Eckener, the Commander's handsome 24-year-old son, was given a pleasant surprise when Miss Doris Horowitz, secretary to Joseph D. Jessel, one of the passengers, dashed up on the platform and without any ado planted a kiss full upon his lips.

Eckener blushed furiously, but he returned the kiss.

"Kiss her again," the spectators called out, amid applause.

Miss Horowitz, however, flitted away before he could do it.

A pretty woman in a red hat, Mrs. George N. Crouse, of Syracuse, N. Y., dashed up the steps and entered the cabin to say farewell to her husband. A few minutes later he came to the cabin door and gave her a farewell kiss.

"I wish I was going with him," Mrs. Crouse remarked. Other farewells were said and soon everything was in readiness to move the ship from the hangar where it had been berthed beside the dirigible Los Angeles.

The ground crew of 260 men, sailors in blue uniforms with natty white caps, had assembled at the west end of the hangar. Three blasts from the naval station siren called them to ship. They took their positions at the "spider" ropes which dangled from the dirigible. Other men removed the blocks from beneath the Zeppelin.

Then the electrically propelled doors, weighing thousands of pounds, swung open at the east end. And shortly thereafter the doors on the west end were partly opened, too. At 12:27 a. m. the command was given to remove the Zeppelin from the hangar. The sailors seized the ropes while about 30 others held down the control cabin.

Slowly the dirigible was walked out, stern first, through the east door. The ship moved out backwards along a narrow railroad track, clearing the hangar at 12:33. She was walked directly for about 200 yards further.

EERIE APPEARANCE

Silhouetted against the moonlit sky, the 110-ton Zeppelin presented a never-to-be-forgotten picture. As she lay sprawled out on her belly she looked like some strange prehistoric creature that had come to inhabit the earth. The bright moon glistened on the upper part of her silver body, imparting an eerie appearance. Slowly her nose was turned around to face a southwesterly direction, and away from the hangar doors. Then, like some strange beast, she crawled along the grass. She moved forward about 100 yards or so and came to a dead stop.

There was a pause.

"Weight ship," shouted Clarke.

The motors began to roar. The 30 men holding the bars surrounding the control cabin raised the dirigible above their heads. The ship gradually pointed her nose upwards.

A few minutes later she was high above the ground, her hull straightened out. Only a light breeze was blowing, just enough to unfurl the white flags atop the hangar. Slowly the white cabin lights, the green lights on the starboard side and the red lights on the port side disappeared from view.

The Zeppelin carried 24 passengers and a crew of 40 officers and men when it left.

Ten of the passengers had made the western trip from Germany to Lakehurst in the giant air liner. The other 14 are making their first trip aboard the dirigible.

Lady Grace Drummond Hay, the only woman passenger on the westward trip, was not on board. Neither was Karl Von Weigand, another newspaper correspondent who made the first journey.

WOMAN GETS ZEP RADIO

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 29.—(AP.)—Mrs. Donald M. Casto today received the following message from her husband aboard the Graf Zeppelin on its return flight to Germany:

"Daybreak. Heading over North Atlantic. Motors perfect. Wonderful weather."

The message was sent at 6:45 this morning.

SHOOTS AT HALLOWEEN GANG; WOUNDS NEIGHBOR

Annoyed by Halloween pranks of boys, Paul Miller, 40, of Kittanning pike, O'Hara township, opened the front door of his home, last night, and fired one shot. George Bissell, 53, a nearby resident, who was walking along the road in front of the Miller home, fell with a bullet in his right leg. He was removed to Citizens General Hospital.

Miller was arrested by state police and held for a hearing before Justice of the Peace Albert Lorch, charged with felonious shooting.

Prophets See Hard Winter Ahead

MERCER, Pa., Oct. 29.—Look out for a hard winter, predict some of the goose-quill prophets who draw their conclusions from the fact that the trees had a heavy coating of leaves this year, others from the depth to which animals are digging in.

None of the local weather bureaus predict any immediate arrival of the season. All join in a promise of Indian summer in November.

BAR CARNEGIE WHOOPEE MAKERS IN DOWNTOWN

Carnegie Tech students, determined to celebrate their 6-0 grid victory over the Pitt Panther Saturday, found the road downtown, mecca for all celebrations, blocked by police this morning.

Three patrol wagons awaited them with orders to give the "whoopee" boys a ride to the nearest station house, they were told. The parade turned around to return to the campus. The bluecoats smiled. They were satisfied.

Less than half an hour later, however, Inspector James N. Hoey, in charge of the downtown district, found himself with between 30 and 40 automobiles loaded with howling students bent on letting Pittsburgh and the rest of the world know all about Saturday's game.

The patrol wagons were poised for instant flight. Mr. Hoey sent an emissary on a motorcycle to tell the boys to go back to their campus and behave themselves. The parade then turned back toward Oakland.

Enthusiasm of Tech students will cost the city about $500.

After midnight Saturday, a group of jubilant students armed with cans of paint and brushes, smeared practically every traffic sign in Oakland district. When traffic patrolmen went on duty this morning, they did not know whether they were directing traffic to go or stop.

The students obliterated the words "stop" and "go" by painting over the words. The signs will have to be repainted. It was estimated that the cost will be about $500.

Won't Be Long Now—Snow in Nebraska

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 29.—(AP.)—Much of South Central Nebraska was given a light fall of snow yesterday, the first of the year in this section of the state. Telegraph reports showed that light snow fell as far west as Grand Island, while at Hastings the flakes came drifting down almost the entire day.

BUC PILOT TO STAY

great pleasure to remain in his employ and to continue as manager in such a great ball town as Pittsburgh. I will do everything in my power to give the city a winning team in 1929."

DREYFUSS CONFIRMS

When President Dreyfuss was reached he confirmed the retention of Bush as manager.

"Bush will manage the Pittsburgh club again next year," he said. "Terms have been accepted and everything is closed. The only reason why Bush did not sign a contract was the fact that I did not have a blank form with me at the time of our conference. But that is only a formality now that we have reached an agreement. A man's word is enough for me. I shall send him a contract within the next few days, but the signing of it will be merely a matter of form.

"I am entirely satisfied with Bush's work here during his two years as manager of the Pirates, and have every confidence in him. The fact that our club did not finish as high in the 1928 pennant race as had been expected before the season began was not due to any fault on the part of Manager Bush.

"Injuries, illness and other handicaps during the first part of the season ruined our chances for a higher position than the one in which we finished. Those were matters over which Bush had no control and he could not be held responsible for them. He did as well as any manager could have done under the circumstances. I am confident that he will get better results next year."

Though there never was any ground for doubt that Bush would remain as manager of the Corsairs in 1929, the official announcement that he is to stay will serve to kill the wild rumors that have been going the major rounds that there might be a change in the managership of the Pirates next year and that Donie might go to another club.

Until the signing of Bucky Harris recently to manage the Detroit club it was reported several times that Bush was being sought by the Tiger owners and that he had actually conferred with President Frank J. Navin on the proposition of becoming pilot of the Jungaleers.

These reports were indignantly denied at the time by Bush, who said he would not be guilty of dickering with the owner of any club while in the employ of another.

Other rumors that Bush might leave Pittsburgh to manage a club elsewhere next year have cropped out since, but yesterday's developments proved that none of them had any foundation.

Bush left last night for his home in Indianapolis, where he will remain for a few days before going to Florida on a vacation trip, following which he will take up the work of shaping Pirate training plans for next spring and taking preliminary steps in a trade or two that he has in mind.

DARROW SPEAKS HERE FOR SMITH WEDNESDAY

Pittsburgh is to have an opportunity of hearing Clarence Darrow, noted lawyer, discuss the questions at issue in the present presidential campaign when he speaks in Carnegie Music Hall, Oakland, next Wednesday night. The coming of Darrow here to speak in the interests of Gov. Smith will be one of the closing features of the Democratic campaign in Allegheny county. Announcement that Darrow would speak here was made last night by Democratic County Chairman David L. Lawrence.

MAN BEATEN TO DEATH IN MINE WAR

Mine warfare added another victim to its long list of casualties today. Louis A. Davis, 24, of Gallatin, was beaten to death under the Axleton freight station of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad and his brother, Matthew Davis, 23, was severely injured. Five men were arrested.

Louis Davis is alleged by the men under arrest to have called Charles Carney, Monongahela, a "scab," because he had returned to work in the Gallatin mine. A free-for-all fight followed in which Louis Davis was killed and his brother injured. County Detective James Reddington arrested Carney, James Newman, Paul Partzano, America Phillips and John Kozon, all of Warren street, Monongahela. They are alleged to have been implicated in the fight.

M'CLINTIC BUYS BRIDGE PLANT AT BUFFALO

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

The McClintic-Marshall Company, one of the largest structural steel fabricators in this district, has expanded its facilities for reaching markets in the Buffalo district by the purchase of the bridge works of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation at Buffalo, N. Y., it was announced today.

A subsidiary organization, the McClintic-Marshall Company, of Buffalo, has been incorporated to operate the new unit.

Incorporation papers grant the company rights to fabricate not only bridges, but also ships and locomotives, although there are no existing facilities for ship building at the plant. The subsidiary is capitalized at 5,000 shares of no par stock.

C. D. Marshall, president of the McClintic-Marshall Company; E. A. Gibbs, general manager, and Earle J. Patterson, secretary, are among the incorporators of the Buffalo organization.

The acquisition of the Buffalo plant will make the sixth link in the McClintic-Marshall chain of steel fabricating factories.

Other plants are at Rankin, Leetsdale, Pottstown and Carnegie, Pa., and Chicago.

The McClintic-Marshall Construction Company controls both the McClintic-Marshall Company and the Riter-Conley Manufacturing Company. The latter organization is engaged in the construction of blast furnaces, gas holders and other industrial equipment.

Bethlehem has two other bridge plants, one at Bethlehem and the other at Steelton, Pa.

BOY'S HAND MANGLED, ASKS $25,000 DAMAGES

For the loss of an index finger and the crushing of several others, Albert Benetz, a minor, has brought suit through his mother, Helen Benetz, 4908 Harrison street, against McCrady Bros. Company for $25,000 damages. It is averred in the bill of particulars filed by Campbell, Houck & Nixon that the boy's hand became caught in a dump truck, and in that condition the truck started off, dragging the youth for some distance. The accident happened in Keystone street.

ZEP PLANS 2ND FLIGHT TO U. S. IN FEW WEEKS

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—A second flight from Germany to America with the "Graf Zeppelin" in the next few weeks; a flight around the world next spring breaking all existing records for encircling the globe; an air voyage with passengers, from Europe to South America next fall when the gigantic Zeppelin hangar in Buenos Aires is completed; the building of a new and greatly improved edition of the "Graf Zeppelin" in Germany.

These are the several stages of the tentative plans of Dr. Hugo Eckener to further convince the world that transocean mail and passenger traffic by airship, demonstrated as feasible and practicable by the Graf Zeppelin's flight across the Atlantic, has come to stay and to be developed.

Attacked by one section of the German press, especially by the Socialist and radical Democratic papers, for having sold the news monopoly to the Hearst newspapers and to two German groups in order to finance the first flight to America, jibed at by some American editorial writers for the same reason and for not covering a distance of 6,000 miles in less than 112 hours, though the Atlantic was never before spanned so quickly with passengers, Dr. Eckener told me yesterday before leaving New York for Lakehurst that he is returning to Friedrichshafen greatly encouraged by the tremendous welcome accorded him and his ship in the United States, and determined to go ahead with new plans.

Dr. Eckener said that he plans to make the next flight to America with passengers and mail just as soon after arrival at Friedrichshafen as possible.

DEPENDS ON GAS

"It depends wholly upon whether or not we will have the necessary 'blau' fuel gas," he said. "I have had a report that the gas factory built for us at Friedrichshafen by a German firm has again broken down."

The flight around the world with landings at Tokio, San Diego and Lakehurst, if it is decided to make it, will not start before the beginning of next May. It will, said Dr. Eckener, depend largely upon whether sufficient hydrogen and "blau" fuel gas can be shipped to Tokio at not too high a cost. It is believed that the "Graf Zeppelin" can encircle the globe with 15 to 20 passengers in 18 to 20 days. The first passenger to register for the world flight, said Dr. Eckener, is Lady Drummond Hay. "And," he said, "there always will be a place for Lady Hay on any Zeppelin that I command."

"The Graf Zeppelin has not been sold to the Spanish company," he said. "That company had an option on the airship for a time, but it has expired and we have declined to renew that option. A flight to South America is not feasible until the hangar now being built in Buenos Aires is completed. That will not be before next fall."

The Graf Zeppelin's successful flight to America has evoked such enthusiasm in Germany that plans are already under way to finance the building of a new passenger Zeppelin which promises to be a considerable advance on the present one.

It will be about 740 feet long, or 23 feet shorter than the Graf Zeppelin, and about 18 feet thicker. Its engine power is expected to be between 4,100 and 4,500 horsepower, which will give a cruising speed of approximately 82 to 84 miles an hour and 90 miles full speed. It is to include a smoking room, passenger accommodations are to be larger, and the wireless installation much more powerful. Also the new Zeppelin will be heated.

One of the new features talked of is that the nose and the stern of the ship will be filled with non-inflammable helium gas as a protection against lightning. In all cases on record of Zeppelins struck by light, it was always on the nose of the ship.

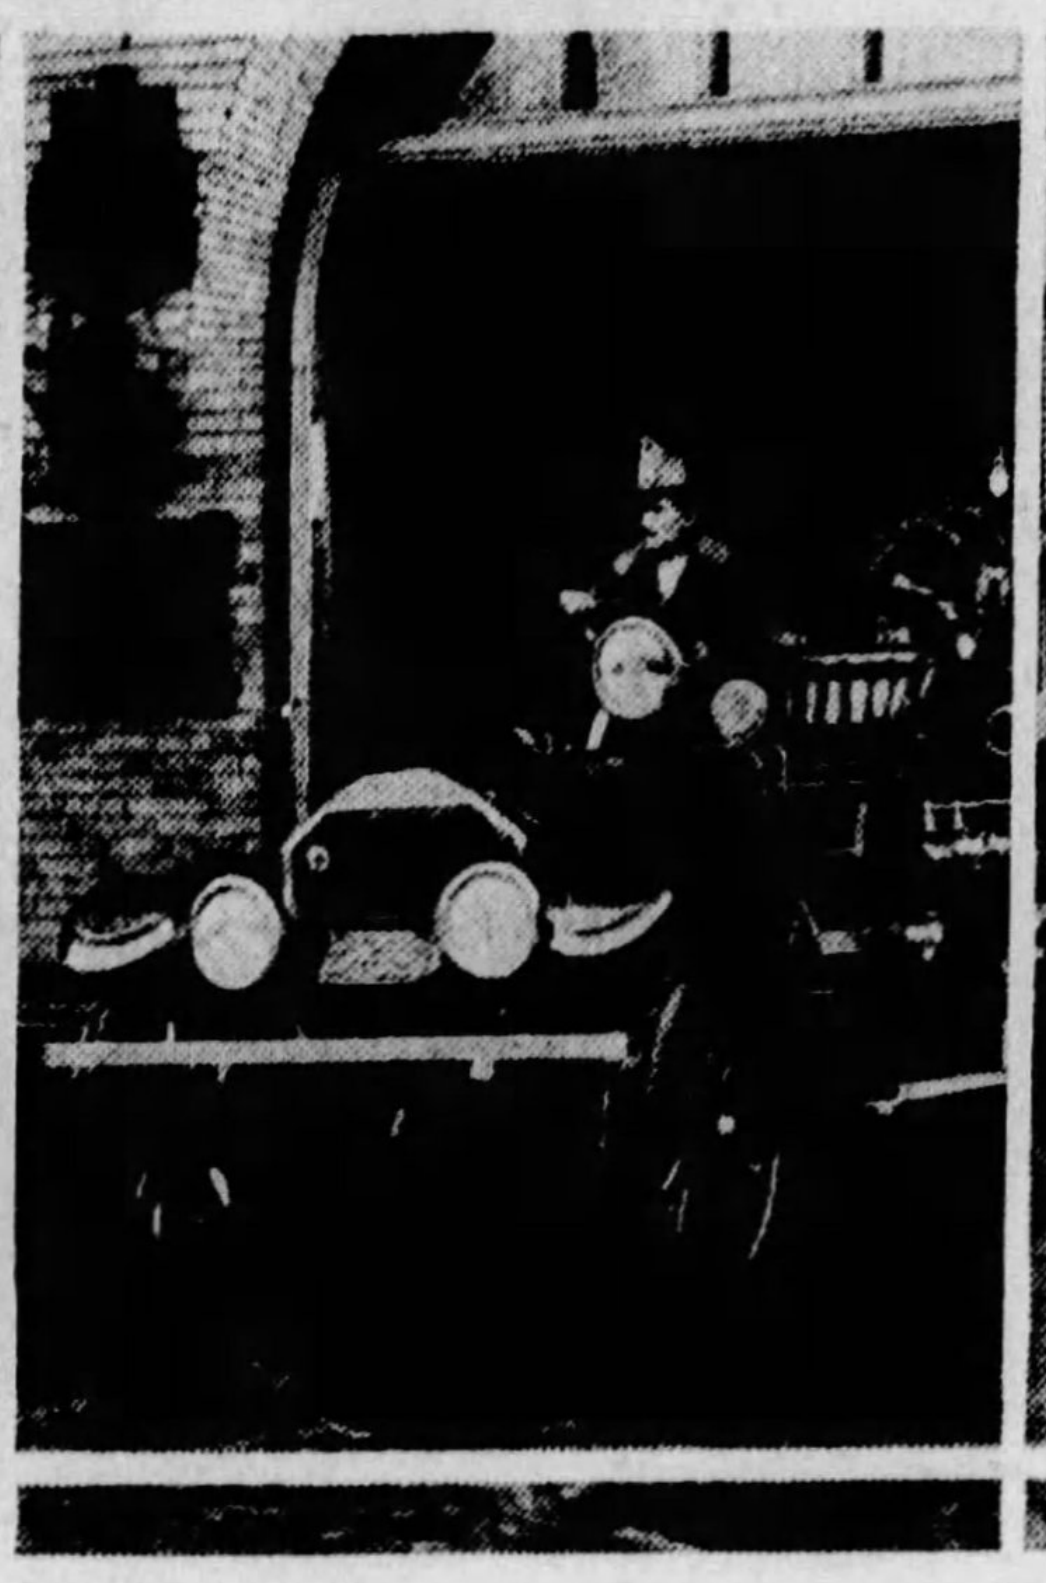
Better Traffic Committee :-: Do You Park Near Fire Hydrants? :-: Hose Carts As Tow Trucks

PLEASE DON'T!
Don't, please, do as this man demonstrates when you park your car. He is directly blocking off a fire-hydrant. There are reasons:



FIRE ALARM
Firemen of No. 38 Hose Company, East Liberty, receiving an alarm, here show in pictures why you shouldn't block off plugs.

SCENE
Here is the end of their run, the fire scene! And parked where the Better Traffic Committee asks you not to park, is a car.

TIME PRECIOUS
And precious time must be taken while firemen seize ropes and tow the car away with one of the much-needed fire wagons.

MANY
Not only one car, but many often must be removed, as here, to save the cars themselves from damage by the fire and smoke.

POLICEMEN AT SUNDAY GAMES, ON PAN

Police who joined spectators and permitted a football game on the Arlington avenue playground to go un unmolested yesterday, will be ordered by Director James M. Clark, of the Department of Public Safety, to explain why they ignored his orders to ban all Sunday games.

Director Clark said today that on Saturday he issued a special order regarding Sunday games and all policemen who failed to carry out its provisons will be ordered to explain.

The Arlington game came to police attention when a riot call was sounded as two ardent football fans started a scrap. The game, which was between the Armstrong Bulldogs and the Wellinger team, was resumed with police permission after the sideline disturbance was quelled.

The only game stopped by police apparently was that of the Soho Oakleaves and Greenfield at Greenfield Community Park. Two policemen appeared as the game was about to start and dispersed the crowd.

Penn avenue police reported no games in their district, but at the West Penn playground only a short distance from the police station the Lawrenceville Mohawks and Tarentum Firemen played a scheduled game before a large crowd. Police denied knowledge that the game was being played, but apparently did not investigate.

Detective Kills Beer Gangster

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—(AP.)—A gun duel left one of Chicago's two leading beer gangs without its chief lieutenant today.

Otto Kosteneck, known also as George Darrow, reputed machine gunner and "torture man" for "the Joe Saltis mob," was dead, the result of a saloon skirmish with Detective Thomas Curtin.

Darrow, at whose door police laid six slayings, was brandishing a shotgun at a bartender and patrons in John Corcoran's saloon when Curtain entered.

"I'll kill you," Darrow shouted.

Three shots from the detective's pistol sent Darrow to the floor, but not before he had sent four shots in Curtin's direction.

Darrow had gone to the saloon, police said, to force the purchase of Saltis beer. Joe Saltis, called the city's "beer baron," has eluded police for more than five months. He is wanted to serve a 90-day sentence for gun-toting.

In referring to Darrow as a "torture man," police explained they meant one who extracted information from rival beer peddlers, even if it was necessary "to get a little rough."

An attempt to kill "Spike" O'Donnell earlier this month was attributed by police to Darrow.

FIRST ALL-COLLEGE POLL 'ELECTS' HOOVER BY 2 TO 1

Herbert Hoover, by a vote of 2-to-1, wins in the first straw vote among American colleges, it was announced today by College Humor, national magazine which conducted the poll.

The registration in September in the 1,104 American colleges comprised in the canvass was 892,808 students, including 544,685 men and 348,123 girls. Hoover won a majority of the student votes in 38 states and the District of Columbia and Gov. Alfred E. Smith was victor in 10 states, Virginia, Maryland, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas.

Hoover received a 3-to-1 vote in the Eastern states, including Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware. His largest vote was in Connecticut, on a ratio of 9-to-1. In this group of states, Smith made his best showing in his own state, New York, the straw vote running 9-to-5 for Hoover.

In the South Smith lost West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Oklahoma, Arkansas and the District of Columbia in the poll. The vote was close in Kentucky and West Virginia, Hoover winning by only three votes in each state.

In the central and western states Hoover received three student votes for each one cast for Smith. In Colorado Smith ran strongest, receiving two votes to each three for Hoover, and in Montana the Hoover ratio was the highest in the nation, 59 to 1. Virginia cast the highest total for Smith and Pennsylvania the highest for Hoover. Smith's best vote was cast in Mt. St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, Maryland, 20 to 1, and Hoover's best vote was cast at Wheaton College, Wheaton, Illinois.

A BIT OF HUMOR

Will Rogers obtained one-half of one per cent of the total student vote. The result at St. John's College, Annapolis, Maryland, was announced: "Hoover 128, Smith 120, Texas Guinan 2, students dry and faculty all wet."

In a statement requested by the [illegible] the entrance of Hoover [illegible] University in 1891 was [illegible]. As an office boy for a [illegible] in Salem, Oregon, a [illegible] engineer captured the imagination of Hoover with talk of the profession. His capital was $100 when he entered college and he worked in the office of the college registrar, became local agent for San Francisco papers and was agent for a laundry to finance his way through school.

During Hoover's second year he organized and managed a co-operative student boarding house, and returning for his junior year after a second summer with a geological survey, he brought forth a plan for control of student activities by a student body. He became treasurer of the student board without salary and also managed a lecture and concert course.

HOOVER MEETS WIFE

Between his junior and senior years he spent another summer with the survey. While a senior he met Miss Lou Henry, also a geology student, whom he later married. After receiving his diploma in May, 1895, Hoover worked as a mine laborer and later went to San Francisco to link his fortunes with those of Louis Janin, leading mining engineer of the world.

Gov. Smith, in a letter to the magazine, wrote:

"Humor is the balance wheel which steers us in the direction of sanity. Without it man loses his sense of proportion and that means his capacity to appraise human values. With it he sees the other fellow's point of view, a quality especially important with public men. A sense of humor is consistent with earnestness of purpose. It conserves our vision without making us visionary. I want my message to appeal to youth. That to me is a test of whether the future is with me and also whether my arteries have hardened. Keep humorous and don't be cynical. Be funny but don't have that coat of varnish which some folks call sophistication. In this spirit I shall conduct my campaign."

COURTHOUSE POLITICAL BILLBOARD

Nothing was done when Italian Democrats asked city and county officials to remove Republican political placards from public buildings. The courthouse had G. O. P. placards in the windows last week. This morning, Democratic posters, plastered, appeared on the surrounding pillars, as above. And a clerk, removing them, quit mysteriously in the midst of his self-appointed task.

Weather Conditions.

The high pressure area, which appeared over the far Northwest on Saturday morning, developed southward and eastward. It now covers nearly the entire country, with its crest over the Dakotas; highest barometer, 30.68 inches, at Devils Lake, Bismarck, and Huron. The most important result of this high barometer is the low temperature. At Bismarck and Devils Lake the temperature is 12 degrees above zero this morning and freezing temperatures occurred as far south as Dodge City, Kans., and eastward to Chicago.

The barometer is low in the far Northeast, and in the Southwest. The Southwest disturbance is causing rain over the southern portion of the high pressure area, from Kansas southward, and as far east as the Mississippi. In Northern Kansas and in Nebraska it is snowing. The rainfall was moderately heavy in Western Arkansas, Oklahoma and Southern Kansas.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling everywhere in the Pittsburgh district. Stage at Pittsburgh is 10.9 feet; Dam No. 2, 8.4, and Dam No. 6, 7.6. The dams are up.

BROWNSVILLE Y GETS 750 NEW MEMBERS

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 29.—The 1928 membership drive of the Brownsville Y. M. C. A. closed Saturday with more than 750 new members being acquired. The local Y had set 600 as its goal, and officials were highly pleased with the outcome of the drive, which lasted only four days.

HOOVER OPENS FARM, LABOR VOTE DRIVE

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—The Republican drive to put Herbert Hoover in the White House entered its final week today with high party leaders launching a climactic effort to keep organized labor and the independent agricultural vote in the Republican column.

Hoover, as the standard-bearer, will direct his efforts this week to winning the border states and to keeping the Republican Mountain states safely in the fold. Hoover will leave here Thursday to speed westward through Maryland, West Virginia, Indiana, Kentucky, Illinois and Missouri. He will make a rear platform appearance in Cumberland, Md., late that day, others in Louisville, Ky., Mt. Vernon, Washington and Vincennes, Ind., and Salem, Ill., Friday, and a prepared address in St. Louis Friday night.

The nominee then will cross Kansas into Colorado, with many stops en route and a lengthy one at Pueblo, after which he will continue through Utah and Nevada to his home in Palo Alto, Cal., to vote in Tuesday's election. His schedule, incidentally, will permit him to make brief stops in Salt Lake City and Ogden, Utah. On the last lap he will make several stops in California.

Hoover will speak in the Public Square at Pueblo on the night of November 2. Pueblo is the home of the Republican national chairman, Dr. Hubert Work.

CITE ROADS RECORD

The drive for farm votes was made by the Republican National Committee in a statement detailing how the Republican administration had improved rural roads in the last eight years. The committee pointed out that the rural vote would be much larger this year than in other presidential campaigns, due to good roads.

The committee declared the Harding-Coolidge administrations had spent $750,000,000 on good roads since 1920, while prior to that year the government had spent but $23,000,000. The mileage of federal roads, it added, was increased from 387,760 to 600,000 miles in the same period.

"One factor which will undoubtedly lead to a heavier rural Republican vote than ever cast before," the committee stated, "will be the improvement of highways under the federal aid system, which is a development by the Republican administration."

DAVIS LEADS DRIVE

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis led the drives for labor votes. He denied Democratic charges that Hoover opposed organized labor at a congressional hearing in 1920. Davis said he had read the record of the hearings and found Hoover's testimony "puts him on record as having every sympathy with organized labor and with the principle of collective bargaining."

"If you want the real opinion of organized labor in regard to Herbert Hoover, read the biography of the late Samuel Gompers," Davis added. "Mr. Gompers was even stronger in his praise of Mr. Hoover at the close of the unemployment conference called by Mr. Hoover in the dark days of 1922, when wages were low, when our public debt was enormous, when business was paralyzed and a former Democratic administration had left us 5,735,000 unemployed."

TRACE BAD BILL, ARREST 3

UNIONTOWN Oct. 29.—Traced to Brier Hill through information given by a taxicab driver on whom a "queer" $10 bill had been passed, three Italians, alleged to be members of a counterfeit gang, were arrested here yesterday and lodged in the Uniontown police station pending the arrival of federal officers.

A basketful of money, including very poor imitations of United States currency, was confiscated by the raiding officers, headed by Acting County Detective John C. Donahoe.

The men gave their names as Frank Biggonia, Dominick Bronton and Angelo Moldo. Officers got the tip when a Republic taxi driver took one of the men to Brier Hill and received a $10 bill in payment. The driver did not notice the bill until he returned to the taxicab office. The authorities then were tipped off.

COLOR GRAVURE SECTION PRAISED BY COL. CHURCH

The following letter, one of the many commending the Sun-Telegraph's color gravure issue of October 21, devoted exclusively to the reproduction in color and monotone of the paintings in the Carnegie Institute International Exhibition of Paintings, was received from Col. Samuel Harden Church, president of the Board of Trustees of Carnegie Institute.

October 22, 1928.

Editor
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph,
Pittsburgh, Pa.

My Dear Sir:

Please permit me to thank you for your public interest in devoting your picture supplement of last Sunday (October 21) to a reproduction of a large and representative group of the paintings in the International Exhibition of the Carnegie Institute. These reproductions were printed with such a degree of excellence as to convey a pleasing idea not only of the subject but of the color values of the paintings, and the comments under each picture are so written as to give an intelligent understanding both as to the picture and the painter. In publishing these pictures I feel that you are rendering to this community a valuable service in stimulating popular interest in an Exhibition which has great educational value. Mr. Homer Saint-Gaudens, director of fine arts, together with his able assistants in Europe, as in past years, has now gathered the best art of the world here. The collection this year is true to the best traditions while showing by courageous variation that the art of painting is alive, full of movement and progress and expressing the social conditions and emotional tendencies of the different painters and of the countries to which they belong.

Sincerely yours,
SAMUEL HARDEN CHURCH,
President.

TO PRINT MORE PICTURES

Reproduction from the International Exhibition of Paintings will be presented from time to time in the color gravure section of The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Next Sunday there will be reproduced in colors on the front page of the color gravure section a painting, "Blowing Bubbles," by Jan Sluyters, leader of the modernist painters of Holland, a painting combining qualities of charm and strength.

In the issue of November 11 there will be reproduced three paintings in monotone from the International. "The Lineman" by Ivan Le Lorraine Albright, an American artist; "Old Woman of Brittany" by Enrique Martinez-Cubells y Ruiz of Spain; and "Chattels" by W. Russell Flint, a British artist.

The International Exhibition of Paintings will be open to the public at the Carnegie Institute until December 9.

GRAFT JURY HUNTS "RACKET" MILLIONS IN BANKS

GARDNER ORDERS POLICE ACCOUNT BOOKS SCANNED

Are there boodle millions of racketeers and conniving police in the vaults of Pittsburgh banks?

When the grand jury reconvenes next week it will seek an answer to that question among the bank books and deposit slips of police officials and others who have made the slot machine and booze rackets pay, District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner promised this today.

He said that in all probability it would be one of the first things brought before the jury when that body again takes up its investigation of Alderman John J. Verona's charges that graft is in the saddle here.

PHILADELPHIA'S CUE

Taking his cue from District Attorney John Monaghan in Philadelphia's graft probe, which uncovered a $12,000,000 racketeer deposit list, Gardner has decided to call bank officials and records in a similar effort.

Before he begins his onslaught on the racket pocketbook, Gardner will go into the sale of confessions which disappeared after raiding constables had made them to city detectives. He was to lay the groundwork today for this inquiry by quizzing Bobby White, alleged go-between for Justice of the Peace C. J. Ranshaw and Constables Raymond Bengle and Frank Hartz. These men, convicted of extortion, told the court they had paid $2,000 to get back statements in which they admitted "shaking down" a North Side saloon keeper.

Introduction of this testimony was to begin November 7, the day after election. Meanwhile, attaches of the District Attorney's office were preparing the presentment of the jury's findings so far, which will be handed to Judge James B. Drew tomorrow.

Judge Drew will return the presentment, and then the jury will hear witnesses—one on each of the 200 or more indictments which Gardner expects the jurors to find.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS KILLS FRANKLIN CHILD

FRANKLIN, Pa., Oct. 29.—Infantile paralysis caused the death last night of Clair Usoff, 18-month-old son of George Usoff, after an illness of 10 days. It was this city's only case of the disease.

SOUTH SIDE GIRL ATTACKED

Beaten and dragged to the head of the South Tenth street steps, Mary Reblish, 19, of 406 Bingham street, was found unconscious last night by Sylvester Martin, a resident of the district, according to a South Side police report.

Martin carried the girl to the home of Mary Sultowski, 854 Windom street. Later she was removed to the South Side Hospital where she was found to have suffered lacerations of lips, hands and face and severe body bruises.

The girl told police, they say, that she was attacked by James Sotheryill, of 624 Brownsville avenue. He is being sought.

GREASE ON STOVE BRINGS FIRE ALARM

When a pedestrian saw smoke issuing from windows of the home of Mrs. Daniel Robinson, 7323 Meade street, he sounded an alarm of fire. Firemen, responding, found that grease burning on the kitchen stove was the cause. There was no damage.

his hind legs and asserted that the reason Mr. Ottinger was not nominated was because he was a Jew?

"WHAT HAS THE FACT THAT MR. OTTINGER IS A JEW OR A CHRISTIAN GOT TO DO WITH THE SITUATION ANYHOW?

"He is a good, loyal public servant and a capable one, and that is all the public wants to know about the matter.

"SECOND—Mr. Untermyer says that the Republican party is waging a campaign of bigotry.

"What nonsense!

"It is Mr. Untermyer who is waging a campaign of bigotry. It is Mr. Untermyer who is bringing up the religious question and taking upon himself to declare that this man or that man should be elected because he is a better Jew, when the only legitimate question is who is the best public servant.

"If Mr. Lehman is so much better than Mr. Ottinger why did not the Democrats nominate him for governor instead of Mr. Roosevelt, who has no claim whatever to the nomination except that he bears the same name as the late President Roosevelt?

"Mr. Untermyer's bigotry and impudence is quite characteristic of the attitude of the Democrats in this campaign and as a matter of plain fact it is not the Republican party at all, but the Democratic party which is conducting this campaign on sectarian lines.

"There is no Republican candidate who has even MENTIONED religion, while the Democratic candidates are hardly talking about anything else.

"Mr. Roosevelt said the other day in a speech in New York that he had met numbers of people in the West and in the South who had said—'Damn the Sixth Amendment of the Constitution,' the amendment which guarantees religious liberty in the United States.

"If Mr. Roosevelt actually met numbers of people in the West and in the South who said 'Damn the Constitution of the United States' he should give the public the names of those disloyal citizens so that they can be held up to public execration; for these men are little better than traitors to our country, and traitors to our government.

"On the other hand, if Mr. Roosevelt cannot give the names of these disloyal citizens and has not told the truth and is traducing the good people of the South and West and has merely invented these statements in order to inflame the minds of the voters and create sectarian dissension among our peaceful and harmonious citizenship, then it is Mr. Roosevelt who comes dangerously near to being a traitor to the country and to the spirit of our American institutions.

"It is about time that these Democratic candidates stopped conducting a sectional and sectarian campaign and shielding themselves behind the accusation that the Republican party is conducting such a campaign when no candidate in the Republican party is even mentioning the subject.

'The American people want to decide this election on the comparative fitness of the candidates and of the practical benefit to the nation of their declared policies.

"And the people will not thank Mr. Untermyer for trying to drag a religious question into politics, nor will they thank Mr. Roosevelt either.

"Any man who injects religion into a political campaign deserves the complete contempt of the American people, because any man who does such a disloyal thing thinks more of politics than he does of religion and thinks more of his own aims and ambitions than he does of the welfare of the nation.

"(Signed) WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST."

PENNINGTON, OFFICIALLY SILENT, FAVORS HOOVER

Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington today indicated, without naming him, the candidate he regarded as not likely to improve prohibition enforcement.

"By the civil service regulations I am prohibited from taking any part in politics," Pennington told the Western Pennsylvania district convention, Anti-Saloon League, in the Second Presbyterian Church, Eighth street, "What I am going to say has no political significance.

"On November 6 you are going to the polls. On the one hand we have a 'wringing wet.' On the other we have a man who has consistently and steadfastly supported the cause of law enforcement. You take your choice and I will take mine."

Pennington told his hearers prohibition enforcement was a success. He declared: "Where law observers and not law breakers are in control of the government the law is being successfully enforced."

"There are 125 saloons doing business openly 'under help' in my district," he asserted.

SHOWS PROFIT

Enforcement has shown a profit of $45,000 to the government over cost, according to Pennington in his district in the last year.

"Official corruption and popular indifference" make enforcement difficult," he declared.

"The church is on the defensive in the fight to retain prohibition," said the Rev. Dr. Joseph F. Berry, retired Episcopal bishop of the Philadelphia district.

"We are fighting with our backs to the wall, but we must not surrender," continued the veteran churchman. "Prohibition is the child of the church. If the church were to cease its agitation for prohibition tomorrow, the preliminaries to repeal the prohibition laws would be begun at the next session of the legislatures."

Characterizing Prohibition Administrator Pennington as the "Moses who is leading us out of the wilderness," the Rev. Dr. D. E. Cruea, superintendent of the league in the Pittsburgh district, praised the work of the local enforcement officers.

The Rev. Homer W. Tope, state superintendent, predicted that four more dry members would be added to the general assembly by the election next week. The prohibition cause is making steady progress, he maintained, because of the fight that is being waged.

BONDS TO BE EXPLAINED TO CO-OPERATIVE CLUB

The Co-operative Club of Pittsburgh will hear an address on "The Welfare Bond Issue" by Attorney William S. Dalzell at its meeting in the Fort Pitt Hotel tomorrow at noon.

SMITH ADDED TO POSTER DISPLAY AT COURT HOUSE

Smith and Hoover both were entrenched on Grant Hill today in the political poster war which is fast giving the Courthouse, City-County Building and other downtown structures the general appearance of billboards.

The Smith enthusiasts evened their score with Hoover supporters over the week-end by plastering the ornamental granite guard rail pillars on the Fifth avenue side of the Court House with their finest "Al Smith For President" posters.

These were placed apparently in retaliation for the scores of Hoover posters which county officials have permitted to be affixed to public building windows.

STOP REMOVAL

Early today a county employe began to wash the Smith posters from the pillars, but after three had been taken off apparently was ordered to stop as he left his job unfinished. No information as to who ordered the employe to either start or stop the job could be obtained at the Court House.

Nor was there any statement from County Commissioners in answer to the demand of Italian Democratic leaders that all political posters be removed from public structures. A committee last week pointed out that the display of such posters in public buildings was a law violation.

A Film Clouds Teeth

You must remove it

Film, too, is the source of serious tooth and gum disorders. Dentists urge special film-removing dentifrice.

THE way your dentist tells you to combat serious tooth and gum disorders is the way screen stars tell you to keep teeth white and gleaming. "Daily remove the dingy film that forms on teeth," they say. For this purpose employ the special film-removing dentifrice called Pepsodent.

FILM destroys teeth

Run your tongue across your teeth and you will feel this film. It absorbs stains from food and smoking and turns white teeth dull. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It is the chief cause of the commoner tooth and gum disorders. Germs by the millions breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Film must be removed each day. Ordinary brushing fails to do it successfully. So dentists urge the special film-removing dentifrice called Pepsodent.

First, Pepsodent curdles film, then removes it in gentle safety to enamel. No other way will make teeth as sparkling white. Write for free 10-day supply to The Pepsodent Co., 1104 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago, or ask your druggist for full-size tube. Find out, without delay, how white your teeth really are. You'll be amazed.

SEIZE PURSE SNATCHER AS GIRL CRIES

Captured by a crowd of pedestrians after he is alleged to have snatched the purse of Miss Sally Klein, of 1330 Penn avenue, who cried for help at Penn avenue and Stanwix street, yesterday morning, Fred Green, 32, Negro, no home, was taken to the Central Police Station by his captors and turned over to Inspector James N. Hoey.

Hoey ushered him into Morals Court before Magistrate A. D. Bran- who then held him for court.

Green, it was said, stole the purse from the girl while she was walking in Penn avenue. He then ran down Duquesne way to Sixth street, where he was caught by men who had heard the victim scream.

OLD FEUD ENDS IN MURDER

An old feud between two Carnegie Negroes ended today when Walter Butler, 32, of 310 Jane street, police say, shot and killed Russell Brooks at the latter's home, 2 Broadway.

Butler is alleged to have emptied a revolver at Brooks, one shot taking effect near the heart, after the two renewed a quarrel. Butler was arrested at his home. Brooks was carried to the office of Dr. George A. Rizner, 201 East Main street, where he was pronounced dead.

Pinchot Through Politically, He Says

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 29.—Gifford Pinchot, former governor of Pennsylvania, spent yesterday here and informally met a number of friends and, also, announced that he would be unable to attend a series of conferences planned in Washington and Greene counties today as he had been called East suddenly to attend to important business matters.

Pinchot, who suddenly assumed the leadership in Pennsylvania politics a few years ago when elected governor, admitted frankly that he was at the end of the trail politically himself, but stated he had no disappointments, as he had fought for the ideals and principles he thought for the best interests of the people.

The former governor believes that Hoover will be elected to the presidency and thinks that he should be, although he does not agree with him on all his policies.

BOMB SHATTERS OHIO EDITOR'S HOME

MANSFIELD, O., Oct. 29.—(AP.)—The home of R. C. Hoiles, Mansfield publisher, was bombed early today. The front porch was torn away, the front windows blown out and the interior of the house badly damaged, but no one was injured.

Besides the Mansfield News, Hoiles is publisher of the Lorain Times-Herald and the Defiance Telegraph.

Hoiles, his wife, their two small children and a maid servant were sleeping when the explosion occurred, but escaped harm.

No motive was advanced for the attack. Police began an immediate investigation.

SISTERS, 10 AND 7, LOST AS PARENTS AWAIT CAR

Separated from their parents in the interurban car station of the Pittsburgh Railways Company in Grant street, late yesterday, Mary and Vivian Regan, aged 10 and 7 respectively, were being sought by police. The parents, whose home is in Sharon, Pa., reported to police that the children wandered away while waiting for a car. An all-night search was made by patrolmen, but no trace of the sisters could be found.

19 DIE IN RAIL CROSSING WRECKS

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Oct. 29.—Six persons were killed, five of them members of one family, when their automobile was demolished by a Pennsylvania Railroad passenger train at the town of Seward, near the Cambria-Westmoreland county line, early today. Five were killed outright and the sixth died a short time after being admitted to the Memorial Hospital here.

The dead are George Zahorchok, his wife, Anna; their two minor children and Mrs. Zahorchok's mother, Mrs. Andrew Homals. Joseph Tschik, driver of the machine, was still living when picked up.

The train which struck the automobile was eastbound from Pittsburgh, leaving that city at 11:10 o'clock last night. The accident occurred at 12:40 a. m. today.

OIL PLANT FIRE LOSS $40,000

Damage of $30,000 to $40,000 was estimated today as the loss caused by a spectacular fire at the Coraopolis plant of the Waverly Oil Company yesterday. Sparks from a locomotive, falling on an oily platform near the storage warehouse, are believed by company officials to have caused the blaze. Nobody was hurt.

Firemen from Coraopolis, assisted by the Waverly fire-fighters, battled almost eight hours, confining the fire to the warehouse and storage tanks. None of the plant's manufacturing equipment was damaged.

A line of compounding tanks in the warehouse were ignited and a number of explosions occurred as tank after tank went up in flames.

A row of eight gasoline storage tanks with a total capacity of 50,000 or more gallons were saved by the firemen.

T. J. Hilliard, president of the Waverly Company, said this morning that the plant's equipment was not damaged and that the work of rebuilding the warehouse would be begun at once.

NO SENSE OF MOTION ON ZEP, CORRESPONDENT SAYS

By JOHN C. INGRAM,

Staff Correspondent of the New York American.

The Only American Newspaper Correspondent on Board the Graf Zeppelin.

(Copyright, 1928, by King Features Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction prohibited in whole or in part.)

ON BOARD THE GRAF ZEPPELIN, Bound for Germany, Monday, Oct. 29.—(Dropped from the air liner as she left Lakehurst, N. J.)

Well, folks, as we used to say out at Belmont last summer "they're off." Just as this is being written, the Graf Zeppelin is gently poking her silver nose into the moonlight night above the Lakehurst naval station—going home.

The purring motors far aft—the faint cheering of the hundred or so people who stuck around to see the take-off—the somewhat eerie feeling of gently sailing off into the velvet night without perceptible effort.

EARTH "FALLS AWAY"

We're just gliding aloft—no sense of motion—rather the dim earth seems to be falling away from us. The recollection of the requests of my friends, newspaper crowd—"Hey, Jack, bring me a quart of Pilsener from Germany"—"Remember, Jack, you promised to bring me a meerschaum pipe from Hamburg—one of the kind that holds a pound of tobacco"—"Don't forget to send me that card from Friederickshafen."

And I'll remember everyone of those instructions—see if I don't.

My luggage and the faithful old portable typewriter has been stored away aboard ship—following a hectic two days. The dash to Washington Saturday for the passports—the rush to the various consulates for the necessary visas—hard to prove that you've been born in the United States, at least to us old-timers who were born so long ago that we antedate the practice of issuing birth certificates. Hard to prove that we were born at all, come to think of it.

TAKE THREE DAYS

Dr. Eckener tells me that we ought to get back to Germany within three days, if the tail winds are kind and help kick us along. From the looks of the commodious cabin with its dining room and the extra-sized staterooms, doesn't look like it will be a monotonous passage.

Plenty of room to walk about and plenty of odd nooks and cubby-holes to explore.

Only one trouble—we can't smoke. I've never tried to go three days without cigarets. Some of the girls in the cigaret ads say they smoke the fag each time they feel a desire to eat candy coming over them—grand thing for the girls' figures, they allege. I'll perhaps try reversing this formula—I'll eat a piece of candy each time the yen for a smoke crops up. If my girlish lines are gone by the time I get home we'll blame it on Dr. Eckener and his anti-smoking ukase. If some enterprising cigaret manufacturer wants to get a photographic shot of a feller enjoying a cigaret, just have him meet me at Friedrichshafen when this old sky whale gets there—I fail to register any amount of footage showing a hard-boiled cigaret smoker showing what smoke enjoyment really means.

Funny thing about my take-off on this unusual and spectacular sky voyage—it's wholly without fear on my part—no more fearsome than boarding the Leviathan—but a good hundred times more exciting. In the spring I went out to the West Coast with the New York American's airplane. Prior to that time I'd never been farther off the earth than the top of the Woolworth Building—and it was a sensation. This time the writer feels like a seasoned old sky traveler—as much at home up there as a cat on a wood shed roof. Auf Widersehen.

ADMITS KILLING, GETS 5 YEARS

Tom Bennett, Negro, 38, lost a footrace, $2 and his life in 10 minutes on July 25, it became known in Criminal Court today when the murderer, William Austeen Stewart, Negro, of Cleveland, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to five years in the Western Penitentiary.

It was this way: Bennett borrowed $2 from Stewart to bet another Negro that he (Bennett) would win a block-long footrace in Logan street. Bennett lost. He and Stewart argued. A gun ended it all.

BROKER, BRIDGE SUICIDE, SHORT IN ACCOUNTS

Samuel J. Black, resident manager of Greenbaum Sons Investment Company and former member of the Ohio Legislature, was short in his dealings with the investment company when he committed suicide by jumping from the Sixth Street Bridge into the Allegheny River last week, it was alleged, when writs of replevin were obtained today to recover $15,500 worth of bonds.

It is claimed Black had used the bonds to obtain loans from the Bank of Pittsburgh, N. A., Colonial Trust Company, and Diamond National Bank.

Attorney W. D. Grimes, for the investment company, today obtained writs for the recovery of the bonds, which it is alleged Black had hypothecated for loans which he converted to his own use. Attorney Grimes stated that he had prepared informations charging embezzlement at the time Black leaped into the river.

SPROUL GOES TO CAPITAL IN RADIO ROW

Armed with petitions bearing several thousand signatures and supported by Congressman Guy E. Campbell and many other prominent local persons, Evangelist John W. Sproul left Pittsburgh last night for Washington to take up his fight for a radio broadcasting license over which he wishes to send out his daily sermons from Glory Barn, Carson street. He was refused a license by the Federal Radio Commission, but was granted a second hearing, which will be held tomorrow morning.

A second delegation to help in the fight for the radio license will leave tonight. Included in the party will be the Rev. John W. Welsh, Sproul's assistant; Magistrate A. D. Brandon, of Morals Court, and the Rev. Robert C. Clark, of the First Methodist Protestant Church, North Side. D. Barr Peet, manager of Bettis Field, was expected to fly down today or tomorrow morning in behalf of Sproul, it was announced at the tabernacle last night.

Last night Sproul took with him several persons who will tell of the benefits they have derived from sermons broadcast by the evangelist. Tonight a score of others will go to testify of physical benefits they have received through hearing the evangelist.

Sproul lost his license through violation of government regulations and because of the necessity of reducing the number of small stations. Congressman Campbell interceded in his behalf, and a second hearing was granted.

Before leaving last night Sproul said he had hopes of getting the license and of being back in Pittsburgh for Tuesday's service. If necessary, he will make the return trip by airplane, he said.

Yesterday Sproul talked to almost 10,000 persons, the crowd being 5,000 at both the afternoon and evening services. Several hundred persons answered the altar call and professed acceptance of Christianity, while numerous others testified of cures they had received. The afternoon service was in the form of a reunion for those who had been benefited, and testimonials were offered by many.

The sermon topic of Mr. Sproul last night was "The Potter." He said:

"God is revealed in creation as infinitely powerful and wise. God decorated the heaven with more than a million suns. This God is like the potter who can remake the vessel that is marred in the making. The God who changes winter into spring can transform a broken human life.

"God spoke to Israel of the potter whose masterpiece was marred by some hard substance in the clay and assured him that there was hope for his stubborn and refractory race because the Divine Potter would not be defeated by His initial failure with His chosen people.

"Today God is repeating the message of the potter to the rebellious human race. 'All have sinned and come short of the glory of God.' Sin has temporarily checkmated the Almighty Potter. But in Jesus Christ, the Divine Human Son of God—the second head of the human race, God has begun again, and His second experiment is destined to end in a character of glory and beauty for every believer."

TO BUILD LEVEE AT BRAEBURN

FORD CITY, Pa., Oct. 29.—Federal engineers are constructing a modern levee along the Allegheny river at Braeburn to prevent damage by high water to the abutment of Lock No. 4 and at the same time guard the shore from the wash of waves for approximately half a mile. The dike will be completed in about a month, it is said. It is being constructed of dredge material taken from the river while digging the channel.

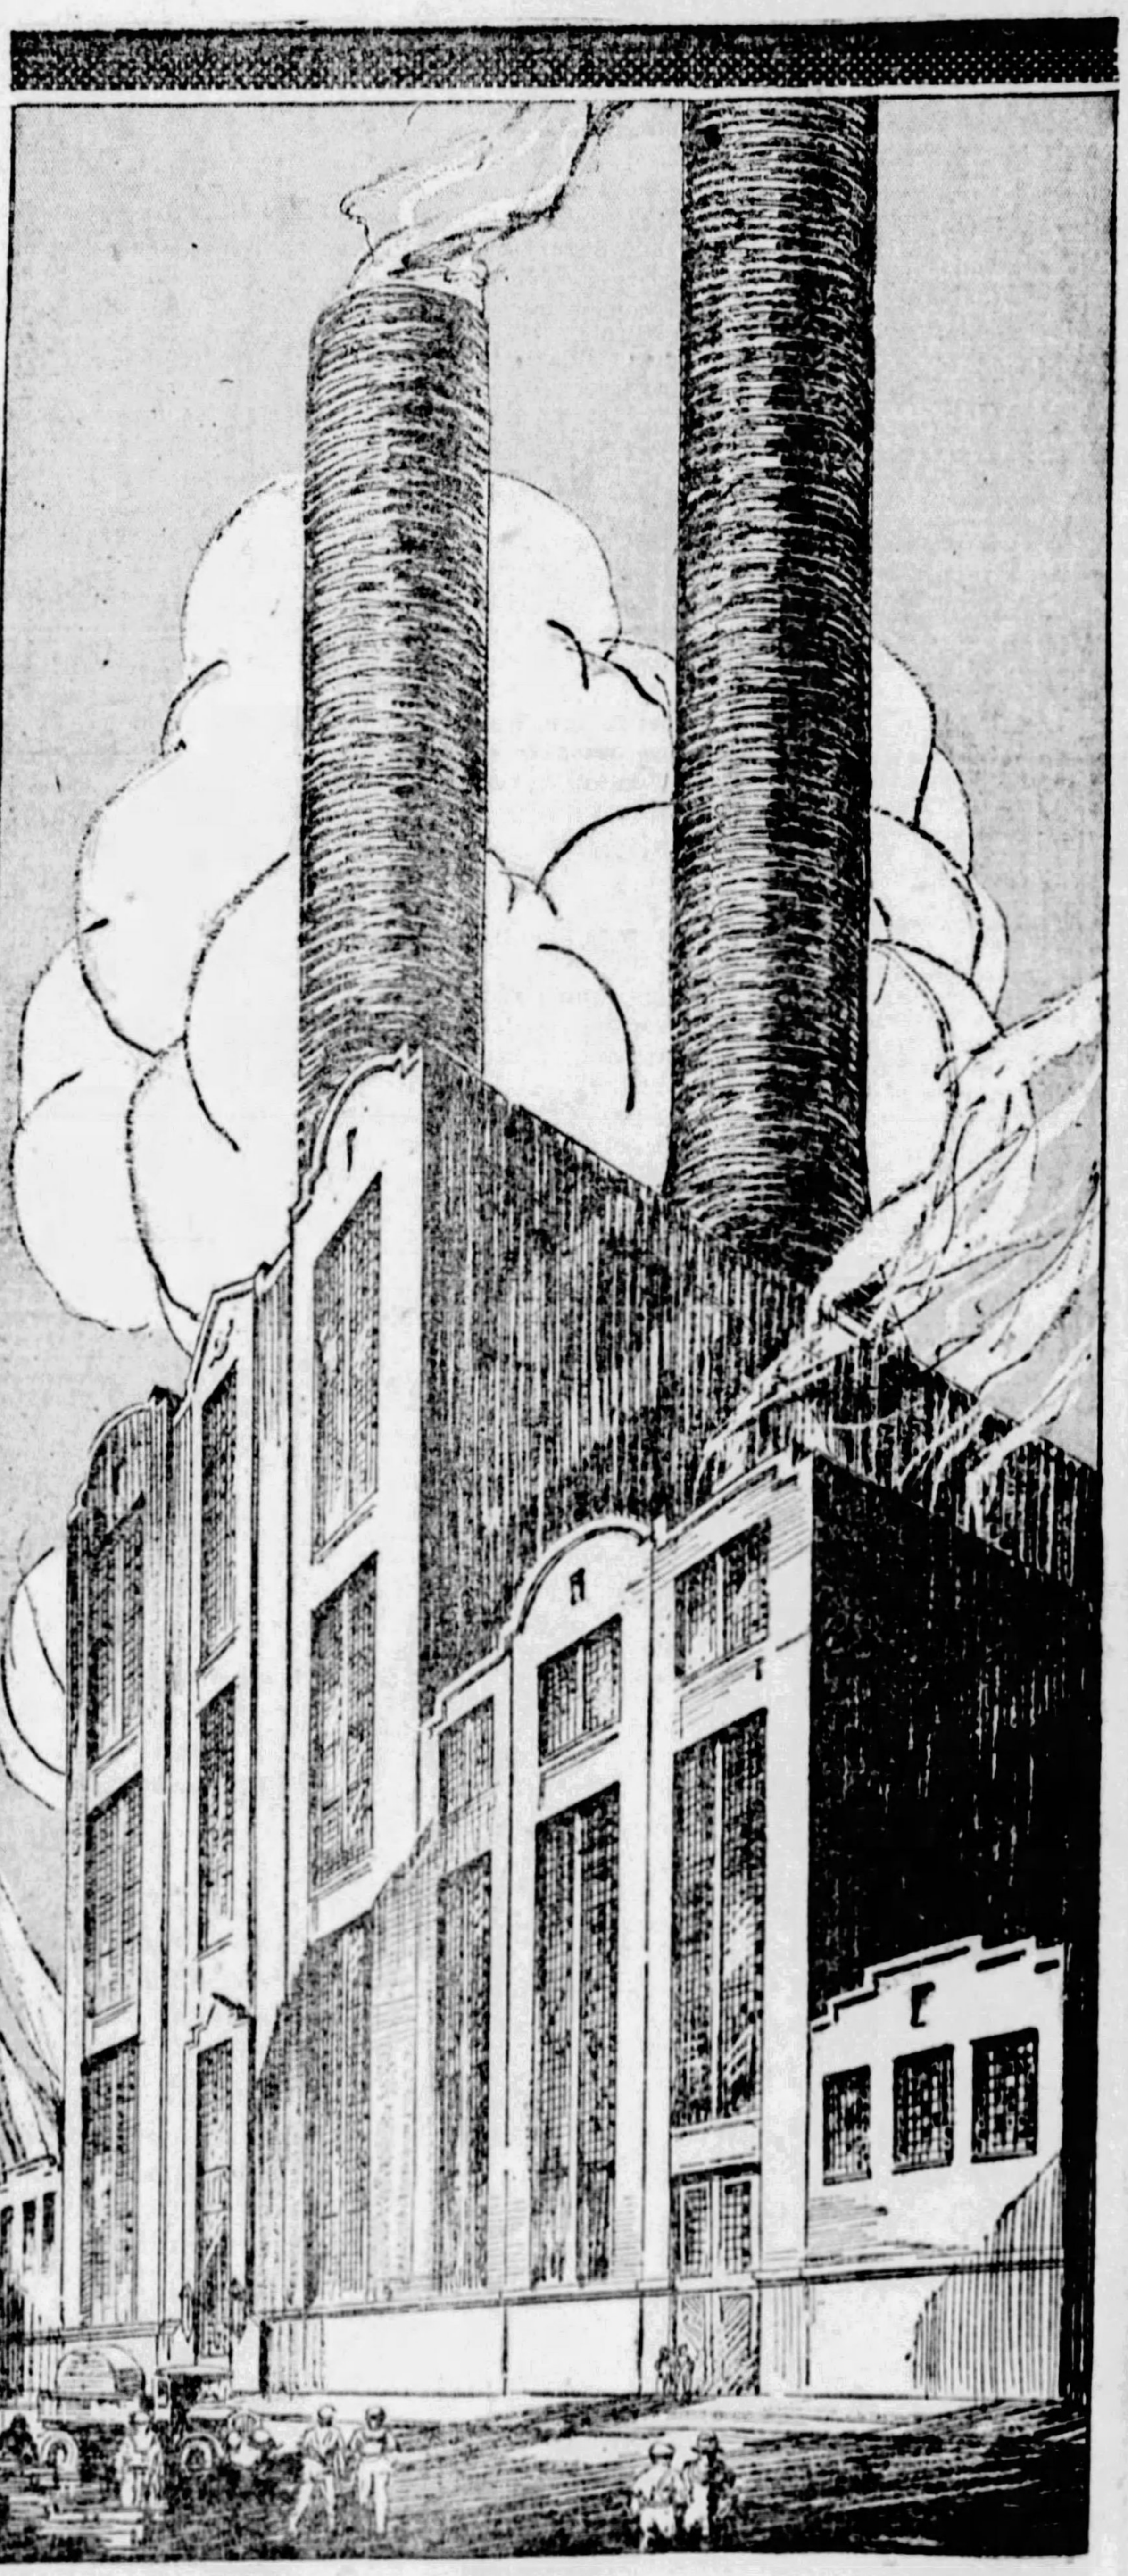
A NEW POWER PLANT to SERVE your ELECTRIC NEEDS

Tuesday, October 30, will be a memorable day in the annals of the Pittsburgh District and the Duquesne Light Company, for on that day, ground will be broken for a new super power plant, the James H. Reed power station, to be located on Brunot Island. All the latest features in electrical and steam power plant engineering will be embodied in this station, the first section of which will cost over $10,000,000.

An added generating capacity of 80,000 horsepower in the first section assisted by the newly-completed $3,000,000 switch house and connected to the 66,000 volt electric transmission line surrounding Pittsburgh indicates the faith of the Duquesne Light Company in the future of the Pittsburgh District.

Electric power is the order of the day, and these facilities added to the 500,000 horsepower already installed will provide light for Pittsburgh's thousands of homes as well as power for the multitude of labor saving household devices which include percolators, toasters, waffle irons, cleaners, washers, and electric irons. It will also insure power for Pittsburgh's growing industrial plants.



An added benefit in the building of this super power plant of interest to Pittsburgh is the employment of hundreds of men during the construction period which will require over 18 months' time.

BYLLESBY PIONEERS IN PUBLIC SERVICE

FOURTH CHANCE OPEN TO WIN ZAIN PRIZE

With the publication today of specimens of the prize-winning advertisements, the fourth of the seven weekly periods into which the $15,000 Zain Ad-Test has been divided passes into history. The fifth period is now on, with fresh opportunities for hundreds of persons to win valuable prizes.

There is a cash prize of $100 for the period, which expires at midnight Wednesday night, October 31, and there are hundreds of other prizes, all to be awarded by The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. Then, in addition, there are numerous special prizes, offered by some of the 39 local business concerns that are co-operating in the test for the best ads about their own particular commodities or service. A prize of $1,000 will be given for the best ad written during the entire campaign.

IDEA ESSENTIAL

Now, since professional advertisement writers and newspaper employes are barred from the test, you have a good chance to win a prize, even though you are wholly inexperienced in ad writing. You don't have to know anything about it. All that is necessary to win the $1,000 prize, or any other, is a bright idea that will direct people's attention favorably to the store, commodity or service that is to be advertised. The idea may conceivably be set forth in a few words. It may be expressed in a simple statement, in a letter, jingle, slogan or story.

But that you may have the bright idea it is desirable that you visit the stores of the 39 participating concerns, a list of which will be found elsewhere on this page. Call on these firms and ask them questions. They will be glad to help you. Sample their products. Use their service. Read their advertisements. If you fill yourself with information about the subject of the advertisement you will be able to write a far better ad than if you are not familiar with your subject. Some of the contestants who have failed to win prizes neglected to get acquainted with the firms they wrote about, and so made mistakes. Be sure of your ground before you write; make sure by visiting the stores.

SOME SUGGESTIONS

Pickering's are among the best-known advertisers in Pittsburgh. Yet there is abundant opportunity for new Pickering ads embodying fresh ideas—because there is always something new and interesting at this popular furniture store at Tenth street and Penn avenue, where "your credit is good." Pickering's is a progressive store. It is an even better place to buy furniture now than it was when you last visited it.

Reizenstein's for beautiful china and glassware. There is a treat for you, or anyone who appreciates beauty, in a visit to the store of C. Reizenstein and Sons, 625 Liberty avenue. The loveliness of their wares in enchanting. Yet their prices are so reasonable that even people in the most modest circumstances can afford to buy at least a few Reizenstein pieces for their china closet.

If you lack ideas for an ad about Sully's, visit their auto accessory store, either at 420 Wood street, or 5900 Penn avenue, and you will acquire a multitude of ideas. Here is a tip for you: Winter is almost here, and motorists will shortly be buying chains and other cold weather accessories. Sully's handle them, and at lower prices than most dealers.

HOW TO DO IT

Apropos of cold, disagreeable weather, you can avoid getting wet and uncomfortable in your trips around the city if you will telephone Court 5700 for a Yellow Cab. The cabs are clean, and pleasant to ride in. The chauffeur will get you to your destination quickly, but will take no risk of accident. And the fares are reasonable. Remember to emphasize the telephone number, Court 5700, in your ad.

Write each ad on a separate sheet of paper, which should be at least as large as a postal card, and preferably commercial letter size. Put your name and address on the back of each sheet, and also on the flap of the envelope in which you mail them. SEND THE ADS TO THE ZAIN AD-WRITING TEST, CARE OF THE PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH, PITTSBURGH, PA.

Rules for Sun-Telegraph-Zain $15,000 Ad Test

1—$15,000 in cash and prizes distributed over seven weeks. Grand prize, $1,000. Grand weekly prize, $100. Five prizes each week for six weeks for best ads written for each concern participating—195 each week, 1,170 prizes in all.

2—$1,000 for best ad submitted during entire campaign. Winners to be selected by committee of Pittsburgh advertising men and women.

3—Ads for fifth period must be received by midnight, October 31, at the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa. Ads arriving after that time will be automatically entered for the next period, and so on.

4—Ads submitted for the grand prize must be received before midnight on November 15, 1928. In order to compete for grand prize contestants must have submitted at least one ad on each concern listed.

5—One person may submit any number of ads. The test may be entered at any time. Ads may be written about any one or all, or any product or all, of the concerns listed. A person may win more than one prize.

6—Write only one ad on one piece of paper at least postcard size. Place name of advertiser at top. write words, phrase, poem, slogan, essay or letter. Sign YOUR name and address plainly on BACK of each sheet. Also on the flap of each envelope. SEND TO THE ZANE AD-WRITING TEST, CARE OF THE PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH, PITTSBURGH, PA.

GIRL WHO ESCAPED HERE ARRESTED IN DETROIT

Wandering around the country for more than a month since she escaped from the juvenile detention rooms in Forbes street, Dorothy Sage, 16, of 115 Berwick street, has been arrested and is being held by police in Detroit, according to word received here. A telegram from Edward H. Fox, chief of the Detroit detectives, was received by local authorities early today, asking what disposition should be made in the case.

It is likely that a detective will be sent to Detroit to return the girl to Pittsburgh as soon as possible as she is an important witness against four young men who were arrested with her September 18 in a downtown hotel. Inspector Frank Boyd probably will assign a sleuth to go after the girl sometime today.

Patrolman Edward Barry arrested the Sage girl in a hotel with the young men after she had been reported missing. Her testimony caused the four to be held for court and to await the trial she was placed in Juvenile Court. On September 24 she fled during the early morning hours, clad only in a night dress.

Rebecca Follansbee To Make Her Debut On Wednesday

THESE days I feel as though I've omitted something when I fail to insert before my signature "debutantishly" yours. Just like everyone these days when talking about society, I can't chat for one minute without mentioning at least one debutante affair. The aspect of the social world will be increasingly debutantish from now until after the holiday season. Not that anyone minds, for the debutante with her youth gives color and verve to entertainments.

A notable debut set for day after tomorrow, the very last day of October, by the way, will be that of Rebecca Follansbee, daughter of the John Follansbees. Her mother will present her at a tea in the Twentieth Century Club. Mrs. John Haynes Follansbee, the former Elizabeth Lewis, daughter of Mrs. Laura Fawell Lewis, will share honors with the bud.

Mrs. Follansbee will have as her aides Mrs. Benjamin Gilbert Follansbee, Mrs. William U. Follansbee, Mrs. Scott Follansbee, of Cleveland; Mrs. Gilbert Follansbee, of Steubenville; Mrs. George Little Follansbee, Mrs. Harris E. Wainwright, Jr., Mrs. Sigmund Raue, of Philadelphia; Mrs. William Stimmel, Mrs. Hugh Thomson Kerr, Mrs. Alexander Murdoch, Mrs. Davis Scott Gaston, Mrs. Wiliam T. McCullough, Mrs. Oliver Eaton, Mrs. S. Laird Lang, Mrs. Charles Townsend, Mrs. James M. Russell and Mrs. James Henry Barr.

Rebecca has asked her sister debutantes to serve as her aides, and Florence Wainwright, who came out last year, and Mary Neil Stewart.

THE Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays are always popular times with hotesses, for they like to have the school set, home for vacation, enjoy a bit of the gayety of the social season at home.

A new date taken for this Thanksgiving season is November 27. On that day Mrs. John Phillip Hoelzel, of Beechwood boulevard, will entertain at a tea in her home in honor of Jane Allderdice, debutante daughter of the Taylor Allderdices.

AND I've heard of another entertainment planned for Mary Marshall, debutante daughter of the Charles D. Marshalls, who will be presented to society on November 23. Her aunt, Mrs. Herman G. Veeder, of Denniston avenue, will give a luncheon for her in the Twentieth Century Club on Tuesday, November 6.

IT seems to me that we've heard quite a bit lately about folks in the social set who have won fame on the stage or in the art of playwriting. Now Carrol Fitzhugh, who, of course, you know, is president of the Stage and Play Society, has had a book of his plays, entitled "Mon Ami Pierrot and Other Plays," issued.

THE latter part of last week, including the week-end, there happened to be a reunion of Pittsburgh society folks in New York at the Barclay.

Among those visiting Gotham were the Harry J. Millers, Mrs. Simon T. Patterson, the Allison R. Maxwells, the Ralph E. Flinns, Mrs. James B. Laughlin and Miss Alice Laughlin.

Mrs. Julian Burdick has been in New York, but she stopped at the Weylin.

CHICAGO POLL PUTS HOOVER AHEAD

By CHARLES N. WHEELER,
(Noted Political Analyst.)

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Herbert Hoover will carry both Chicago and Cook county, though by a comparatively small margin for a national year, according to the tabulations set up in the Herald and Examiner poll.

Computed on the arbitrary assumption that not less than 90 per cent of the registered vote in the city will be cast one week from tomorrow and that the total vote in country towns of the county outside the city proper will approximate 200,000, the pluralities are indicated at about 33,000 in the city and 38,000 in the country towns, or a total lead of 71,000 for Hoover in Cook county.

The poll totals over the state at large give Mr. Hoover about 55.5 per cent of the vote. The total vote in Illinois four years ago was 2,470,000. The increased enrollment in Cook county and indications of unprecedented interest over the prairies point to a possible total vote in the state this year of upwards of 3,000,000. The Hoover percentage of the poll would divide these figures as follows:

Hoover, 1,665,000; Smith, 1,335,000; Hoover plurality, 330,000.

Four years ago Mr. Coolidge had a plurality in the state of 876,000 and a majority over Davis and LaFollete of 444,000.

The indicated Hoover pluralities, in round numbers, for the three divisions of the state, would be:

Chicago, 33,000; Cook county, outside Chicago, 38,000; down state, 259,000; total Hoover plurality, 330,000.

The Chicago totals, based on the 5 per cent poll and an estimated vote of 90 per cent of the enrollment, would be: Hoover 641,234; Smith, 607,645; Hoover plurality, 33,589.

ACQUIT MARYLANDER ON MURDER CHARGE

FREDERICK, Md., Oct. 29.—(AP.)—Edward T. Robertson, Bethesda contractor, was acquitted of the murder of Edward L. Mills, Hunting Hills farmer, by a jury which deliberated an hour and 23 minutes. The verdict was rendered after an entire day and night session of court.

HOOVER 2-TO-1 AHEAD OF SMITH IN PENNSYLVANIA

The straw vote canvass of Pennsylvania conducted by the Pittsburgh SunTelegraph passes its quota with the latest returns and gives Herbert Hoover almost a two-to-one vote over Gov. Alfred E. Smith in the state.

To total of ballots cast in the poll reaches 110,427 and the Hoover lead over Smith is 34,729. This total is more than 5 per cent of the total votes cast in the state in the presidential election of 1924.

Analysis of the straw vote will be completed within a few days and the Pennsylvania poll will be completed by a comprehensive canvass of Allegheny county and Pittsburgh, to which final ballots have been mailed.

The Pennsylvania poll has been conducted in connection with the nation-wide canvass by the Hearst papers to determine sentiment in advance of the election and the results of the poll throughout the United States will be tabulated this week.

The latest totals in the Pennsylvania poll are: Hoover, 72,573, including 58,973 men and 13,600 women; Smith, 37,844, including 29,359 men and 8,485 women.

This vote in 1924 was cast as follows: Coolidge, 76,487, including 61,897 men and 14,590 women; Davis, 11,696, including 9,856 men and 1,840 women; LaFollette, 6,425; not voting, 16,320.

CLERK IS HELD AFTER FIRE

W. T. Burket, 44, night clerk in the Hotel Acorn, 114 Fourth avenue, was arrested early today following, police say, an attempt to burn the hotel. An oil soaked pillow, oil soaked rags and an empty oil can are held by police and firemen as evidence of the attempted burning. Fire Marshal Thomas L. Pfarr is conducting an investigation.

Burket sounded a still alarm early today by calling the fire alarm operator, informing him that a fire had been discovered on the second floor of the hotel. Firemen tore up the flooring and discovered the oil soaked pillow, stuffed between the first floor ceiling and the bedroom floor.

Burket's arrest followed. Police say they expect to make a second arrest sometime today.

"Daddy Has Made Us a Play-House in the Cellar"

"—and my dolls and I have a wonderful time all day long playing house in our own private corner of the cellar."

There was never any room down in the cellar for Mary and her dolls to play house, or to have tea-parties—until Dad bought a B-Line.

Now Mary has her playhouse in the cellar, all her very own—and mother's housework is easier, it too is almost playwork.

Automatic Gas Heating has changed many things about the Browns' household. Mother fires the furnace by simply regulating a thermometer on the wall—she doesn't have to go near the cellar—the clean gas heat leaves no dirty walls and floors to clean—she doesn't have to coax dad to "fix the furnace" for the night, or to carry out the ashes—there's no worry about househeating at all.

The B-Line has brought many things, many pleasures to the Browns' home. To Mrs. Brown, a cleaner house, and a warmer house with much less work; to Mr. Brown a lot more leisure time at home, less "cold bills" from the doctor; and to Mary a little playhouse all her own down in the cellar, where the coalbin used to be.

B-Line Gas Boilers and Pennsylvania Gas Furnaces are especially designed to efficiently provide heating service for the large or small home—and for the large or small income.

"AMOCO" GAS

"As Dependable as the Dawn"

Every Pittsburgh motorist, due to his qualified experiences with the inevitable hilly conditions which so eminently portray Pittsburgh and its "One Thousand Suburbs," instinctively knows that "there's a big difference" in the various gasolines now on the mart. He knows there are in distribution today gasolines which differ greatly in their individual efficiency values. He knows, too, that many of the so-called good gasolines are nothing more but of the destructive, inferior grades. The Pittsburgh motorist, conceded by many to emulate the ultimate in criterion, when contrasts are given relative to the power and ability of the various makes of cars and trucks, insists only upon "AMOCO" Gas because—well, because he knows

"There's a Big Difference"

You newcomers, get acquainted. Ask your friend to give his version of "Amoco." He will tell you—right there and then . . . "As Dependable as the Dawn."

Rumania Rhapsody No. 1 in A major, Op. 11 .... Enesco

The Pittsburgh Symphony Society gave its first concert of the season in Syria Mosque last night and aroused a multitude of listeners to great enthusiasm. A year ago the society's president, Mrs. William Maclay Hall, in dedicating the orchestra, said, "We have an orchestra, and mean to have it stay." Every note played last night seemed to echo those words.

The entire atmosphere of the event was better. There was a shorter program, that ended in reasonable time; there was more dignity on the stage; there was less defiance in the audience. The soloist's contributions were all more appropriate.

The program itself had much of interest and pure entertainment. There was nothing flimsy. A variety of color from Russia, Rumania, France, Germany and even America forbade all monotony, and there were some real thrills. In every detail the orchestra had improved. There were hollow places in the scherzo and last movement of the symphony; the Debussy was not a virtuoso performance, but even here is where the brass and woodwinds displayed their zeal for better tone.

Eugene Goossens has never appeared to better advantage, and his qualities glow all the brighter when one considers how short a while he associates with these players before the concert. He holds a steady hand over his men, encourages them well in their weak phrases, and leaves them free rein, as he did in the Russian and Rumanian works, when the music can be trusted to carry them along. There was never a dull moment in the well-known symphony; his accompaniments for the songs were well considered, the Wagner numbers being as interesting from the orchestral standpoint as they were vocally.

Cyrena Van Gordon, mezzo-soprano from the Chicago Opera Company, sang several arias in the broadest dramatic style. Her work with the opera has always been admired, and she can translate her music easily to the concert stage. Her purely lyric singing is more successful than the dramatic, as shown in the "Aida" and "Trovatore" arias. (Azucena's Gypsy song was an encore.) The Schubert song with orchestra gives no idea what this singer might do in recital, although the voice intrigues one to believe she might be really impressive. Her singing of the "Walkyrie Cry" as encore was a bravura stunt, and repeating it made everyone eager for more Wagner opera. It was in the recitative of this excerpt that Miss Van Gordon showed her weakest vocal powers, yet in the light of her glowing Ho-jo-to-ho's we shall all remember her with pride.

Release of Suspect Arouses Dormont Merchants

HEARING SECRET, CLAIM

Edward T. Haley, of Detroit, Mich., who spent a day more than was necessary in the Allegheny County jail by reason of unnecessary habeas corpus proceedings, has been at liberty since Wednesday, and Dormont business men and the State Motor Patrol are wondering why.

Between 20 and 25 business men of the thriving South Hills metropolis who fell victims to Haley's alleged "come-on" game with a young woman companion expressed surprise over the man's release from custody and declare they were not given an opportunity to appear against either Haley or Miss Dorothy McKenna, 23, of Columbus, O., his alleged companion.

Corporal J. G. Bowman of the State Motor Patrol at Washington, said he was more than surprised because he had asked the Dormont police to turn the couple over to him as soon as charges here were satisfied, as he held warrants charging violation of the motor laws and driving while intoxicated against the pair as a result of an accident near Canonsburg on October 8. Dormont police were to have notified him when to come for the prisoners, he said, but they failed to do so.

VEILED IN MYSTERY

The whole affair appeared to have been shrouded in mystery insofar as the investigation and disposition of the case is concerned. Haley and his companion were arrested October 19, following complaint of business men in the borough that the couple were soliciting alms.

Miss McKenna, it is said, went to various business houses with her face and head swathed in bandages and told of having been in an automobile accident, requesting financial aid to get back to Columbus. After making a few collections, it is said, she would join Haley who waited for her in a hired automobile a few blocks from the district in which she worked and it is said that he would take the money, while she started out for more.

Police Chief Al Reuhling arrested Haley when his car became entangled in a traffic jam and Motorcycle Patrolman Andrean Fedor took Miss McKenna into custody. They were lodged in the Dormont Police Station on charges of begging. Miss McKenna had about $1 in her possession and her companion had $36.38. Both denied knowing each other, but subsequent investigation disclosed, it is said, that they had been living together at 1905 Forbes street under assumed names.

Dormont's police hearings usually are heard Friday nights and a number of business men were on hand to appear against the pair, but the hearings had been held the night before, which necessitated holding the pair over until the following week.

Miss McKenna was released, but Haley was sent to the county jail pending a hearing before Burgess Haddock. The prisoner became restless after several days in jail and instituted habeas corpus proceedings Tuesday morning, Burgess Haddock deciding meanwhile to hold a special hearing Tuesday night.

EVIDENCE LACKING

The special hearing was called, Burgess Haddock said, and nothing of a tangible nature was introduced as evidence against Haley. Chief Reuhling, the Burgess said, had notified the state patrol, but they had signified no intention of coming for the prisoners, so he ordered Haley's release. None of the victims of the pair were on hand to appear against Haley, the Burgess declared. The business men say they were not notified to appear, nor did they know anything of the hearing. Haddock declared he was satisfied to let the courts decide the case. The following day Judge Carnahan ordered the prisoner's release.

Col. Bowman today said members of his patrol were on the lookout for Haley and his companion and he would be arrested on sight.

CLOSE 67 YEARS OF MARRIED LIFE

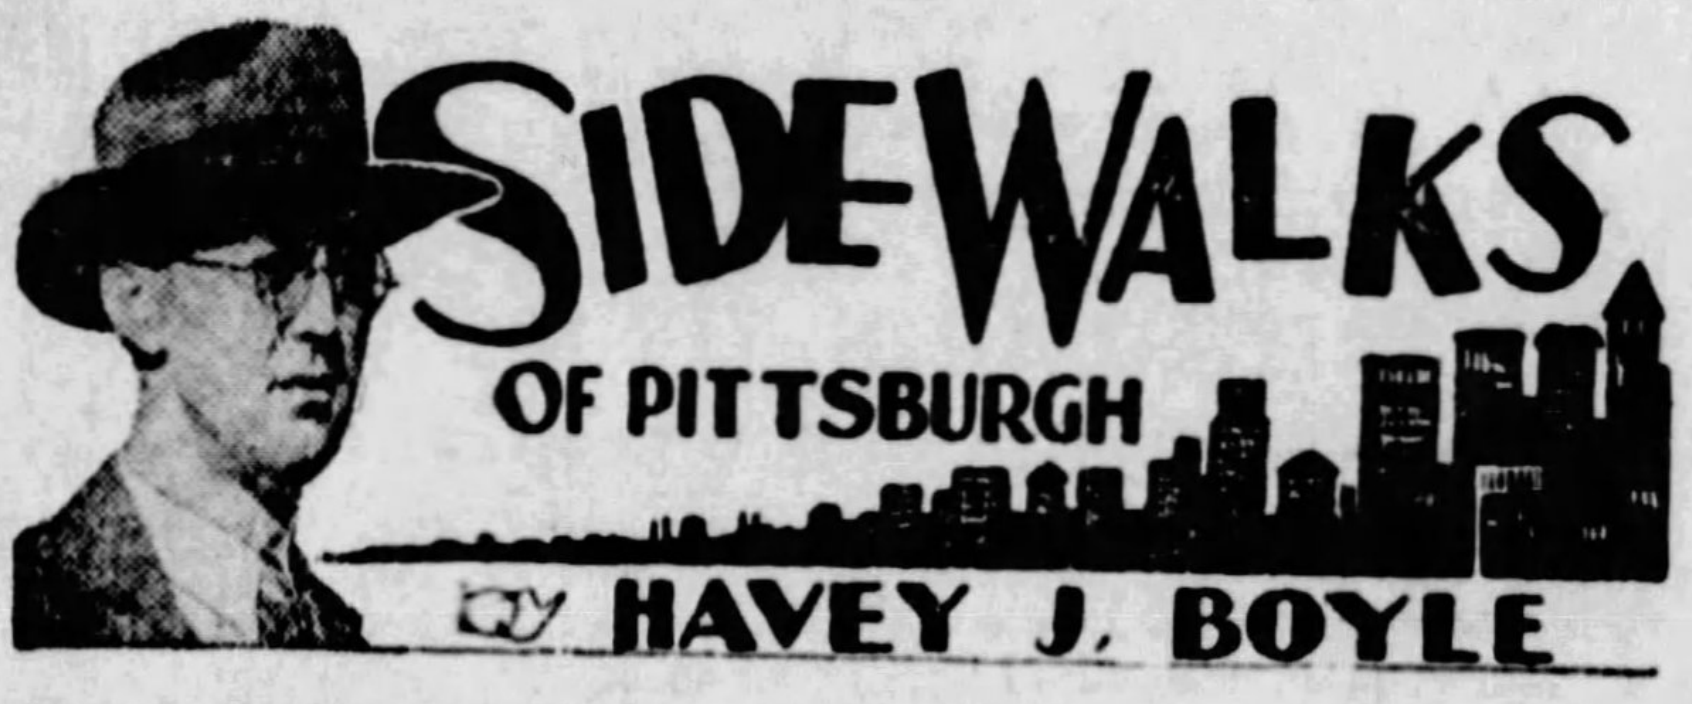
WILKINSBURG PEOPLE

Today Mr. and Mrs. William Thomas, 1510 Hill avenue, Wilkinsburg, are in the sixty-eighth year of their married life and they are, they say, still happy. Here they sit before the fireplace in their home, proud of 10 sons and daughters, 19 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren. They were married in England and have been in the United States "23 or 24 years." Mrs. Thomas is 87 and her husband 89.

East End Grocer Held Up

Two armed Negroes held up Samuel Fried in his grocery store at 756 South Millvale avenue, Saturday midnight and looted the register of $51.70. The bandits entered the grocery while Fried was waiting on a customer.

While one covered Fried and the buyer with a gun the other looted the register. They disappeared in an alley near the store.



THE city has a small quota of people who are "a little queer," yet who are harmless and thus escape detention. There is, for instance, the column conductor who utters a shrill shriek when he sees pickle, tomato and mayonnaise on his sandwich after he has begged the waiter to bring just a plain sandwich. After issuing a wild cry, he relapses into sullen silence, and the small world about him goes on as usual.

There is the lady who meanders around the downtown streets carrying on a lone crusade aginst what she deems the immodesty of her sisters. A short skirt is enough to make this peculiar woman eloquent in a mute way. She campaigns for the conservative in ladies' apparel by gesture. You may have seen her some time in Wood street, Smithfield street, or Fifth avenue, observing, examining, peering.

Her method of reproach has none of the poetry of action which marked the crusade of her late sister in morality, Carrie Nation. Our Pittsburgh crusader simply points at the brevity of the dress she condemns and, with the pointing, she turns up a horrified and contemptuous nose. Some of the flappers simply giggle at the lone reformer. Others get haughty and execute that delicious movement of the shoulders and a saucy head to indicate indifference. Still others hasten away with the speed which marked the pace of Lot's wife until that moment when curiosity increased the salt supply of the world.

THAT FOR YOU !

THERE is, too, the woman who has the traffic complex. She entertains delusions of grandeur which cause her to imagine that she is a traffic policeman. She is, in fact, a traffic cop, without portfolio. An unofficial ambassador of the stop and go realm.

Then there is the quaint character known to many motormen and conductors by the picturesque and descriptive title: "Umbrella Mary." Beyond all question Umbrella Mary is "touched," south by southwest if not in all directions, but since she creates no great disturbance by her fetishes and idiosyncracies, she is allowed the loose.

HER pet aversion is the local trolley system, a fact that may recommend her to certain people. If asked to psycho-analyze Umbrella Mary we would leap to the conclusion that once upon a time someone struck Mary on the head with a packet of transfers or, that diagnosis failing, we should decide that Mary had read quite a few of the letters signed: "Strap-Hanger," "Indignant," or "Honest Taxpayer," citizens, in short, who are always certain that if they are waiting for a Swissvale, Rankin and Braddock street car nothing but Carson street cars happen to be operating that evening and vice versa.

Umbrella Mary is an exponent of direct action. The language of revolution, to her, is something gray and toneless. She favors the bold stroke, the coup. Her protest takes the form of expectorating on the outside surface of the car as she leaves it. This may be either a protest against service, or it may be a naive way of circumventing that vulgar sign in street cars which recalls the ugly habit of spitting. Perhaps, after all, Mary is simply showing how to eliminate a vulgarity by being extra-vulgar.

DEATH IN PLAY

SAMUEL EVANS

Today Samuel Evans, 2, 141 Steuben street, West End, lies dead in his home and the toys with which he had been playing when he was suddenly and unaccountably stricken lie unused. Thugs Leap From Auto, Rob Two

A trio of bandits using stolen automobiles, held up two pedestrians in Beltzhoover Saturday midnight. In each robbery the bandits drove alongside the curb and leaped out with drawn revolvers.

Harry Rahn, of 901 Rossmore avenue, was the first victim, being held up while walking near his home. While two covered him with guns their accomplice robbed the victim of $19.

A few minutes later, using another stolen car, the same highwaymen robbed William Corpus, of 15 Eureka street, of a gold watch, a wallet containing a small sum of money and a railroad pass.

The victims furnished police with a good description of the robbers. The officers searched the neighborhood but found no trace of them of the cars.

The battle of Bull Run was refought by Nick Kunkle, 45, of 25 Seventh street and John E. Meister, 44, of Wilmot street, both of Duquesne, and Meister is in his home with numerous cuts and bruises on the head, while Kunkle is held in $1,000 bail.

The men had an argument Saturday night and went to Bull Run to settle it. Meister is alleged to have had a hammer up his sleeve and when the battle was going against him, drew it and beat Kunkle. The latter, it is said, wrested the weapon and attacked Meister with it, knocking him unconscious.

A witness told Duquesne police after Meister had been taken home and Kunkle was arrested and turned over to the township police. He was given a preliminary hearing before Justice Richard Lloyd, of Homestead Park and lodged in the township police station

Mrs. J. H. Kim, of 142 East Kennedy avenue, told police that a lady's diamond ring valued at $400 was stolen from her home. Police could not learn how entrance was gained.

Two dollars was taken from the residence of P. K. Bender, at 21 Federal street extension. Robbers opened the front door with a key, police said. Clothing and other articles were strewn about the rooms.

Forcing a rear window of the dwelling of G. B. Shad, of 105 Dunlap avenue, burglars stole $23 from a table drawer and a child's bank containing $9.45.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, N. Y., Oct. 29.

All the papers headlined Al Smith saying: "There is something in the air. I don't know what it is but there is something in the air."

I believe I can tell him what it is. It's at least two hundred thousand words of "applesauce" delivered every night by speakers from both parties over the radio.

So that's all there is in the air. If every radio set went static from now till November sixth, it would be a Godsend to a suffering public, and no loss to political knowledge.

STOLEN LOVE

Curtis' Mother Is Pleased With Joan After She Studies Her Makeup

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Joan Hastings, seventeen and beautiful, lives with two old maiden aunts and one of them, Aunt Evvie, tells her of her unmarried mother's tragic love affair and death. Joan falls in love with Bill Martin, a penniless young man, and she is sent away to school. Bill, an innocent victim of a bootlegging gang, is sent to jail and Joan, begging for bail money from the aunts, confesses everything to them. She is put on a train for school in charge of a woman friend of Aunt Evvie's. Bill, freed, bids goodby to his mother, leaving no address and befriending Rollo Keyes, a rich young spender, is given a job by his father. Joan, escaping from the train, reaches his home just after he has gone. Concealing her presence from her aunts she gets a position in a department store and later works as a model in a smart shop. There Mrs. Barstow, a rich society woman, sees her, likes her and asks her to tea. She meets Curtis Barstow who immediately becomes interested in her. Joan goes to see Mrs. Martin and learns that Bill has written but has not asked for her. She thinks he no longer cares. Mrs. Kimmer, with whom she lives and for whose daughter she works, sees a love affair developing between her and Barstow and Francis tells her Mrs. Barstow has been asking about her past. Bill comes home and discovers that Joan is close at hand. He goes to the shop to wait for her, only to see Curtis drive away with her. Later Bill finds her and she asks him why he came to see her. Ruth Gillespie, one of the girls in the shop, asks Joan to help her break her engagement to Rollo Keyes. Joan meets Bill again and discovers Ruth is deeply in love with him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

LYLA BARSTOW read her son's letter again. It was like Curtis to write, instead of talk. If he had spoken of it before he left she could have found some good excuse. Some reason why it would not be convenient to have Joan to dinner or tea. But when he wrote from Seattle, and especially asked her, as a favor . . . what could she do?

Sighing, she went to the telephone. Called the Maison Francine. Asked for Joan.

Joan didn't want to come, but she did.

Mrs. Barstow was in a gracious mood. She studied the girl's clear cut, lovely features while she piled her with toasted muffins and small talk. Noted the absence of makeup. The slender, well-cared for hands. Perhaps . . . just perhaps . . . Curtis wasn't far wrong . . . So many of the girls were pert and ordinary these days, even from the nicest families.

"I had the pleasantest day yesterday," she said, making conversation. "With old, old friends, in the sweetest, most old-fashioned house. You would have enjoyed seeing it, I'm sure, you like old-fashioned things so. And such a garden! Even in winter."

"Where was it?" Joan asked, politely.

"Oh, the old Horace Gray place, over in Sausalito."

"The Gray's. Why that's right below our house!" Joan cried. And could have bitten off her tongue.

"Indeed?" Her mind went racing back to Sausalito . . . now what sort of place was above the Gray's? Were there any shacks . . . or did she remember rightly . . . just two or three big, old places out that way.

Desperately Joan jumped to safer ground. "Mrs. Barstow, may I have more tea? I'm so thirsty. Scandalous appetite! We worked awfully hard today. Francine is designing four stage costumes for Gilda Bronson, the star in that new play at the—"

"Really? Have another muffin, dear. Marmalade? Now let me see, the Hastings house in Sausalito. Do I remember it? I know Sausalito quite well. Lottie Gray and I are such old friends. Just where is your house—above the Grays did you say?"

Joan nodded. "Yes, you probably never noticed it—it's rather off by itself."

And she blushed as she thought of the yellow turrets, that everyone knew for miles.

"Hastings . . . did I know any Hastings?" (Were your people the kind I'd know?)

"They died when I was a baby," Joan said. She had to say something.

"Oh . . . but who brought you up, my dear?"

"My aunts."

"And their name was?" the inquisition went on.

"Van Fleet!" Joan cried, explosively. What did she care? What was there left to worry about? The Sedgewicks had found out where she was, and nothing happened. They must have told Aunt Evvie and Aunt Babe. What could Mrs. Barstow do?

"Van Fleet!" that lady echoed. "Why, of course, I know the old Van Fleet mansion . . . why did you never tell me? And you must be one of the grandchildren. How interesting!" She moved her chair a bit nearer Joan's. Poured herself another cup of tea. "Spend the evening with me," she begged. "It has been so long since we've had a real visit." Her delicate white hand stroked Joan's.

"And did you see the Russian ballet this season? We must go to some of the symphonies together." Mrs. Barstow chattered on. The new book by Christopher Morley. The dreadful time they were having in China.

Joan answered vaguely.

They were both thinking about Curtis, being sweet to each other, for his sake.

CHAPTER XVIII.

MASIE hardly left the flat the two weeks Curtis was away. "I never know when there's going to be a special delivery letter or a telegram or somethin'," she explained to Miss Harvey. "I never see such a fellow for sendin' things. Will you look at these Irish Elegants in November? An' yesterday it was these here chocolates . . . have one. Joan won't care . . . an' just look at that box will you? I tell her we'll have to save it, it's too good to throw away . . ."

And every night when Joan came home there was a thrill of wondering what he had sent. Like Christmas every day!

She just loved his letters, too. Warm, friendly, brief little letters, written in his square, heavy hand. Full of subtle humor, and something else, something you could feel, something that seemed to beat through the words, in a sort of rhythm . . . "I love you . . . I love you . . ."

"But of course, he doesn't—really!"

And then, before she had had half enough of the letters, before she was really ready to see him again, he was back. Meeting her after work in the roadster, driving her home, searching her face with his smiling light brown eyes, laughing as he asked, "Have you been true to me while I've been gone? Have you?"

So nice to have him back again, so nice . . . and yet . . . and yet . . . she brushed the bright hair angrily back from her forehead . . . What was the matter with her? Why wasn't she happier?

Ruth was happy. She yawned to work in the morning always a few minutes late. Whispering in corners with Maudie Murphy. Long, intimate conversations.....

"He said ..... I give you my word I didn't get to bed till half-past five .... the most wonderful dancer .... breakfast at the beach. ...." Joan overheard scraps of it. Heard their long, stifled peals of shaking laughter. Knew they were talking about Bill.

In the long, quiet nights, when the house was dark and even the cable cars had stopped running, Joan lay in bed feverishly tossing, thinking about Ruth and Bill and Curtis. Trying to thrill to the memory of Curtis's kiss .... longing ..... crying for Bill. .....

And then, when she was really beginning to forget, when she could hear his name without quivering, and see him with Ruth without wanting to cover her face with her hands, when she was learning to find comfort in Curtis ...... then Bill came back.

It was Maisie's lodge night.

"Heavens!" Joan thought when she had finally gone, "what a fuss, just to see the very same old ladies she sees every week, and a few old men—"

Then the door bell rang. Maisie, of course, she'd forgotten her gloves! What a shame, to have come all the way back, with those terrible high heels, and her feet burning so. ....

But it wasn't Maisie.

It was Bill. Bill with the dear, dark head, the blue eyes, and the little trail of freckles over his nose, that would keep him from ever quite growing up. Bill to whom she had given her heart and tears. Bill, come back like a ghost, to haunt her, to torture her, and then slip silently away again, leaving her to forget ..... if she could. ....

They wavered in the doorway, tall, awkward Bill, and Joan still with Maisie's kitchen apron tied around her neck, and the white gloves in her hand.

"Come in," she said. Untied the apron, set the gloves on a table, carefully, as if they were made of glass, and would break.

He wandered around the small crowded room, gingerly avoiding floor lamps, footstools, silk cushions, occasional tables.

"I don't know where to begin," he burst out at last. "Joan, I had to see you. I couldn't go on this way—" He broke off and pointed to the closed door to Maisie's room. "Is there anyone there?"

She shook her head. "No, no one."

"Joan, you're making it so hard for me!"

"You're not making things easy for me, coming here," she said, faintly reassured by his nervousness. A feeling of resentment against this Bill who could still tear her heart, still make her care that he seemed unhappy—"

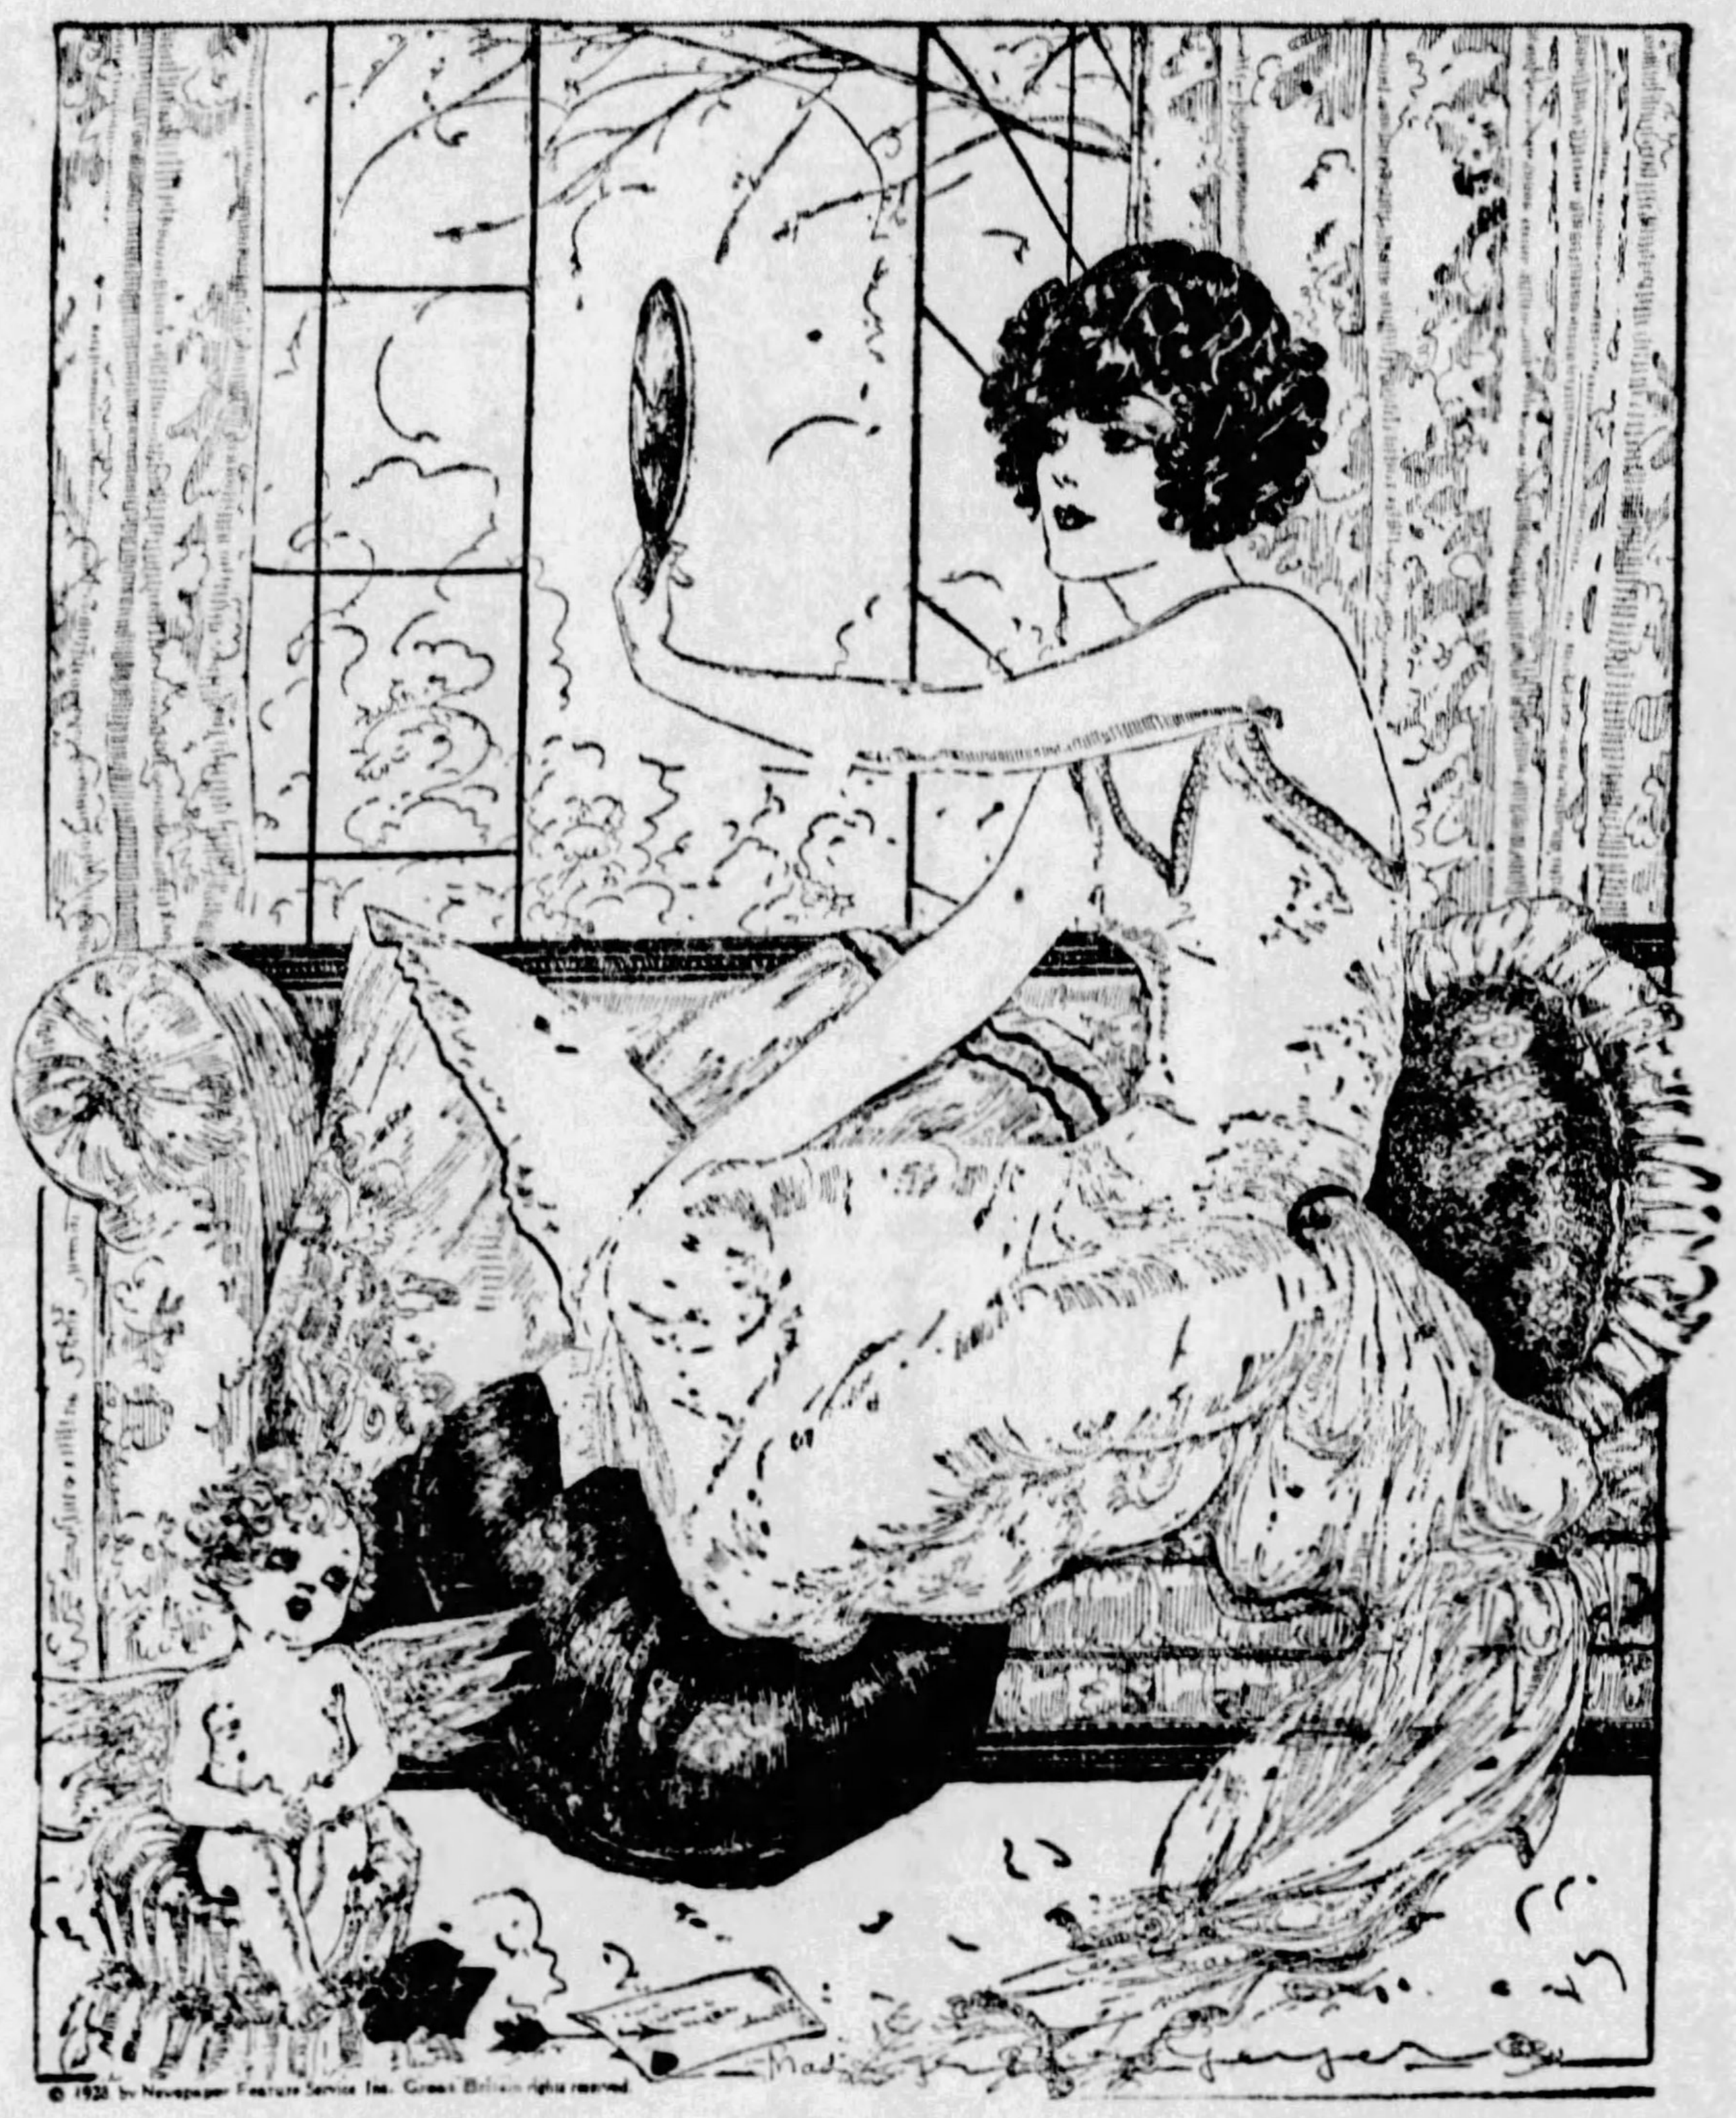
Reflections -:- -:- By Madge Geyer



© 1928 by Newspaper Feature Service Inc. Great Britain rights reserved

REFLECTIONS can be thoughts. But also reflections are the mirrored portrayal of one's own lovely self. And when one's in love that is the most important thing of all. Every second that she can possibly spare she's looking at her lovely reflection to see that it is JUST SO that when HE comes to call he'll think her lovelier than ever.

Dan Cupid sits at her feet and watches the proceedings with great interest, for he, too, is just as anxious that she looks her very best all the time. Not that it makes any great difference how she looks, for Love looks through eyes that are blinded to everything but the loved features of the beloved. But it's a fascinating game and a pleasure, too, for one always wants to look one's best—especially when one's in love.

LOVE'S AWAKENING

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Forgives Underwood for His Acts

RELENTLESSLY my memory swept on, limning with kaleidoscopic swiftness and microscopic fidelity that long past scene at the aviation field at Mineola, brought back to me by the "confession" which Harry Underwood had insisted upon making to me.

Again my eyes, with those of everyone else at the field, were gazing skyward, every nerve keyed with the sinister impression that some terrible disaster was at hand.

Then there appeared above the heads an airplane, plainly in trouble, with its daring pilot out upon the wing, attempting to maneuver the machine to safety. There was a sickening downward swoop, a crash, and from the wreckage Dicky, my husband, was taken out, alive, but terribly injured. And I had not known until an awful flashing instant of recognition at the very last that he was even in the service of his country.

Later, after Harry Underwood had spectacularly escaped from the officers guarding him and disappeared into the mysterious silence which had shrouded his movements ever since, I had learned that he, while drunk, was partly responsible for the cutting of the wing which caused the accident, although when he became partly sober, he had dashed to the field, given himself up and told his story, hoping to be in time to prevent the accident.

And this was the man, a guest in our home, to whose recital I was listening with outward calmness, and who had just told me that his awful crime of that long past day had been prompted by his desire to take me from Dicky, my husband!

I shrank back in my chair, and he saw and correctly interpreted the involuntary movement. There was no hint of reproach in his black eyes, but their brilliance was shadowed now by an infinite sadness which also invested his voice when after a moment he spoke, hesitatingly, appealingly.

"I can't blame you, Lady Fair. It isn't natural to want a skunk like me breathing the same air. But—old Dicky and Lil have forgiven me and—"

With a sudden rush of contrition, I remembered the long and bitter atonement which had been this man's. Under another name he had entered the ambulance service and had once saved Dicky's life when they were both upon the other side. Upon two of his brief, spectacular reappearances in our lives, he had rescued me from death and he was not yet fully recovered from the illness following the wound received in the last of his amazingly clever impersonations which enabled him to join revolutionary and criminal organizations and render most signal service to his country. I had listened to his delirious, ceaseless repetition of "How about it, Lil? Will it do?" An unconscious plea which I was sure had had much to do with his wife's taking him back into her life despite his atrocious conduct toward her.

I put out my hand impulsively, regretted the action immediately, for the Harry Underwood of the past had been an impetuous, turbulent fellow who counted a proffered feminine hand as a subject for an impassioned kiss instead of a friendly clasp. But my fear proved a groundless one, for Mr. Underwood's immediate grasp of my hand was delicate, almost reverent, and when I found voice to say, "Please count me as your friend, too, with all the past forgotten," he clasped it more tightly but immediately released it.

"Blessed child!" he said earnestly, then his keen sense of the radiculous sent a twinkle into his brilliant eyes and he quirked his lips into a grin.

"You see!" he said, with an absurd air of triumph. "I'm a reformed character." But the smile left his lips almost as he spoke, and I saw that he had not yet finished the explanation of that old madness he was giving me.

"I'm going to get this over with in a hurry," he said, "and then we need never talk of it again. I've thrashed it out with Lil, but I want you to know about it, too. As long as the girl was living there wasn't any use contradicting the story she chose to tell. But now that she's croaked herself—incidentally, the best piece of work she ever did in all her rotten life, I think it's time to tell the truth. Look here!" He bent forward impressively. "You and Lil both thought I fell for Grace Draper and took her to Japan after Lil and I had our row over Marion coming back, now didn't you?"

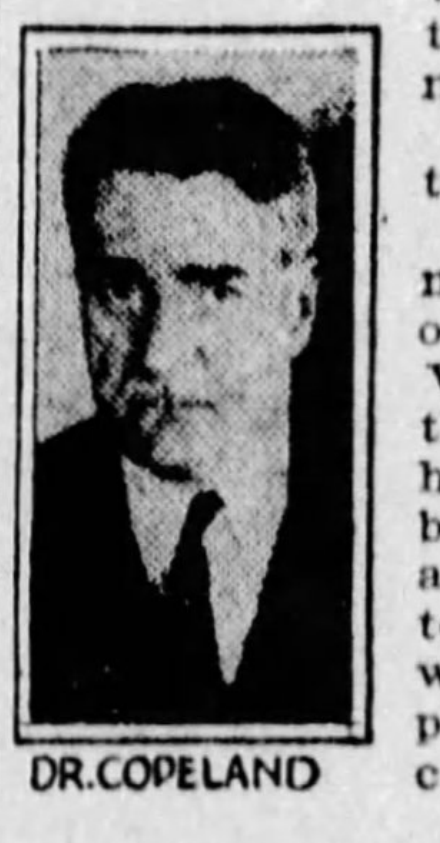
Stocking Hints

When buying silk stockings, see that the weave is close and firm. The stockings should be long enough for the tops to be doubled in two, so that the garter has a double thickness to grip. Silk stockings should be washed separately, never mangled, and never pegged up with wooden pegs. To avoid ladders, do not sit with crossed legs, nor rub them against the backs of seats of chairs, nor pull them up from the back seams

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Ill Nature Often Due to Depression



DR.COPELAND

IS ill-nature purely mental or has it a physical foundation? We meet plenty of persons who are cross, or depresed, or nervous, or unhappy. For the moment we will describe them all as ill-natured.

Why are they this way?

Discussing this matter is like the old question — Which came first, the egg or the hen? But it will be interesting and profitable, too, I believe, if we give the problem some consideration.

I have no doubt at all that a distressed and disturbed mind will upset digestion and, unless relief comes, will undermine the health. Worry has ruined many a life, or, at least, many days of many a life.

Bereavement, loss of position and every manner of misfortune, are prolific causes for worry and distress of mind. But in the absence of functional or organic disease of some sort will their effect continue indefinitely?

I think not. You may not agree with me and, if you are in serious opposition, please write and tell me why.

I cannot believe that a kind Providence would leave us stranded on the beach of existence and permit us to suffer endlessly because of things we cannot help. My theology may be wrong, but I could not bring myself to accept such a doctrine.

If a man is fundamentally sound, practicing the rules of hygiene, particularly as to simple eating, sunshine, out-of-door exercise, and an abundance of rest, if not of sleep, and giving himself interesting reading, listening to good music and keeping occupied—if these practices are observed, I am confident it will be a very rare case indeed that does not respond.

But if there is dyspepsia based on wrong eating, actual loss of function in the stomach or intestinal tract, or failure of the skin and kidneys to carry off the waste products, the mental kinks will be slow to straighten out. A logical infection in teeth, tonsils, nose, gall bladder or pelvic organs, may be responsible for the absorption of poisons which disturb the brain and result in interference with cheerful thought.

Pain anywhere in the body, twitching of the muscles, pressure in the eyeballs—anything that drives away sleep may be followed by mental depression and ill-nature in one of its many forms. Living in a noisy place, failure to get away from glaring lights, submitting to perpetual stenches, imprisonment in stifling bedrooms, sleeping under heavy blankets—anything that disturbs the rest, is very likely to disturb the mental processes.

In many, many instances ill-nature may be traced to physical causes. If you are all the time cross or unhappy, seek to find what is wrong with your body or one of its parts.

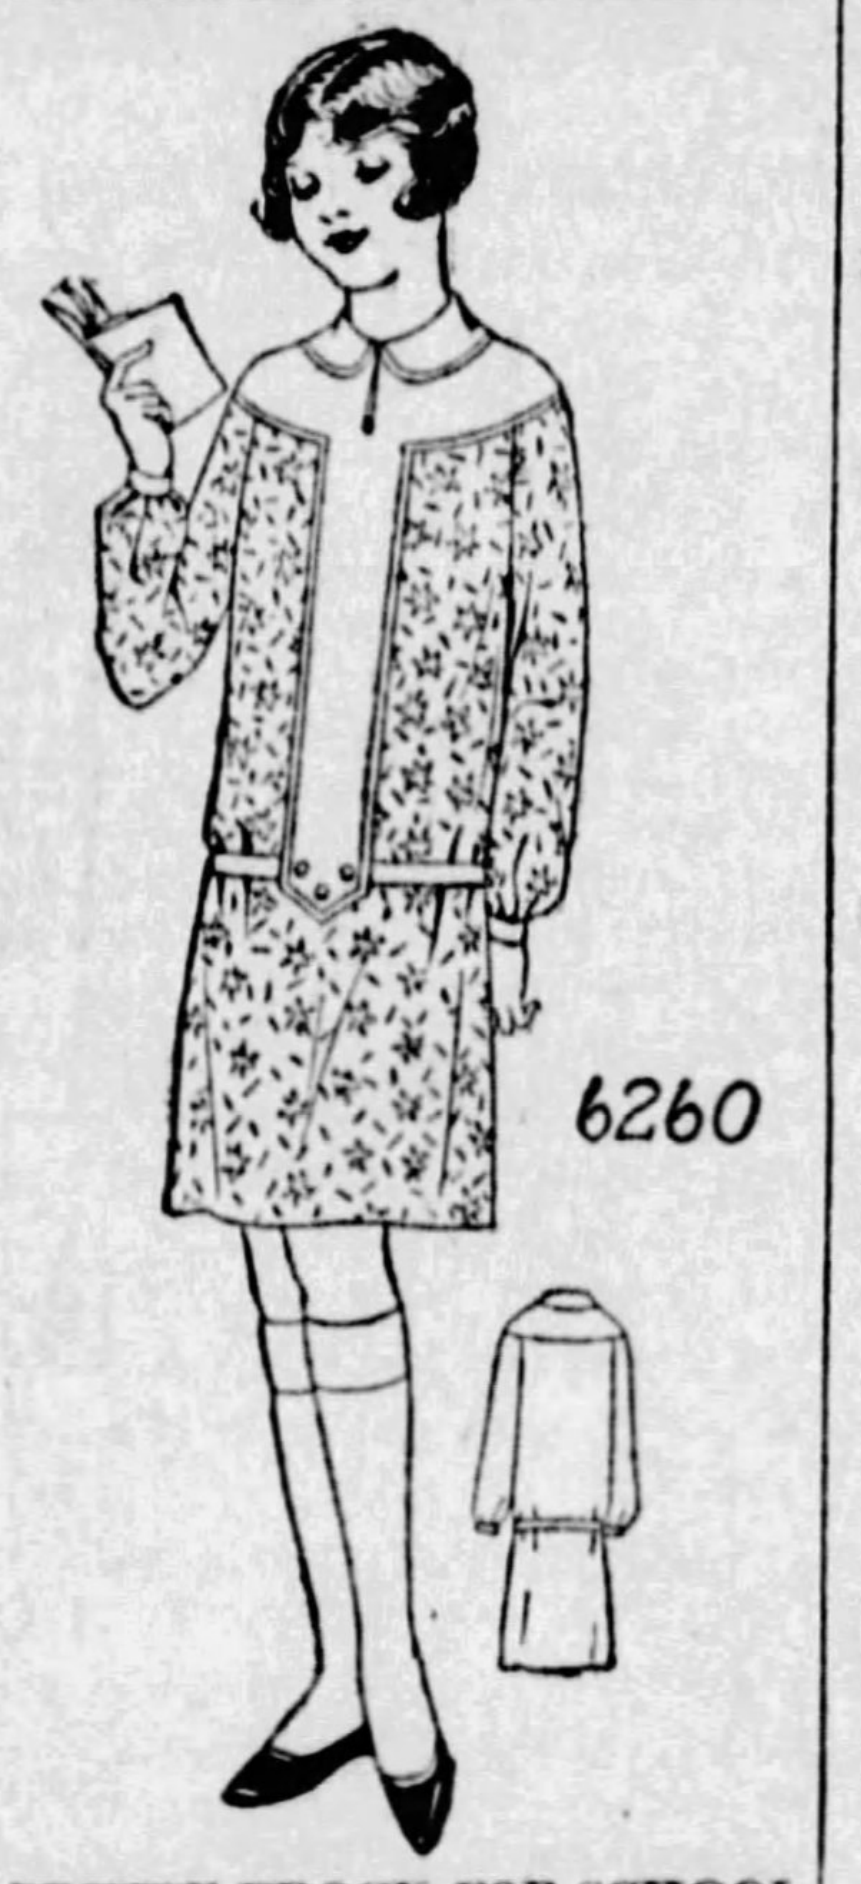
The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern



A PRETTY FROCK FOR SCHOOL OR HOME.

Printed voile combined with organdy was used in this instance. The model is also pleasing in other cotton prints, as well as in jersey or other wool fabrics. Navy blue crepe with facings of tan or red will be attractive. Wool rep in brown or red with pipings in white or beige is also pleasing. The yoke portions are long on the shoulders, and extend in a shaped tab over the center of the front. The sleeve is comfortable. It has pleasing fulness above the band cuff.

The pattern is cut in four sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. To make this desirable style for a 10-year size will require 2⅝ yards of 36-inch material, together with ⅞ yard of contrasting material for yoke, belt, cuff and collar facings.

PRUDENCE and a general state of wariness may save this day from the onsets of fraud, duplicity and chicanery in many planned projects. New ventures are especially threatened by this sinister ray, which may also be jeopardized by rash and ill-guarded moves. With care, things should thrive and there may be advantageous changes or removals. In personal matters be calm and discreet.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a prosperous year if they will be on guard against treachery, fraud and generally subtle and sinister conditions. Also they should be cool and well governed in all matters, personal and business.

A child born on this day may be quick, rash and hasty and may be fairly successful in its affairs in spite of subtlety and secretive ways and attacks.

When desperate ills demand a speedy cure, distrust is cowardice and prudence folly.—Dr. Johnson.

MANY young women hold responsible positions in the business world. Their heads are filled with important business data. It is strictly confidential and they do not discuss it with anyone.

It would be well for them to respect their own personal affairs with this same strict confidence.

Of course, one wishes to share her hopes, happiness and disappointments with one's own family, but few outsiders are sincerely interested. Some persons who seem so sympathetic are really only curious.

Also those who seek to confide what they "would not tell any one else in the world," do often tell several others. Then all are blamed for repeating it! It is not wise to confide too much. It is not safe to accept too many confidences!

BUGS BAER Says

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

AN old established Chinkadee claims to be worth 250 years.

That's plenty of chronological plunder for any one man to pack around on his gears.

The veteran rice plunger's name is Chung-Yun. He claims to have been born in 1678.

His story is robustly remarkable.

He has yards of proof. He says then even at that early age in 1678 he was a Chinaman.

Nobody can dispute facts like those. If you dispute stories of great age in Chinese circles all you've got to do is to look at some of those laundry bundles on the top shelf.

Chung-Yun has four rules for longevity.

1. Keep a quiet heart.

2. Sit like a tortoise.

3. Walk sprightly like a pigeon.

4. Sleep like a dog.

And after you do all that, marry an animal trainer.

What use is a quiet heart when you live near the elevated, a boiler factory and a public playgrounds?

And squatting like a tortoise would be great, especially when the boss came in and found you doing some turtle setting-up exercises when you should be working like a beaver.

Walking sprightly like a pigeon is easy. One slug of bootleg and you will flutter like a dove.

Sleeping like a dog is more difficult because it is hard to get both legs under your chin.

We always claimed that our own rules for long life were more beneficial and practical.

1. Never carry a bundle by the string.

2. Count your fingers after shaking hands with a Philadelphia lawyer.

3. Never sleep with the windows open when you are in a submarine.

4. Keep your feet dry when taking a bath.

HEARST

WHO ARE THEY

These 20 Million Readers?

No two trees are exactly alike—but there is no mistaking an oak forest.

The more than twenty million men and women who read the Hearst Newspapers are not merely so many million individuals; they are a massed personality—a force of over twenty million man-power—rich and poor, high and low, representatives of every class and creed, sprung from ancestors of a hundred races.

Bankers and brokers, artists and artisans, great merchants and keepers of small shops, statesmen and students—preachers, teachers, farmers, millionaires, and clerks—differing from each other in pursuits, in rank, in condition, yet alike in spirit and desire.

No matter how else they differ, these three things they are: young, all of them—not necessarily in years, but in the spirit of eternal youth; ambitious for their own and their country's welfare; progressive in every thought and act.

It is this combination of qualities that makes these more than twenty million readers of Hearst Newspapers so great a factor in the life of America, such spirited exponents of progress, such eager buyers of merchandise.

And, more than anything else, these millions of readers are, first and last, thoroughly American—because the Hearst Newspapers themselves are, first and last, thoroughly American.

News Bits About Theaters, Amusements and Hollywood Activities

GOOD WORK BY ANITA PAGE IN "DANCING DAUGHTERS" WINS HER LEAD ROLE

By REGINA CREWE.

(Copyright 1928, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 29.

LITTLE ANITA PAGE, credited by some with stealing "Our Dancing Daughters" from all the other players in the cast, is rewarded for her fine performance by being chosen as William Haines' leading woman in "The Duke Steps Out," Bill's next starring vehicle.

The story is about a pugilist, and the chief character is said to have been molded more or less in the image of Polly Lauder's husband. James Cruze is going to direct Haines again. So it seems sure that we'll get a snappy photoplay.

BEACH BEAUTIES :-: PLAY GOLF :-: OF NEW VARIETY

Raquel Torres, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer player, drives off at first tee for a round of the new game of beach golf.

Mary Doran lines up her final putt in the new pastime in Hollywood, which employs an overgrown hockey stick and large rubber balls. The players here seen are Fay Webb, Dorothy Janis, Raquel Torres and Miss Doran. Except for implements the game is like ordinary golf.

Fay Webb has good form whatever you think of her stance. Mary Doran waits her turn as Miss Webb tees off for a whirl at the new game of shinny in the sand, as played on the California shore.

Young Gleason Gets Talk Job

RUSSELL GLEASON, son of Jimmy and Lucille, is the first man to be picked for Pathe's all-audible photodrama, "The Missing Man," which by the way, is Pathe's first all-talking picture. Russell was "discovered" by Director E. H. Griffith, through the good offices of Bob Armstrong. Griffith was looking for a kid reporter type for his film "Shady Lady," in which Armstrong and Phyllis Haver co-star. Armstrong suggested the son of his old pal, Jimmy Gleason, and Russell delivered the goods.

Make Dialogue For "Barker"

DIALOGUE sequences are being taken for "The Barker," in which Betty Compson, Dorothy Mackaill and Milton Sills appear. This has necessitated reshooting portions of the picture, especially those in which the chap who fails as a sideshow barker is shown. This role is now played by Tom Dugan, who has evolved the bright idea of portraying the character with a Joe Frisco stutter. It should be good for a lot of laughs.

One Romance On, Another Is Off

THE latest Hollywood romance to blossom is that of Lucy Doraine and Dr. Richard Reithmuller. Lucy, who was brought here by Paramount as a possible successor to Pola Negri, was formerly the wife of Director Michael Curtiz. She is at present playing in the Fox picture, "Christine," which stars Janet Gaynor. Lucy and Dr. Reithmuller will be married after the new year. To counterbalance this happy ending, James Hall and Merna Kennedy, two of Hollywood's inseparables, announce that they have decided to call all bets off regarding matrimony, and devote their lives to furthering their careers. They remain the best of friends. But that is all.

Fred Thompson May Go to Fox

FOX'S quest for a cowboy star seems to have ended with the news that in all probability Fred Thomson will sign on the dotted line upon his return from Europe. Thomson has enormous popularity throughout the country, although, oddly enough, very few of his pictures have ever appeared on Broadway. However, the same may be said of Tom Mix, the greatest of them all when it comes to making "westerns." Thomson is a logical successor to Tom on the Fox lot. By the way, do you know that Fred studied at Princeton to be a minister? Also that he is a great pal of Gene Tunney?

Betty-and-Dick Team Continues

THE combination of Betty Compson and Richard Barthelmess, so successful in the recently completed "Scarl Seas," is destined to endure for at least one more picture. For Betty is arguing to play opposite Dick in "Weary River," which is to be a First National sound picture. Several other girls were carefully considered for the role, but it was decided that Betty is the best bet.

The characterization which will be contributed by Miss Compson is one for which she has proven her eminent qualifications in other photoplays. It is a portrayal of a convict's sweetheart, Dick being the jailbird who gains freedom and regeneration thro a song which he composes. Production will begin at once under Frank Lloyd's direction.

Our Kenneth In Sound Film

DIRECTOR HARRY BEAUMONT is preparing for the filming of Metro's sound film, "Broadway Melody," which will live up to its name through the introduction of several brand new song numbers. Kenneth Thomson, vividly remembered for his characterization in "White Gold," and more recently "The Bellamy Trial," has been again lured from the stage for a prominent role in the picture, Charles King, Broadway baritone, being the leading man. Anita Page, Bessie Love and Blanche Leclair portray three girls of the theater. Gus Edwards and Billy Rose are doing the musical score.

"Queen Kelly" Marking Time

HOLLYOOD is becoming uneasy regarding the delay in production of Gloria Swanson's Von Stroheim-directed photodrama, "Queen Kelly." Everything has been in readiness for some time, but the starting date has been postponed several times. Although Gloria's picture will bear the United Artists' trademark, as usual, it is supposed to be made in another studio through arrangement with Joseph P. Kennedy. It is said that the entrance of the Radio Corporation of America into the movie field has something to do with the delay. Gloria's fans are always in a hurry to see her next film. And this one should be the best ever.

Stars to Move, Rumor States

THERE'S a rumor afloat that John Gilbert has signed with an organization now controlled by the Radio Corporation of America. Also that Adolphe Menjou is considering a similar connection. And Gloria Swanson is likewise included. Gloria, of course, is an owner-member in United Artists, which would seem to let her out. Then, too, it has been definitely stated that Gilbert's pictures will bear the United Artists trade mark when his Metro contract expires in the spring. The truth may be that they are arranging to finance independent producing units for these stars, and that their pictures are to be released through United Artists. As Bide Dudley says, 'Much excitement but can learn nothing.'

Burton Holmes Here November 7

Burton Holmes is to return to Carnegie Music Hall Wednesday evening, November 7, to begin a series of pictured travel revues. The first of these which is to concern itself with the "Glories of Madrid," will portray something of the touristic as well as the historical and artistic aspects of the Spanish capital as they appeared to this observer, who for several months during this past summer lived with the scenes he describes.

Acid Stomach Is Dangerous

Sufferers From Indigestion Should CUT THIS OUT

Stomach trouble, dyspepsia, indigestion, sourness, gas, heartburn, food fermentation, etc., are caused nine times in ten by "too much acid" in the stomach.

The acid irritates and inflames the delicate stomach lining and often leads to gastritis or dangerous stomach ulcers. Never dose an acid stomach with pepsin or artificial digestants that give merely temporary relief. You must get at the cause.

The best plan is, to neutralize or sweeten your acid stomach after meals with a little Bisurated Magnesia. Then not only will the pain and sourness quickly vanish but your food will digest properly as nature intended.

Be sure to use genuine Bisurated Magnesia. There is nothing better to settle an upset acid stomach. You feel fine in five minutes. May Drug Co. and reliable druggists everywhere say it must give complete satisfaction or its small cost will be returned. Bisurated Magnesia comes in both powder and convenient tablet form. Handy to carry about, easy to use, not a laxative, and, for making a disordered stomach do its duty, it works like a charm.

Director

Frank Strayer, who directed "Moran of the Marines," photoplay in the Penn this week, is a Wilkinsburg boy who has made good in the movie colony of Hollywood, where he is one of the directors on the Paramount staff.

Marquis Plays in 'The Dark Hours'

"The Dark Hours," a biblical play by Don Marquis, will be staged by the Department of Drama of the Carnegie Institute of Technology for at least eight performances next Wednesday night, October 31, in the theater of the College of Fine Arts. According to the announcement, Mr. Marquis is coming from New York to view the opening performance as the guest of the Department of Drama. "The Dark Hours," written in 1925, has never before been produced. It is reported that Mr. Marquis has refused to allow production of the play by commercial managers until he could be assured that it would be staged "properly," and without change in script.

The production will be in charge of Prof. Chester M. Wallace, head of the Department of Drama.

MISS COWL IN STAGE PLAYS

Jane Cowl's new play, "The Jealous Moon," will open a week's engagement in the Alvin tonight. Included with Miss Cowl in the cast are Philip Merivale and Guy Standing. Matinee days are Wednesday and Saturday.

Anne Nichols' durable comedy, most successful play of recent years, "Abie's Irish Rose," will be seen in the Pitt for a week, beginning tonight. Patricia Quinn plays the title role. There will be matinees Thursday and Saturday.

Tonight in the Nixon Frank Craven is to begin a week's engagement in his domestic comedy, "The 19th Hole." The supporting company surrounding Mr. Craven brings back Dorothy Blackburn, Marion Abbott, Robert Wayne, Homer Barton, Walter Downing, Harry Lewellyn, John Harwood, Jay Adair Young, Russell Morrison and Beecher Zebbs.

Ziegfeld's new musical production, "Whoopee," starring Eddie Cantor, will have its world's premiere in the Nixon Theater on Tuesday night, November 6, the theater being dark on Monday night, November 5, because of dress rehearsals. Eddie Cantor will be supported by Ethel Shutta, Ruth Etting, Ruby Keeler, Frances Upton, Tamara Geva, Helen Brown, Chief Caupolican, Indian baritone, and a number of Ziegfeld "glorified" girls.

"The Desert Song," one of the most successful of musical dramas and sponsored by Schwab and Mandel, producers of "The New Moon" and "Good News," will be the Alvin attraction beginning Monday, November 5. In the cast are Alexander Gray, Bernard Granville, Bernice Claire, Harold Stanton, Edna Torrence, John Philip Ryder, Carlotta Miles, Sally Sloane, Donald Douglas and others.

Beginning next Monday, the Pitt will present the Negro comedians, Miller and Lyles, in their latest jazz production, "Keep Shufflin'." Included in their company are Blanche Calloway, blues singer, and the Harmony Trio, which sings Negro spirituals.

The headline attraction in the Keith-Albee vaudeville program in the Davis next week is known as Harry Rogers' All-Girl Show, an offering of fun, song and dance. Charlie Murray will be seen on the screen in "The Head Man."

Harris Houses To Celebrate

Following a custom it established several years ago the Harris Amusement Company will have old-fashioned Halloween parties in all of its theaters. They will take place on Wednesday night, October 31, beginning at 8 o'clock, and in every respect will hark back to the harmless, playful and merry pranks typical of Halloween. In the Harris and Sheridan Square each person in attendance will receive a favor at the door. Twelve prizes will be awarded to those whom the audience and the judges select as the winners of various Halloween contests. There will be prizes for women, men, girls and boys.

"Lovely smooth skin has quickest appeal" says Richard Wallace, director for FIRST NATIONAL

SATIN-SMOOTH SKIN — its lovely youthful freshness touches the heart! What a thrill grips the audience when the close-up reveals the exquisite perfection of the screen star's skin.

Knowing this, motion picture directors make flawless "studio skin" a first essential, for the screen star must constantly face the glaring close-up lights.

Nine out of ten screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap. There are in Hollywood 433 important actresses, including all stars. 417 of these use this fragrant, white soap. All the great film studios have made it the official soap in their dressing rooms.

"A smooth skin—'studio skin'—is one of the most important assets a screen star has. Like every girl and even more than most girls I have to guard my skin. I always use Lux Toilet Soap—it's lovely."

Mary Astor

MARIE PREVOST is considered one of the most alluring stars in Hollywood. "To find a soap as delightful as the choice soaps you get in Paris, is a joy. Lux Toilet Soap gives my skin such satiny smoothness," says this Pathé star.

RUTH TAYLOR, the famous little blonde who stars with Paramount, says . . . "I guard my skin as my most priceless possession and know that Lux Toilet Soap treats it gently."

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

Glory for Both Sides in Carnegie-Pitt Result—Harpster, Rosencweig, Getto and Uansa Stand Out—Dreyfuss Makes Right Move in Retaining Bush—Muldoon Raps Stalling Champs.

RARELY does an important football game result in such a manner as to leave both sides satisfied to the point of enthusiasm, but that was the case when dusk settled on Oakland Saturday at the conclusion of the annual gridiron combat between Carnegie Tech and Pitt.

Howard Harpster

The Skibos won, as their advantage in weight and other respects had indicated they would, and their followers rejoiced accordingly. But the Panthers acquitted themselves so nobly in defeat, and so far surpassed the expectations of their most sanguine adherents, that they came out of the fiercely-fought battle on the rain-soaked field with quite as much glory as the victors, causing Pitt men to show an air of greater satisfaction and gratification than they had ever displayed before in connection with a lost contest.

THE Panthers surely rose to unexpected heights in giving one of the greatest exhibitions of gameness and fighting spirit ever seen on a barred field anywhere. It is typical of Pitt elevens to show remarkable spirit and play inspired football when the odds are heaviest against them, but on this occasion they outdid themselves as never before.

Not only did they hold Carnegie to a 6-to-0 score, an unlooked-for achievement in itself, but during more than three-fourths of the playing time they actually outplayed their mighty opponents. Outweighed nearly 20 pounds to the man, with the main punch of their attack missing on account of the incapacitation of Fullback Tom Parkinson, and with the odds in general so heavily against them that they appeared to have no chance to escape a near-slaughter, they made such an amazing showing in the face of the overwhelming handicap that the outcome might almost be termed a real victory for them, without the use of any "moral" adjectives.

THOUGH every member of Dr. Sutherland's team is entitled to a full share of Pitt's well-earned glory—and there was plenty of it to go around—there were two Panthers in particular who stood out beyond their mates. One was Right Tackle Mike Getto, of Jeannette, and the other was Right Halfback Toby Uansa, of McKees Rocks. Uansa was easily the Blue and Gold's backfield star of the day, and it was due largely to his brilliance that the Panthers' offense outshone Carnegie's much of the time.

The surprising failure of the left side of Carnegie's powerful line to look as good as usual was not due to any loss of strength on the part of that section of Judge Steffen's machine, but to the fact that in Getto it was up against a brilliant opponent who was a whole line in himself.

UNQUESTIONABLY, Getto was the best lineman on the field Saturday. He tore gaping holes in the Skibo wall, opened wide lanes for the Pitt ball carriers, broke through and smeared play after play attempted by the Plaid, brought down runners before they could get fairly started, was Johnny-on-the-spot at all times and in general gave an exhibition of line play that has not been excelled here in years. And at that it was not merely a one-day flash. Mike was only normal. For he has been playing the same brilliant game ever since the post-season game against Stanford on the coast last winter. During that game he was sent in to relieve Bill Kearns and displayed uncommon ability that has developed since to such an extent that he now ranks with the best linemen in the country.

Mike Getto

BUT the fact that Pitt made such a wonderful showing and earned so much glory in spite of defeat, should not be allowed to detract from the credit due to Carnegie Tech as the winner. The aim and object of the Steffenites was to win the game, and as they succeeded in doing so it must be admitted that they accomplished all that they set out to do, all that any team could be expected to do. You can't take anything away from them.

In truth, the fact that Pitt proved so unexpectedly strong makes the credit due Carnegie all the greater. It would have looked like merely an ordinary performance if the Skibos had run away with the game, played the Panthers off their feet and piled up a larger score, for that was what the dope had said they ought to do in view of the poor showings made by Pitt previously.

SO IT follows that there was all the more glory in the Schenley Park lads' victory because it was scored over foemen immeasureably stronger than they had been doped. The Skibos may well feel proud of their fourth victory over Pitt in the last six meetings.

Always there is far more credit due to a team that beats a strong opponent than to one that defeats a weak antagonist. So, instead of Saturday's score being looked upon as reverse for the Plaid, all the more praise should be given to Carnegie's gridders because they were able to beat an eleven as formidable as Pitt proved to be.

LIKE the Pittites, the Scots had a few outstanding players. John Karcia showed his stuff late in the game, but for brilliant work throughout the afternoon Capt. Howard Harpster was the real star, with Theodore Rosencweig and Harvey Shaughenev sharing largely in the honors. Harpster again demonstrated that he is one of the greatest football players in Uncle Sam's domain. They rarely come any nearer to being perfect. His running, passing, punting and generalship on Saturday showed once more that he is in a class of his own around here, and how he can be left off any all-American team is not clear to the fans of this district. He and Rosencweig or Shaughenev form a remarkable

CAPITAL ELEVEN LEADS

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(AP.)—Georgetown not only kept her record clear of defeat but increased her lead in the race for football team scoring honors in the East over the week-end. The high-powered Washington machine rolled up 35 points against Duke and brought its total for the season to 240.

New York University's overwhelming victory over Colgate sent the Violet into runner-up position with 176. The two leaders will battle out the question of point scoring in a duel of their own at the Yankee Stadium Saturday.

Carnegie Tech, another undefeated team, holds third place in point scoring with 167. Lafayette, beaten by West Virginia and tied by Bucknell, is third with 162. A point behind comes Pennsylvania, which bowed to Navy.

Only five teams in the East can boast of a clean defensive record. Temple, one of the five undefeated and untied teams, is one of them. The others are Princeton, Lowell Textile, Connecticut Aggies and Canisius, all of whom have been held to scoreless ties.

THREE ARE TIED FOR LEAD IN BIG TEN

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—(AP.)—With three teams flaunting unblemished records, the race for the Western Conference gridiron honors turns into the stretch drive, leaving Illinois, holder of the 1927 title, Iowa and Ohio State, to war over the 1928 championship.

Illinois, in winning from Northwestern, 6-to-0, gave indications it is not infallible and may face more than an ordinary battle in meeting an old rival in Michigan at Ann Arbor Saturday. The Wolverines, although losing 7-to-0 to Wisconsin, revealed evidence that they apparently have recovered from their slump.

The Illinois-Michigan affray and thea combat between Minnesot and Northwestern at Evanston will be the only conference battles next Saturday. The other teams, excepting Indiana, Purdue and Iowa, will engage in intersectional tilts. The stand ing of the Big Ten follows:

	Won	Lost	Tied	Pct.
Ohio State	3	0	0	1.000
Iowa	2	0	0	1.000
Illinois	2	0	0	1.000

Local Lad Hailed as Combination Of Slattery And Greb

JACK "BUCK" McTIERNAN

WILL HE BE CHAMP?

Jack (Buck) McTiernan, Hazelwood boxer, recent graduate of the amateur ranks, is being hailed as a combination of Jimmy Slattery and the late Harry Greb, and a great future is predicted for him. He is fighting under the management of Eddie Mead, of Cleveland. Mead piloted Joe Lynch to the bantamweight throne some years ago. McTiernan has been a consistent winner in his professional engagements.

Speaking of Sports

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

SEEMS that the Elis were well Cagled by the Army on Saturday.

DID YOU GET YOUR QUOTA OF PNEUMONIA GERMS AT THE PITT-TECH SWIMMING MATCH?

A vote for Harpster is one for Rosencweig. They're a great pair. Like ham and eggs, they go together. Harpy throws a football and Rosencweig catches it and—presto! a touchdown.

One player that lived up to his name Saturday was Mike Getto, the Pitt tackle. How he did go and getto 'em! It wasn't his fault that Tech won.

TECH'S 6-0 WIN WAS A MORAL VICTORY FOR THE "EGG-SPERTS," WHO ALMOST TOOK ONE ON THE CHIN.

Little birdie whispers that Jack Zivic is about to take unto himself a new manager, the same being one Byron Foutts, of Midland, Pa., a longtime friend.

Friend Byron is a brother of Ray Foutts, the Wellsville (O.) promoter, for whom Pete Zivic fights tonight. Byron already is the pilot of George and Andy Tomosky, Frankie Porto, Freddie Edwards, Harry Morris and Walter O'Keefe.

Jack won't be ready to fight again until around Christmas or New Year's. He's resting up following the operation in which he was separated from his tonsils and adenoids.

TECH'S LONE TOUCHDOWN PREVENTED SATURDAY'S GAME FROM BEING A TOTAL BLANK, ASIDE FROM PITT'S GREAT SHOWING.

Our all-America backfield still stands as Howard Harpster and three other guys who can do things.

Don't forget that, at the rate of one a year, there still are enough teams left in the big leagues to last Rogers Hornsby for the balance of his wandering baseball career.

Asked this morning what he thought of the Pitt-Tech game Saturday, Coach Jock Sutherland, of Pitt, replied at great length: "Yea."

THE MID-ATLANTIC LEAGUE AVERAGES HAVE BEEN PUBLISHED. NOW WE KNOW THAT THE SEASON IS OVER.

There is no Carnegie Tech game for him to see next Saturday, so Donie Bush decided to agree to his Pirate contract for next season over the week-end.

Now we know Navy has been playing possum all along in order to beat that haughty Penn team.

PRECEDING his return from Chicago to handle Cuddy De Marco against Phil Goldstein at Mo

CUDDY AND PHIL AWAIT GONG

CUDDY DEMARCO vs. Phil Goldstein for the 140-pound boxing championship of Pittsburgh—that's the windup offering at Motor Square Garden tonight.

Cuddy, a veteran, faces Phil, only two years out of the amateur ranks.

It will be a case of Cuddy's ring knowledge vs. Phil's youth and ambition.

CUDDY DE MARCO

Goldstein will be fighting to even up for the defeat he suffered in the same ring two weeks ago at the firsts of Johnny Mellow, of Detroit. DeMarco will be fighting to retain his position at the head of the heavy lightweights in this section.

If they have a good night, the bout may be a classic. It is certain to be rough and full of hard mixing, at any rate, for each has a love for close-range fighting.

Dan Billick of Duquesne, stablemate of Goldstein in New York, will meet Jackie Rodgers, flashy Negro batamweight of the North Side, in the eight-round semi-final.

In the six-round bout, Dominick Profio, of Cecil, takes on one K. O. Chappie, of Scranton. There will be two four-rounders, with Dave McConnell, of the North Side, meeting Bob Collera, a recent graduate of the amateur ranks, and Marco Polo, of the North Side, battling Tiger Joe Randall, Negro welterweight, of Elizabeth, Pa.

PETE ZIVIC IN ACTION

Pete Zivic, veteran local bantam, battles Jacinto Valdez, Filipino, of Youngstown, in an eight-round windup at Wellsville, O., tonight. Henry Morris, of Steubenville, and Johnny Pollock, of Youngstown, are in the six-round semi-final.

Freddie Fitzgerald, of Youngstown, and Young Rudy, of Charleroi, meet in a 10-round battle at the Washington (Pa.) Gardens tonight. Harry Spencer, of Washington, and Pete Blitman, of Pittsburgh, are paired for the eight-round semi-final; Joe Severn, of Tarentum, meets Red Ryan, of Washington, in the second bout, and Al Waldeck, of Tarentum, is on with Young Smackey, of Canonsburg, in the opener.

Willie Davies, Charleroi flyweight, will be after revenge when he squares off with Johnny McCoy, veteran of San Antonio, in the 10-round main event in the Jolly Bowl, New Castle, tonight, McCoy being the man who gained a trick decision over him to eliminate him from the California flyweight tournament about a year ago. Georgie Peck, of the North Side, and Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, box the semi-final.

RING IMMORTAL

The fame of the late Harry Greb, Pittsburgh's greatest ring product, will survive as long as the boxing game goes on. If McTiernan can approach him in ability, the hopes of his admirers will be more than realized.

TO INVESTIGATE SCHOOL RIOT

POMONA, Cal., Oct. 29.—(AP.)—An investigation which officials believed would terminate athletic relations between Chaffey Union High School of Ontario and Pomona High School, and probably result in arrests, was underway yesterday following the annual street battle which ended in one death and serious injury to two others here late Saturday.

An inquest, which will be held this morning over the body of Gilbert Hull, who was killed when his automobile crashed into a telephone pole during a running battle, is expected to bring out the facts of the case.

The battle, which annually followed the football clash between the two schools, is said to have developed into a free-for-all in which outsiders participated. Principals H. P. Reynolds, of Pomona and Merton E. Hill, of Chaffey Union, declared thay had cautioned their proteges against entering into the contest and that not more than 10 per cent of the 300 who took part in the affray were students.

Civic leaders of both towns are outspoken in their condemnation of the "apparent laxity" of officials in allowing the pitched battle to take place.

HUMBERT LEADS IN CONFERENCE

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—(AP.)—Although he failed to score against Northwestern's tight defense, Fritz Humbert, Illinois' thundering fullback, held his lead in the chase for individual honors in the Big Ten football campaign.

Humbert leads with seven touchdowns or a total of 42 points. Oran Pape, of Iowa, and Fred Hovde, of Minnesota, who gave fans a thrill of a lifetime in the Minnesota-Iowa battle by scoring a touchdown apiece in a little more than a minute, remained deadlocked for second place with a total of 36 points each. Bo Guisner, of Wisconsin, took fourth place with his touchdown against Michigan his total being 21.

The leading scorers, showing touchdowns, field goals and extra points after touchdowns:

DUQUESNE SUFFERS DEFEAT

By JESS CARVER.

MORE of the mighty took it on the whiskers Saturday. It was a tough day for the elite of college football. Those favored elevens that didn't win were, with one or two exceptions, exceptionally hard pressed to live up to their reputations, and a large assemblage of the hoity-toity were sunk. Verily, the day was long and arduous for some of we'uns.

The national upsets included Harvard's triumph at the expense of Dartmouth; Iowa's smack at Minnesota; Gettysburg's victory over Bucknell; the setback suffered by Davis-Elkins at the hands of Ralph Vince's fighting John Carroll team of Cleveland; West Virginia's win over Lafayette, and the Navy's surprising regeneration and eventual triumph over Old Penn.

TECH RETAINS RECORD

Here in Pittsburgh, Carnegie Tech kept its record unsullied by ekeing out a hard fough 6-0 triumph over an embattled Pitt eleven. Pitt gained more friends by the manner in which its lighter warriors outfought and almost completely outplayed the heavier and better reserved Tartans than the school has ever gained through the medium of a victory. Folks are hailing Jock Sutherland as they have never hailed him before this day.

Carnegie Tech proved its mettle by the way in which the team pulled itself together in that fourth period to pound away for a touchdown. It was the individual brilliancy of Howard Harpster that carried the team through, however, for had Harp not called every play right, and not tossed two perfect passes, it might have been an entirely different story.

Sharing the warm glow of the spotlight with Harpster as heroes of the Homeric struggle are Toby Uansa, Pitt's mighty atom of the backfield; Mike Getto, who deserves ranking with the best tackles in Pittsburgh's football history; Josh Williams, the fast-stepping Panther halfback, and Saul Meilzinger, whose fine handling of the ball at the center position for Tech gave Harpster a good basis for his admirable kicking and heaving.

Tech may go on now, with heads high and hopes soaring, to face the stern opposition that stands between the Plaid and a possible claim to the Eastern championship. The opposition is to be furnished by Lou Little's steamrolling Georgetown eleven, Knute Rockne (you've heard of Knute, of course) and his Notre Dame Irish and Monsieur Chick Meehan's New York University unblushing Violets.

Despite the fierceness of the struggle, there were no serious injuries. Glenn (Hotfoot) Moorehead bumped his coco when he tackled Eddie Baker and had to be carried from the field, but he wound up with nothing more serious than a bad headache. First reports had him suffering from a broken collar bone. He didn't even dent his collar button.

DUKES BEATEN

The Dukes are licking their wounds today following the first defeat of the year. In comparison with other years this setback has been a long time coming. Geneva turned the trick where Wash-Jeff, Loyola, Slippery Rock and St. Thomas failed. The Covenanters as a result of their 7-9 triumph at Beaver Falls, are sitting pretty once again at the top of the Conference standing.

The Dukes played some good football, and were not disgraced in the defeat. Geneva showed an almost airtight defense against the aerial attack Layden tossed its way. The Covenanters stabbed away at the Duke line with enough success to put the ball in position for Joe Preece to batter his way through for the winning marker.

West Virginia gave further proof of possessing a very good football team by beating Herbie McCracken's Lafayette Maroons, and by a sizeable score. Prior to Saturday's setback, only four first downs had been made at the expense of the Leopards and no scores. The Mountaineers hitched up their britches and smoe Herbie hip, thigh and on the button.

Wash-Jeff, with Jap Douds and Carl Aschman sitting on the bench admiring the tall buildings in New York, was soundly trounced by Frank Cavanaugh's Fordham Irishmen, 34-6. Wash-Jeff was badly battered by Tech, and never had a chance against Fordham. The Presidents, with Bucknell, Lafayette, Pitt and West Virginia remaining to be played, may go through the season with the doubtful record of not having won a major game. The Red and Black outlook is mostly black.

Grove City needs only to tie or beat Geneva this week-end to clinch the tri-state minor college title. Charley Berry's Crimson beat Allegheny 13-7 Saturday, taking advantage of some woozy punting by

BOUDA MUD WINNER

PARIS, Oct. 29.—(AP.)—Abominable weather spoiled the end of the racing season at Longchamps yesterday. A 24-hour rain turned the track into a sea of mud through which Bouda, a four-year-old, belonging to Henri Ternynck, galloped to victory in the $5,000 Gladiator Stakes handicap.

WEST VIEW TOPS BURNS, 9-6

By TOM BIRKS.

WITH great crowds lining the fields, independent football had a big day Sunday and incidentally two more of the undefeated clubs bit the dust when West View defeated Burns, 9 to 6, and Bridgeville stopped the Carrick club by a 6-to-0 score. The battle at Springdale between the undefeated McChesneytown aggregation and the Amicus finished in a scoreless tie. In the other important games Linwood and Pleasant Valley played to a 0-0 score; Verona won its tilt with Oakmont, 6 to 0; Lawrenceville Mohawks nosed out Tarentum, 2 to 0, a safety deciding the game; the McKeesport Olympics kept in the titular fight by trouncing Glassport Odds, 12 to 0.

The game between Burns, 1927 independent champions, and West View drew a great crowd. West View kicked to Burns. After tries at the line Sharkey returned the punt. A kicking duel finished when Stein punted on the first play to Sweeney, who was downed on the Burns' 35-yard line. The second play was a forward pass, Sweeney to Boots Klinzing, 35 yards, for a touchdown. Kelsh added the try for point. Gibson's bad passing caused Burns to lose another two points in the second quarter. The center was passing poorly throughout. Brown received a Klinzing punt on his own 10 yard line, and was tackled by Dummer. Gibson then got off another bad pass to Hudson, who was tackled on his own goal line for the safety. The half found West View leading by a 9-to-0 score.

OPENS AERIAL ATTACK

Burns opened an aerial attack at the beginning of the third quarter that netted a touchdown. Stein threw a forward pass to Kaufmann for a first down. Gene Davies plunged through center, gaining the 13 yards, and with the ball on the Parkers' 31-yard line, Hudson uncorked a 15-yard pass to Kaufmann. Luffy then sent Sharkey in for Guenther. On a double pass Kaufmann went around left end for the touchdown. Stein tried a forward pass for the extra point, but Klinzing broke up the play.

That finished the scoring. Both clubs fought hard trying to get the edge until the end. In the matter of first downs Burns had the advantage, having six to the Parkers' four. Looking at the game from an unbiased standpoint, it is a wonder Luffy left Gibson in center, seeing the number of bad passes snapped back.

At Springdale the banner crowd of the season watched the Amicus and McChesneytown play a typical college fight. The Big Red machine from Latrobe scored 10 first downs to Springdale's one in the second period but could not score. McChesneytown suffered a tough break when they were penalized on the one yard line for having men in motion. The lineups:

Plenty of interesting soccer football was flashed for the benefit of the fans Sunday. The American Soccer loop, as the leading circuit in the district, however, again had a forfeit game when the East Pittsburgh Magyars strayed, going to Dunlevy and forfeited to the upriver club by a 1 to 0 score. The Corinthians, subbing for Heidelberg, which, by the way, is trying to get the eligibility list in working order, sprang a surprise by holding the German Sport Club to a 2-2 tie score.

The third game in the loop found the Westinghouse Club keeping its scoring activities in ship shape at McKeesport, netting the ball five times and defeating National Tube by a 5 goals to 2 score.

The Chartiers Valley League as usual played to some bumper crowds down the Panhandle territory. Cecil had lots of fun at Glendale, stopping the home club, 2 goals to 0. Glendale defeated the Bridgeville Scholastics by a 2-goals-to-0 score and finished minus the services of Kohlmyer, who was carried off. Lawton scored three goals to give Primrose a 4-goals-to-1 victory over the Canonsburg Gunners. Heidelberg Juniors won the game from Cuddy when Litwolk scored the only goal. Bridgeville Owls copped a couple of valuable points when it scored twice against Heidelberg Eagles and won 2 goals to 1.

In upriver soccer Mather had a field day against Vestaburg, winning 5 goals to 0. Vestaburg will have to bolster its defense. Sunnyside took a close game from Gallatin, winning 1 goal to 0, while the game between Donora and Vesta also was close, Donora winning by the only goal scored.

SALEM ELEVEN FACES FOUR TOUGH GAMES

SALEM, Oct. 29.—Salem College plunges into the bone-crushing half of its schedule this week, and from this time on until the end of the season the Tigers will be playing major games each week without "set-ups" to precede the most important battles.

Friday the Tigers will do battle with Bethany College at Bethany. This game promises to be one of the toughest on the card, Bethany having played the strong Waynesburg eleven to a 7-7 tie, and having defeated several less powerful teams.

Following the Bethany game, Salem will play West Virginia Wesleyan in Clarksburg, November 12; Wilmington College in Wilmington, O., November 22, and Davis and Elkins in Elkins, November 29.

CAPABLANCA CERTAIN OF WINNING CHESS TITLE

BERLIN, Oct. 29.—(AP.)—Adjourned games only were played in the International Chess Masters' tournament yesterday. Jose Capablanca, of Cuba, is leading the field by half a point, and, inasmuch as his nearest rival will have a bye in the final round, he is certain of winning the first prize. The winners were Dr. Tartakower, of France, Reti, of Czechoslovakia, and Nimzowitsch, of Denmark.

forward-passing combination, comparable to the famous one of Freidman and Oosterbann. Rosencweig is beyond question one of the season's greatest ends, though on Saturday he had to share the limelight with Shaugheney. It was the latter who caught Harpster's long pass in the march down the field for the only touchdown of the game.

THINKING baseball fans of the district, who realize that the disappointing showing of the Pirates this year was in no way the fault of Manager Donie Bush, will approve heartily the action of President Barney Dreyfuss in retaining Donie Bush to pilot the Bucs again next season.

Donie Bush

Bush won the pennant in his first year here, with 94 games won and 60 lost, percentage .610. In 1928, despite the record-breaking run of injuries and illness that wrecked the club in the first part of the season, he made a strong enough finish to land in the first division with 85 victories against 67 defeats, percentage .559. Generally 90 victories suffice to win a pennant, and Bush's annual average of wins for two years is 89½. In the two seasons under Donie notwithstanding the early handicaps in 1928, the Bucs won 179 games and lost 127. That's a percentage of .585 for two years and spells winning ball. Bush well deserved a third year, and President Dreyfuss is to be commended for his judgment and fairness in giving it to him.

AFTER the way Capt. Sprague's eleven, with the great Chris Cagle playing the leading role, overpowered Yale Saturday, the Army stands out most prominently among the unbeaten football teams of the East.

It remained for the other branch of Uncle Sam's service, the Navy, to spring the biggest upset of the fall by defeating Penn when the Middies appeared not to have the ghost of a chance.

The Dukes were among the hitherto undefeated outfits that went down Saturday, but there was no disgrace in losing to Geneva's fine team. It was a creditable performance for the Bluffites to hold the Covenanters to seven points.

MANY of the decisions and rulings of Chairman William Muldoon, of the New York boxing commission, have drawn adverse criticism, but he strikes a popular chord in some remarks about champion fighters who do not defend their titles at reasonable intervals. "If I had my way," Muldoon says, "Joe Dundee would not be permitted to box in New York, nor would a champion like Mickey Walker. I have no patience with boxers who, after winning a title, carefully refrain from risking it, thereby stifling competition. To me neither Dundee nor Walker is a champion. They forfeited this distinction by their actions since winning the titles."

Henny Bass, former featherweight champion boxes Phil McGraw at the Arena in Philadelphia tonight. Emory Cabana and Jackie Pilkington meet in another 10-round bout on the same card. Tony Canzoneri, who recently lost the featheweight title to Andre Routis, of France, goes against Gaston Charles, of France, and Kid Chocolate, Cuban flyweight sensation, meets Joey Ross in 10-round battles in New York.

Jerry (Tuffy) Griffiths, Sioux City light-heavyweight, boxes Harry Dillon, former Canadian champion, at Chicago tonight. Griffiths has knocked out Mike McTigue and a flock of others and will be gunning for his fiftieth victory in this battle. Dillon also is a good puncher who recently lost his title to Charley Belanger.

Garfield Johnson is requested to communicate with this office as soon as possible.

HARRISONBURG VICTOR

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., Oct. 29.—The football eleven of Harrisonburg (Va.) High school won its fifth straight game of the season here when it turned back the local high eleven by the margin of a single safety, 2 to 0.

TECH UNBEATEN

Eighmy in the final half. Eighmy got off one 50-yard kick—25 yards up and 25 yards down. Then Berger tried to run the ball and was hit so hard by a Mr. Sofish, playing a tackle on the Grove City team, that he fumbled the ball. The Grovers recovered it and the ball game started over towards the side of the field upon which Robert Thorn was a-sitting.

YELLOW JACKETS BEATEN

West Virginia Wesleyan hammered poor Frank Wolf and his Waynesburg Yellow Jackets almost to extinction at Buckhannon. The Jackets were no match for the Bobcats, and with Isaac Rodriguez raced 93 yards for a touchdown on the second play of the game, it took the heart out of the Waynesburg hopefuls.

Westminster has a right to celebrate today for the Titans, after four or five false starts, won their first game of the season by beating Dr. Thomas Vichy Holleran's Thiel club Saturday and moved into second place in the Conference standing.

No practice sessions are scheduled for any of the local elevens today. Pitt will start tomorrow to prepare for the Syracuse game. The Dukes have a day of rest and only the third string players will be called out on the Bluff. Tech, with an off Saturday in prospect for the week can afford to loaf a couple days and rest some of the battered and bruised halfbacks.

OLDTIME RING STAR DIES

John Kinlow, 52, of 723 Fifth avenue, McKeesport, found dead in bed early yesterday, is remembered by boxing fans as one of the leading featherweight boxers in the Pittsburgh district in the late '90s.

After achieving the heights in the 115-pound division as an amateur, Kinlow became a professional in the winter of 1897. He made his pro debut in Philadelphia in a bout with Professor McDonald and later opposed such well-known mittmen as Eddie and Oscar Gardner, Jack McClelland, John Henniger, Tommy Mitchell and others.

SCHOOL LEADERS CLASH FRIDAY

ONE of the three ruling favorites to win the Section One title in this 1928 City League scholastic gridiron campaign is due to tumble from the high place this week. Only a tie, which is considered unlikely when the class of the opponents is taken to account, can prevent the elimination of one of the three rivals.

At present, Schenley, Peabody and Westinghouse are in practically a three-way draw for the lead. None of the trio has been defeated, Schenley by virtue of two victories against one each for Peabody and Westinghouse, is recognized as the leaders of the pack. The Bellefielders and East End machines clash on Friday in the first interest bearing struggle of the section.

Schenley has shown some power in its games to date, and in beating and generally outplaying Oliver in an intersectional struggle last Friday, gave evidence of having a near championship eleven. Peabody has a fine running attack in which Williams, the fast-running halfback, plays a big part.

Though most of the interest in this week's schedule in the league centers in Section One, an important contest is booked for the second division, Perry High, unbeaten and hoping to beat out the leading South Hills eleven for the title, faces a stern test in the Allegheny High club. A defeat for the Smithies will eliminate them from the running. This game is expected to be one well worth watching. It is also scheduled for Friday.

One other Section One contest is on the books for the week, South and Fifth being carded for a cellar battle on Thursday.

MILKS REPORTS AT ICE DRILL

By CARL W. SHATTO.

Whether or not Hib Milks, star center, is to join the Pirate holdout ranks will be known this evening when the leading scorer of the local ice club is to talk salary with Benny Leonard, new owner of the Pittsburgh franchise. Milks arrived here this morning and participated in the workout at Duquesne Garden at noon today. He appeared to be in fine physical condition and to have lost none of his hockey cunning. Leonard said that he anticipated no trouble in getting Hib to attach his signature to a 1928-29 contract.

Both Leonard and Worters, Darragh and Cotton, holdouts, marked time today. No conferences were held. The Pirate owner, armed with with a statement from President Frank Calder to the effect that all players who have not signed contracts by Wednesday will be suspended, said that the salary boosts offered the holdouts would not be increased, and that they will have to make the next move.

In defending his stand, Leontard revealed that the local club was operated at a loss of more than $30,000 last season.

AUSTRO-GERMAN BIKE TEAM TAKES RACE

DETROIT, Oct. 29.—(AP.)—The team of Otto Petri, of Germany, and Harry Harder, Australia, won the two-hour bicycle race at the Olympia Arena last night, held as a preliminary to the annual six-day event starting today.

The Austro-German team covered 48 miles in the two hours for a total of 68 points.

NEBRASKA TOPS BIG SIX RACE

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 29.—(AP.)—There is no question about the superiority of Nebraska over Missouri now, a mooted point for the last three years in which Missouri has eked out three victories over the Cornhuskers. The Tigers crumbled before a crushing Nebraska offensive Saturday, 24 to 0, in the feature Big Six game of the day.

Fumbles, which largely contributed to the 19-point lead gained by Iowa State last week, before the Tigers rallied in superhuman style to score 28 points for victory.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(AP.)—Ken Strong, ace of New York University's backfield, rapidly is distancing his rivals in the race for individual football scoring honors in the East. Scoring three touchdowns and five points after touchdowns against Colgate Saturday, Strong boosted his total to 91.

Gulick, of Hobart, holding fifth place a week ago, jumped into the runner-up position with a three-touchdown splurg against Clarkson. He has scored 60 points so far. Langmaid of Williams dropped back to third place with 56 points. Beinstock, of City College of New York, is fourth with 55; Marsters of Dartmouth and Rodriguez, of West Virginia Wesleyan, tied for fifth with 49; Hansen of Temple seventh, with 48, and Harpster of Carnegie Tech, eigthth, with 45.

TANK CORPS CAPTURES THIRD AREA GRID TITLE

CARLISLE, Pa., Oct. 29.—(AP.)—A forward-passing attack, resulting in two touchdowns in the first five minutes of play, yesterday gave the Tank Corps of Camp Meade, Md., the football championship of the Third Army Corps Area, over the U. S. Medical Field Service School. The final score was 12 to 7.

There was solace for the Carlisle post, however, in the defeat. For the first time in six years of competition was the Medical School able to score on the Tank Corps. Clark blocked a Camp Meade punt and ran 30 yards for the touchdown.

Welch Victor in Duel With Caldwell

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—The duel of the all-America halfbacks of 1927 on the field at Yankee Stadium Sunday resulted in a victory for Gibby Welch, former Pittsburgh star, over Bruce Caldwell, former Yale ace. Welch's team, the New York Yankees, however, lost to Caldwell's team, the New York Giants, 10 to 7. A crowd of 20,000 saw the game and cheered Welch's brilliant playing.

Oddly enough, Caldwell scored nine of his team's 10 points, making the touchdown in the first quarter from the four-yard line and kicking a field goal from the 16-yard line in the third quarter. The former Yale star, however, was almost helpless when carrying the ball on other occasions. Welch made several long runs and scored his team's touchdown after taking a pass from Wild Bill Kelly, former Montana star, in the final period.

Speaking of Sports

tor Square Garden tonight, James (Red) Mason mailed a letter to the writer in which he added some fuel to the flaming feud existing between himself and Jimmy Bronson, manager of Goldstein. If it was intended to stir up the wolves, it certainly should serve its purpose. It is a typical Mason letter for such an occasion and to delete any of it would be to rob it of much of its kick, so here it is just as it came hot off his typewriter:

"On Monday night, Phil Bernstein (he means Goldstein), who lives in New York but calls Pittsburgh his home when he comes there to box, will make the fifteenth attempt of the stable he represents to win a fight from one of my fighters. Mr. Bronson and company are loud in their talk of what Bernstein will do to Cuddy DeMarco when they meet. De Marco has beaten every fighter he has been called on to meet that was handled by this same firm. He took Jack Zivic into camp when the latter was going at top speed in the East, and, later on, in their second fight, repeated the dose. Previous to this, he had beaten a fighter that this same stable had by the name of Bobby Garcia. Several other fighters that I had whipped Pete Zivic, among them Patsy Young and Bricky Ryan, and so far my stable never has lost one bout to any of the fighters that at times quit Pittsburgh but later on moved back.

"DeMarco has been fighting oftener than any one in the ring this year, and, while he has lost a few bouts to topnotchers, he has won quite a few. Bernstein, after fighting here about two weeks ago, made the claim that he was advised wrong in his corner. Well, I hope he has plenty of advisors Monday night and that they don't get their signals mixed. I read the other day where the new Joe Gans was going to wear the same pair of shoes that the late Joe Gans wore. Well, according to this, I might suggest Mr. Bronson wear the same suit that he wore when he was in Bob Martin's corner at New Orleans and the same pair of pants that he wore in Tunney's corner. All this might help Goldstein when he meets DeMarco.

"I think that with the Jewish delegation that Goldstein draws, or claims to draw, and with the Charleroi, McKeesport and Pittsburgh DeMarco followers we ought to have a big house. I am going to make the trip from here so I can look after my Italian fighter in person."

Anyone who can find a word of of praise there for the opposition isn't reading the same letter and must be two other fellows.

SOME grand and glorious records have been hung up by college football teams in this expansive land from time to time, but it is doubtful if they can approach the record of the Knute Rockne-coached Notre Dame elevens against Western Conference rivals. The Big Ten teams were accustomed to booting the Irish about until the advent of the wily Knute in 1917, since which time the records show 19 victories, two ties and only two defeats in 23 meetings.

One of those two defeats was administered by Wisconsin, 22-6, a few weeks ago, and one of the ties came last year, when Dr. Spears' Minnesota team held the Hoosiers to a 7-7 deadlock, so that, of the first 21 games, but one resulted in a defeat and one in a tie. The first tie was with Wisconsin, 0-0, in Knute's first year and the first defeat was handed out by Iowa, 10-7, in 1921. Notre Dame had runs of six and of 13 consecutive victories. Following is the complete record, a worthy one to ponder:

1917—Notre Dame, 0; Wisconsin 0.
1918—Notre Dame, 26; Purdue, 0.
1919—Notre Dame, 16; Indiana, 3.
Notre Dame, 33; Purdue, 13.
1920—Notre Dame, 28; Purdue, 0.
Notre Dame, 13; Indiana, 10.
Notre Dame, 33; Northwestern, 7.
1921—Iowa, 10; Notre Dame, 7.
Notre Dame, 33; Purdue, 0.
Notre Dame, 28; Indiana, 7.
1922—Notre Dame, 20; Purdue, 0.
Notre Dame, 27; Indiana, 0.
1923—Notre Dame, 34; Purdue, 7.
1924—Notre Dame, 38; Wisconsin, 3.
Notre Dame, 13; Northwestern, 6.
1925—Notre Dame, 19; Minnesota, 7.

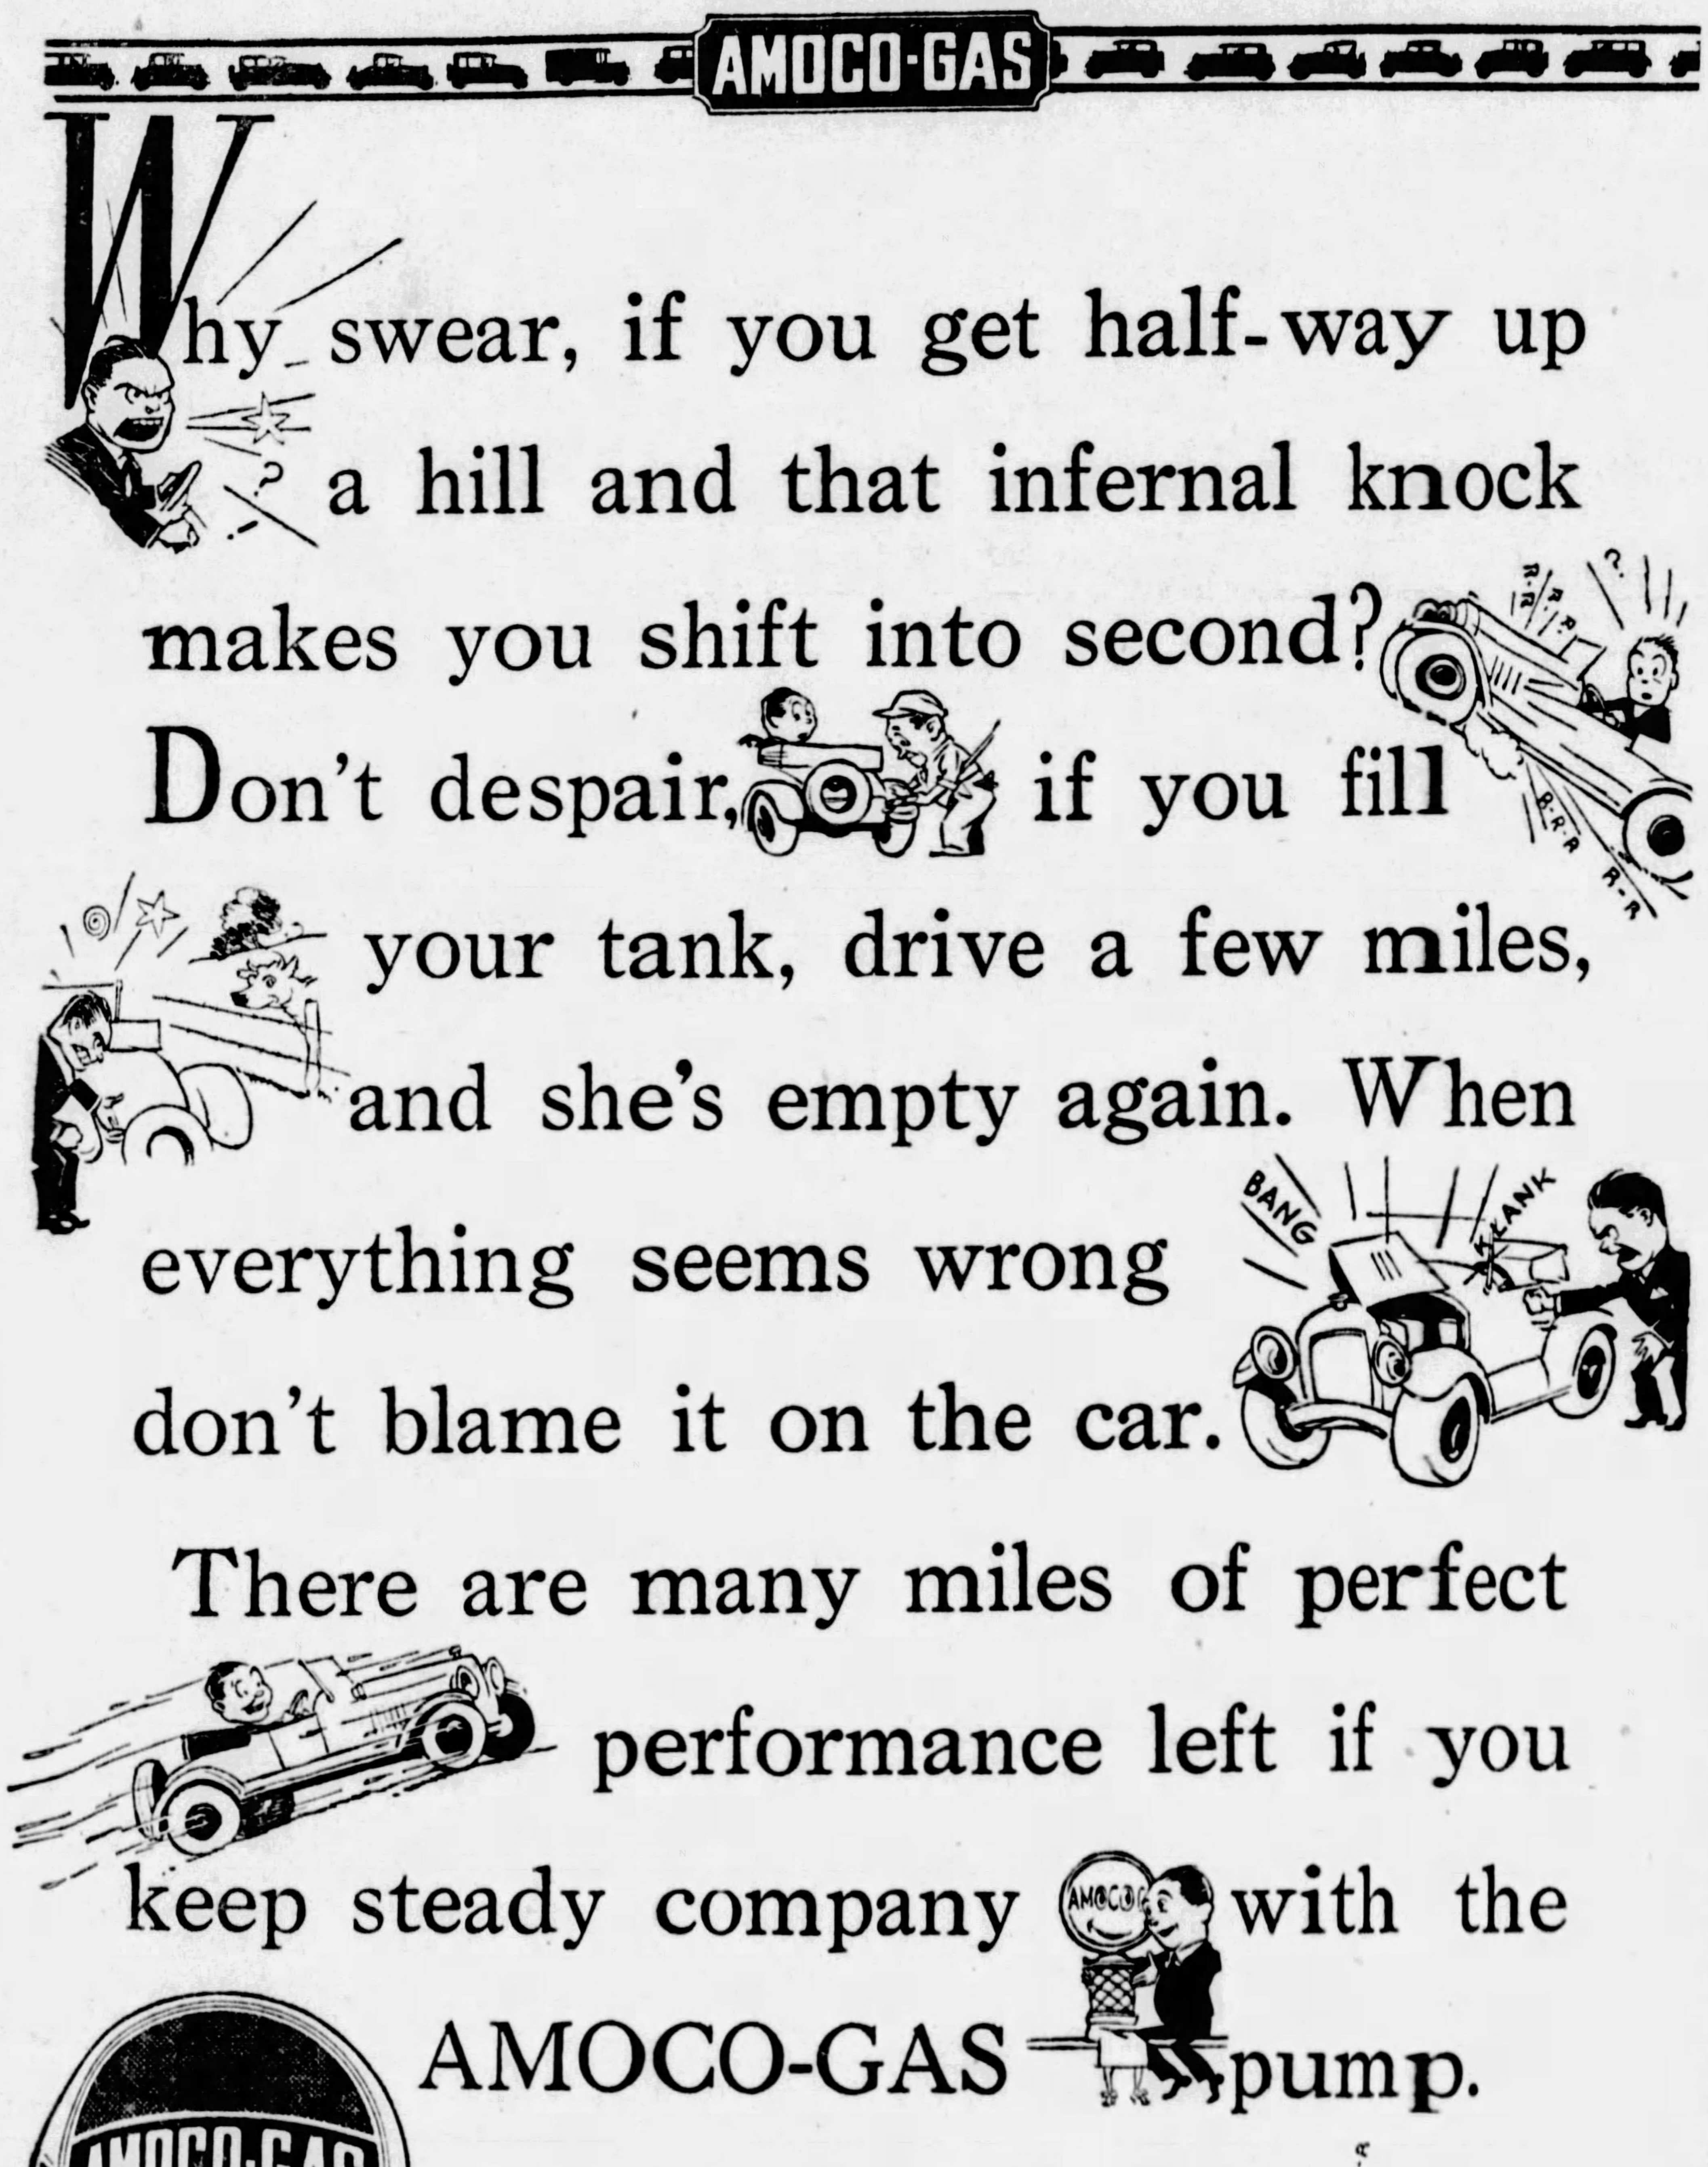
Dictaphone Aids Northwestern Mentor

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—(AP.)—Dick Hanley, Northwestern football coach, takes no chances of forgetting good or bad work of his team.

While most coaches take notes or rely on their memory for their regular Monday post-mortem, Hanley carries an assistant coach along with his team who knows how to use a dictaphone. The machine takes a running account of the game, just what play was called and how it was executed. Later, a stenographer transcribes the details and a black and white record of faults and successes is on hand for Hanley's use.

"You say you can't recall what happened when Illinois scored that touchdown?" he barks at his men. "Why just listen to this." Then he reads and re-reads the sad details.



AMOCO-GAS

Why swear, if you get half-way up a hill and that infernal knock makes you shift into second? Don't despair, if you fill your tank, drive a few miles, and she's empty again. When everything seems wrong don't blame it on the car. There are many miles of perfect performance left if you keep steady company with the AMOCO-GAS pump.

Some Stocks Tumble Badly. Healthy Gain in Business.

By B. C. FORBES

IMPROVEMENT in conditions and confidence in the outlook characterize business.

Violent irregularities in quotations and acute uncertainty over the outlook characterize the stock market.

AVERAGE quotations on the New York Stock Exchange reached a new peak for all time Wednesday. Thursday brought weakness and Friday ended amid an avalanche of selling which carried prominet stocks down 5, 10, even 15 points, the worst break since mid-summer. Saturday morning saw heroic efforts to check the threatened debacle. Average quotations however suffered a net loss for the week.

THE popular impression is that the "stock market" is still booming. Quotation averages suggest the same thing. But while certain stocks have been marked up abnormally many other issues are now far below their recent heights. Drops ranging from $25 to more than $100 a share have not been rare. Although many still have big paper profits other dabblers in stock have had their fingers severely burned.

This table shows how drastic has been the relapse in many issues; the figures in the first column give the year's peak, the figures in the second column represent the low point touched towards the end of the week and the third column gives the loss sustained.

LEADING bankers are outspokenly alarmed over the stock market's ongoings and over money market possibilities, but the very powerful bull manipulators continue to profess unshaken confidence. And sentiment is stimulated by actual and notable betterment in various industries and by extremely optimistic forecasts emanating from industrial leaders—the glowing picture of prospects painted last week by Charles M. Schwab was enthusiastically hailed.

MEANWHILE Wall Street scarcely pauses to note that a presidential election is only a week away. Wall Street long since concluded that there would be no change in the Republican administration. And Wall Street is now willing to bet four or five to one that Mr. Hoover will be elected.

Thus we have a many sided situation.

ALTHOUGH loans running for two to six months are obtainable under the maximum rates recently ruling and although call rates have also receded preparations for month-end settlements sent the call rate to 8 per cent. But that was not regarded by bankers as nearly so ominous as another very large increase ($107,000,000) in brokers' loans, bringing the total $1,428,000,000 above the figures of a year ago. Again there was an increase in non-bank lending for speculative purposes. There facts are not offset, in the judgment of bankers, by the importation of a few millions of gold.

Business cannot ignore these money market developments. They have already arrested the flotation of new securities—and, of course, have made it more difficult to distribute securities recently issued. This must naturally have a restrictive effect upon enterprise, and if continued, would affect trade in general and also employment.

THUS far there have been no visible signs of any such influence. The multifarious yardstocks for measuring activity reveal that on the whole industry and trade are healthily on the up grade. The steel industry tops the list with a rate of production some 50 per cent ahead of a year ago. The motor industry has slackened remarkably little. Construction apparently has sustained little or no let up. Railway traffic shows a slight decrease from a year ago, but is of satisfactory volume. The copper industry is booming. Live stock and some other agricultural prices have declined, but others have advanced.

Practically no employment reports come to the surface. Retail trade is affected by the weather, at some points favorably, at other points unafvorably. But everything points to record-breaking Christmas sales.

THE outlook for business can be viewed more calmly than the outlook for the frenzied speculation rampant in Wall Street.

MARKING MONEY UP SLOWS RISE IN STOCKS

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(AP.)—Marking up of the call money rate from 7½ to 8 per cent slowed up the resumption of the upward price movement in today's stock market. Flurries of profit taking swept through the list, but the offerings were well absorbed. Pools again played a prominent part in the day's operations, lifting more than a score issues to record high levels on gains running as high as 10 points.

With the market apparently paying little attention to the recent high increase in brokers' loans, and the high call money rates regarded as temporary, operators for the rise had little difficulty in attracting an outside following. Large commission houses report that speculative interest in the market continues at high pitch throughout the country with customers' rooms crowded and accounts generally well margined.

Excellent character of the majority of earnings reports now being published, coupled with reports of marked improvement in the oil and copper industries and a high rate of production in the steel industry, helped to maintain bullish enthusiasm. Short selling of late has been rather sporadic in character due to the relatively small floating supply of some of the most popular issues.

Motor Products, which was weak Saturday, rallied 12½ points. R. H. Macy ran up 9½ points to a new peak at 181½ and Radio ran up more than 6 points to a new top at 244¼. American Telephone, Western Union, Industrial Rayon, Atlantic Refining, Montgomery Ward, Case Threshing, Hudson Motors, Adams Express, Commercial Solvents and A. M. Byers all sold 4 to 6 points higher.

High grade rails took a more prominent part in the upswing, Delaware and Hudson, Pittsburgh and West Virginia and Canadian Pacific all selling 5½ to 7 points higher. St. Louis Southwestern attained a new peak price for the year.

HIGH STANDING

The standing of the bank upon which a check is drawn should be so high that the drawer will gain prestige by having an account there.

A bank attains its high standing only by fostering sound business practices; by faithfully guarding the interests of its customers; and by having adequate capital of its own invested in the business.

P. R. R. INCOME FOR 1928 MAY SET RECORD

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE Pennsylvania Railroad Company has been steadily cutting expenses and increasing its net income in the face of declining gross revenues. As a result of this increased efficiency net income for 1928 may be greater than the high record of $68,160,296 established last year. Net in 1927 was $592,337 more than in 1926 in spite of the fact that gross revenues declined $44,966,426.

Gross revenues in September were $1,679,151 less than a year ago, but the net railway operating income of $12,136,001 was the greatest of any one month in nearly two years.

In railway accounting gross revenue is the total of all receipts for freight and passenger transportation. Net railway operating income is the amount remaining after deducting expenses for operations, the maintenance of equipment and properties, and adjustments with other railroads for the rental of cars.

NET income is the amount remaining after deducting from that figure the interest on bonds, rent paid or received for leased lines and other charges. It is the surplus from which dividends can be paid on the road's stock.

Net railway operating income of the Pennsylvania Railroad in the first nine months of this year was $84,517,447, which exceeded the same period of 1927 by $1,986,612.

The outlook for the remainder of this year is exceptionally good since it is possible that an increase in gross revenues may be added to economy as a factor in further expanding the earnings.

IN THE three weeks ended October 20 the road's freight loadings of 545,493 cars were 39,636 cars more than in the corresponding three weeks a year ago. If this increase continues to the end of the month, October will be the first month of this year to exceed the same month of 1927 in gross.

The Pennsylvania Railroad is expected to have far better results in the final quarter of this year than it had in the closing months of last year. A year ago gross revenues began to fall off sharply. Of a total decrease in gross of $44,966,427 in the full year of 1927, $29,708,949 was shown in the last quarter.

THE retirement of a portion of the funded debt which took place this year will reduce the fixed charges, but against this there has been a large increase in the amount of stock outstanding through the offering of rights to stockholders and the sale to employes.

As a result of this the earnings a share on the stock may be less in spite of the increase in net income. Last year earnings were equivalent to 13.65 per cent on the stock of $50 par value. But even allowing for the change in capitalization net may be equivalent to over 12 per cent, a return exceeded only three times in the past 18 years.

THE present year may establish a record in building, but the future may see a decline in construction activity, the National Bank of Commerce of New York indicates in an analysis of the situation.

"The September figure of contracts let interrupted an apparent downward trend by setting a new high record for the month. With a total of awards for nine months some 6 per cent greater than the corresponding period of last year, it is highly probable that the value of construction undertaken in 1928 will again surpass that of any previous year.

"The outlook of the next few months, however, seems to be for a somewhat larger decline than the usual seasonal letdown. The retarding influence of current higher interest rates is beginning to show in the volume of new financing. The $965,000,000 of new municipal financing which has been done thus far this year is lower than that of any similar period during the past five years.

"Accompanying the increased costs of construction due to dearer money has been an increase of 4 or 5 per cent since last fall in the price of building materials, while labor, for the country as a whole, is no cheaper. Another factor tending to slow down building is the gradual decline in rents, which are now about 5 per cent under the levels prevailing a year ago."

Savage Arms Earnings Stable.

Savage Arms Corporation third quarter earning are expected to be about the same as in the second quarter, when net was $234,831 and balance for the 175,000 common shares was equal to $1.32 a share. Indications are the company will earn between $3.30 and $3.50 a share this year against $3.54 on 87,874 common shares in 1927.

Johns Manville.

Johns Manville pushed ahead vigorously again today as buying was resumed, ostensibly from the same quarters that put the stock up sensationally a few weeks ago. Those who have been identified with the market in Johns-Manville in the past maintain that the progressive improvement in earnings thus far this year and the excellent outlook have been responsible for some excellent buying in the stock. In the first quarter earnings applicable to dividends were 85 cents a common share. This was increased to $1.96 a share in the following period, and to $2.12 a share in the third quarter.

Bosch Radio Prospects.

Talk is still heard of the improvement in earnings which is expected for American Basch Magneto as a result of its entrance into the radio set field since the middle of this year. This was reflected in part by the earnings for the nine months ended September 30, which amounted to $362,921, against $195,314 in the same period a year ago.

Big Holiday Trade.

Most students of business conditions maintain that the first month of the fourth quarter this year recorded business activity in practically all the leading lines. Particular attention is called to the fact that even the bituminous coal industry has shown some signs of improvement, while the textile business has been better. Prospects are that there will be an excellent holiday business this year, and many of the store stocks have recently been purchased on the expectation that these issues have not yet discounted such increased sales and earnings to the full extent.

Jardine on Wheat.

Secretary of Agriculture Jardine has advised the farmers of the nation to hold their wheat in anticipation of a rising market, stating that the "large amount of wheat thrown on the market was unduly depressing the price." "This year's increased supply of wheat will be offset by increased demand and other factors," Mr. Jardine said. "I see nothing in the situation now to change this advice." The Canadian wheat crop last year was apparently underestimated, he said, declaring that the Canadian bread wheat available for all uses totaled between 445,000,000 and 465,000,000 bushels. The crop this year, he said, minus durum wheat, will furnish an equivalent bread grain supply of about 475,000,000 bushels.

Business Ignores Politics.

Profits accruing to the public from the present tremendous bull market have taken Wall Street out of the realm of political issues, and for the first time in nearly 50 years a presidential campaign is being conducted without an organized attack on the Street from some political quarter, according to a partner of one of the big commission houses. "For almost half a century Wall Street has meant anathema to a considerable part of the American people, particularly the agricultural and rural elements," he said. "But the last four years have seen the turning of the tide the other way, due principally, I think, to the widespread public participation in market operations and the profits that have resulted to them. Today the speculative investor does not need to make any apologies for his purchases, no longer is looked upon as a parasite on our economic system, not even in the most remote section of the country. To the contrary, he is beginning to have accorded him the recognition justly his due, as the creator of the nation's great producing units. And in equal proportion has the securities markets come to be regarded as necessary adjuncts to business progress."

Warner-Shubert "Rights" Deal.

Warner Brothers Pictures is understood to be negotiating a contract with the Shubert Theaters Corporation by which Warner would acquire film rights to about 30 dramas and musical comedies yearly from the large list of the former successes that Shubert controls, such as "My Maryland," "The Vagabond King" and "The Student Prince." The annual royalty is expected to exceed $1,000,000. The era of sound films has added greatly to the value of rights to old musical comedy successes. Shubert's chain of legitimate theaters would also be of great value to Warner or any other producer of sound films and it is probable any arrangement which may be worked out will include exhibition privileges at Shubert houses.

ADVANCE ATTRIBUTED TO BETTER EARNINGS

Lone Star Gas started forward in the early market on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today and in the first hour's trading had scored a recovery to within one point of the high recorded on the bulge a few weeks ago.

Buying of Lone Star was attributed to expectations of favorable earnings for the third quarter and also to the fact that weather conditions prevailing currently are conducive to steady earnings without the operating difficulties accompanying sudden changes in temperature often experienced at this season. There was not much of the stock available at the levels near which it closed Saturday. While some capital change is expected to be announced later by the company, today's upturn was considered entirely a reflection of better earnings rather than an expectation of an early melon.

In other departments the market was quiet. Carnegie Metals started firm around 23, but fell back under further offerings and later firmed up to near the opening level. Miscellaneous manufacturing issues were dull with bids and offers showing no substantial changes from those prevailing at the end of the week.

Westinghouse Electric continued as one of the strong features of the trading in New York, but only a small amount of the stock was handled here. Buying was reported for both investment and trading account, stimulated by the excellent earnings statement issued last week. Certain elements in the Street are confident that a big consolidation involving Westinghouse and Baldwin along with other properties will take place ultimately and this factor is attracting long pull buyers, according to some observers.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—The raw sugar market was quiet early today with prices unchanged at 3.93c for spots duty paid and no sales reported.

The raw sugar futures market opened unchanged to 2 points lower under liquidation and selling by houses with European connections on the disappointing showing of the London market over the week-end and inactivity in the spot market. Shorts and commission houses covered on the decline, but the demand was too light to cause a rally and prices at midday were little changed from the opening and about 1 to 2 points below the previous close.

There were no change in prices for refined sugar. Fine granulated ranged from 5.25 to 5.30c. Demand was light.

New Great Power Plant To Help Pittsburgh Grow

The Duquesne Light Company tomorrow begins a 10-year construction program on Brunots Island, with the official breaking of ground for a power plant to be named in memory of the late Judge James H. Reed. It is announced that the immediate expenditure is to be $10,000,000 and that $40,000,000 will have been expended when the entire project reaches completion a decade hence.

For such an important undertaking, designed with a view to the immediate and future power needs of the Pittsburgh district, a ceremony has been arranged. Hundreds of leading citizens are expected to be present. A silver spade will turn the sod significant of the future development, the implement wielded by Senator David A. Reed, son of Judge Reed, prominent in the growth of the Duquesne Light Company. Senator Reed will deliver an address, following introduction by A. W. Robertson, president of the company. There will be lunch and music, making the event a real gala affair.

The first unit of the project is expected to be ready for service in the summer of 1930, when a 60,000-kilowatt turbine is to be in use. Within four years a second will be supplying power. Five, in all, are contemplated in the 10-year program.

This is another step toward making Pittsburgh a great center of electric power production, as it is of equipment for creating such power, the gigantic aid of industry that yearly expands its size and strength. In making it the Duquesne Light Company shows its faith in the future expansion of Pittsburgh.

Forney Is Kept in Jail By Revolt of Public

Consideration of a pardon for Alfred W. Forney, serving a sentence of six months after pleading guilty to a Federal charge following disclosures of rum-ring and slot-machine-ring operations here, is to be dropped in Washington. John D. Meyer, United States district attorney here, is said to have withdrawn his request for the pardon, which was based on his desire to make use of Forney as a witness in cases against the more than 150 indicted by the Federal grand jury as the result of its rum probe here.

Even if he stays in jail during the six months' term imposed upon him, Forney may consider himself fortunate. He got off very lightly even in the face of the fact that he proved a good witness for the government in the recent upheaval here. It is common knowledge that he is a wealthy man, with riches obtained through operation of slot-gambling machines. It was such a good "graft" that he is alleged to have corrupted police officials and others in buying immunity for those in whose places his machines were installed.

Popular revolt against the pardon of such a man keeps Forney in jail, but Mr. Meyer should not receive any public blame for his efforts to free him. He has shown by the conduct of the Federal investigation of conditions here that he is a vigorous and efficient official. It was in the exemplification of these traits that he wished to make use of Forney—a strategic move against the hosts of crime. Although the public did not agree with him in the matter of a pardon for Forney, Mr. Meyer still stands out as an energetic force for the side of decency.

Open Gas Stove Deadly, Coroner Again Reveals

Timely advice to prevent deaths from carbon monoxide is given by Coroner W. J. McGregor in connection with a report of the coroner's office on deaths investigated by that office. For the first nine months of 1928 the total was 2,534, against 2,536 for the corresponding period last year. There was a decrease of 21 in murders this year and an increase of nine in carbon monoxide deaths.

That we waste life through the medium of carbon monoxide is a crime as it is brought about through ignorance and carelessness. It would be well if that fact could be fixed in the mind of everybody as the season for carbon monoxide poisoning approaches. Flueless gas stoves are the prime cause of such deaths, but the starting of automobiles in closed garages also takes a toll.

Coroner McGregor advises that stoves with flues be provided and that the automobiles be wheeled out of the garage before its engine is started. Don't sleep in closed rooms with open gas fires. Open windows of sleeping rooms and use sufficient bed covering to keep comfortable. Bed clothes are cheaper than coffins.

Pictures for Sale

Big Mouthful—Financially.

The Kaiser's son-in-law, the Duke of Brunswick, wants to sell his art collection, including pieces brought from the Holy Land by Henry the Lion in 1173, to "somebody in America" for $10,000,000.

He may have to split the collection. Even in America, few invest $10,000,000 at a time in antiques. The late J. Pierpont Morgan might have been a customer. Figures didn't frighten him. But he is gone.

Ireland and Alcohol

A Wise Plan.

Ireland regulates intemperance on a plan that seems to work well. The tax on drink is 20 times what it costs to produce it. Whisky, gin and such poisons are taxed very heavily. Drinking has fallen off 50 per cent in the north of Ireland, 10 per cent in the Irish Free State.

Moving pictures also diminish drinking. Money that went for whisky goes for movies.

The wicked is snared by the transgression of his lips: but the just shall come out of trouble.

Animals in the News

BIRDS and beasts seem to be playing increasingly important parts in the lives of men. In the news of one day, published in one edition of a newspaper, the public was informed of a police dog swimming the Hudson River; an actor arrested for cruelty to canaries; the death of a cargo of carrier pigeons in an airplane crash; the government's warning of the menace of rats; the scientific denial that a bee is busy; a collie that carries mail in Lenox; a lion that watches Babylon's ruins; the postoffice plan to attach whistles to carrier pigeons' tails, and that bull fights are becoming less popular than baseball in Spain. Add to this the horse and whippet racing news, the dispatches about society horse and dog shows and the paragraphs concerning horses in traffic accidents, and who shall say this is the mechanical age?

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

How Much Exercise Do You Take?

MEN lose their pep, vigor, initiative and general interest in many things because they do not keep themselves physically fit.

You may be a man of middle age or past.

You realize that you are slowing up—getting fleshy and lazy.

You don't feel just right and would rather lie down or sit down and read than take the exercise you know you should have.

At times you resolve you will take some exercise each morning.

You continue for a while, then there are lapses and finally nothing.

To lie in bed that extra half hour is so much more comfortable.

As you doze you are quite conscious that exercise is what you need.

But it is such a luxury to be lazy and lie inert.

A half hour of exercise continued for one month, daily, would make a wonderful change in you.

You know this and yet you allow yourself to become prematurely old.

You weaken your whole system by neglecting this important routine.

You pay a dear price and you will regret the comfort you are taking at your physical expense.

MEETING A NEBULA

By Garrett P. Serviss

A FEW years ago Harlow Shapley, now director of the Harvard Observatory, published in the Journal of Geology a remarkable paper indicating that the puzzling climatic changes in the past history of the earth, such as the great ice ages, may have been caused by the passage of the sun and solar system through the vast nebulous region in the constellation Orion. This constellation is now beginning to appear above the eastern horizon late in the evening, and rising earlier and earlier, it will be the most conspicuous stellar display in the sky during the fall and winter. Its great nebula is easily visible in an opera glass, and an amateur astronomical telescope gives a thrilling view of it, which becomes still more interesting when the observer reflects upon the possibility that our planet was once involved in the conflicting currents of that green-tinted nebulous ocean in space.

The distance of the Orion nebula is about 600 light-years. A few million ordinary years would suffice for the solar system to have traveled from that neighborhood to its present position. Shapley calculates that it may have been a million years passing through the nebulous region in Orion, which is far larger than the great nebula itself.

Now, it happens that this region contains many small variable stars (our sun itself would be a small star seen at their distance), and these variables are peculiar, their periodicity being irregular, while their light changes are unlike those of any other recognized types; and in other ways they show an individuality which seems to put them in a class by themselves.

In a word, they may be experiencing vicissitudes such as once afflicted our sun when he was conducting his planets across that troubled quarter of space, for troubled it seems to be, judging from the complication of oppositely and irregularly directed currents that suggest a "churning" movement in the nebula, which might be produced by the passage through it of stars speeding in various directions. Dr. Shapley suggests that the irregularities of the light changes of the Orion type of variable stars result from collision or friction with the irregular nebulosity in which those stars are involved.

Now, the amount of variation in the radiation of the Orion variables is from 20 to 80 per cent. But, says Dr. Shapley, a variation of 20 per cent in the sun's radiation "if maintained for a considerable period of years would sufficiently alter terrestrial temperature to bring on, or remove, an ice sheet and an 80 per cent change unless counteracted by concurrent changes in the terrestrial atmosphere, would completely dessicate or congeal, the surface of the earth."

The Orion region is by no means the only part of space in which diffuse nebulosities are known to exist. They lie all about us like clouds, though probably there is none now near the earth, nor directly ahead in the sun's path, with which an encounter could be predicted within the next million years or so.

But, how interesting to look back along the possible track that we have been pursuing for eons, and to see, far behind, the glow of the ominous center of the great Orion nebulosity, and scattered around it a whole fleet of stars whose fluttering lights may be telltale indications of experiences resembling that encountered by the solar system in the days when huge glaciers, sweeping down from the Pole in the chill of an unnourished sun, alternated with outbursts of dessicating heat when the solar furnace was fired again by encounter with a dense knot of nebula.

Tales That Are Told

Equal to the Occasion

WITH scarcely a sound the luxurious car pulled up before the seaside hotel, and an old, gray-haired man descended.

"My doctor advises me to stay where the south wind blows continually," he remarked to the manager. "Does it blow here?"

"It does, sir," returned the other. "You are very fortunate to have stopped at exactly the right place. The south wind always blows here."

The old man stuck a moistened finger in the air.

"Always?" he repeated. "Are you sure? It appears to be coming from the north just now."

"You're right, of course, sir. It's on its way back!"

Pathetic!

THE manager of a certain traveling company also played the leading part in most of the plays he put on. In one town the company met with very little success, the theater being nearly empty every night.

On Thursday night the audience numbered only 40 or 50 people, most of whom were in the cheapest seats.

When the performance was half over, the box-office man came upon the manager as he was about to go on the stage.

"What time shall I bring you the receipts?" he asked.

The manager stared at him blankly for a moment.

"Oh," he retorted, "Just before I go on in my pathetic scene."

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

JUDGES are likely to get a little cocky, I reckon. Well, who wouldn't? You give a guy power to hang and electrocute and even make witness and lawyers shut up, and he's likely to get to talking a good deal out of turn without knowing it. Hardly anybody likes to take the risk of calling him down.

But there was a prisoner that was so far gone that he didn't care. Judge Dubb says to him, "So you're here again? It seems to me, Jones, that you spend a great part of your time appearing before courts of justice."

"No, sir," says Jones, "I hardly ever appear before any judge but you, and I've never been in a court of justice for 10 years."

New York has regulars who specialize in attendance at certain events. Al Jolson is a ringside spectator at every prize fight of importance. Otto Kahn is a chronic first nighter. Karl K. Kitchen never misses a symphony concert. Fred C. Kelly is a regular at dog shows. John McK. Bowman ditto at the first day of the races. S. J. Kaufman rarely misses a cafe opening. Mrs. Clara Belle Walsh is on hand at the initial bow of a night club. Sailing Baruch at yacht races. Sigmund Spaeth at tennis matches. And Amon G. Carter, in a two-quart hat, may be depended upon to be in a box at a world series with a leather-lunged whoop for West Texas.

A cafe on East Fifty-fourth street advertises itself as "very potty." How have you been? Our dictionary neglects "potty," but as soon as the breakfast things are cleared off we intend to slide down the brass pole and gallop around to see what it is all about.

We hope a "potty" cafe is not the sort serving those mussy, awkward foods you are supposed to eat with a wide-pronged fork. They drip so on coat lapels and some of us don't look well in everything we eat.

In the psychopathic ward of Bellevue housing alcoholics in various stages of catching at their thumbs, some of the most terrible cases are those who took up drinking after prohibition and made it hum. Chronic drunkards used to reach the pink zebra stage after long years of guzzling. Now they get that way in a night out.

In one hospital ministering to those "still a little drunk from drinking" there was a fellow recovering from a terrific bender. He had never tasted liquor until a year ago and acquired the absurd notion he was an ostrich and kept his head under a pillow all the time.

The Bowery has liquor prices scaled down to pre-war basis. Hip pocket bootleggers serve customers in hallways for 15 cents a drink—a single swallow only is permitted. Many collapse after walking a block and this poisonous stuff fills the psychopathic wards. It is known as "Bowery Smoke."

The solemn looking Charles Butterworth has become a favorite Broadway comic this season. Those who saw "Americana" will recall his hilarious Rotarian speech with gestures and the introduction of the upstanding citizen in his home town who was a bear rug optician. He fitted glass eyes in bear rugs and was a 100 per cent American with his "feet on the ground." Also his friend who was a prominent step tacker. He tacked advertising signs on public stair steps. Butterworth, incidentally, is from South Bend, Ind.

ATTRACTION OF OLD

By Dr. Frank Crane

Laying aside all sex appeal and things of that sort many people believe that old persons are more interesting than young ones.

There comes a time in a man's life when a woman of 40 is more interesting than one of 18. Beside the mature woman a girl is rather crude.

People who go to Europe love to poke around among the antiquities. There is a sort of sentimental interest in anything that is old. Many people despise America because it is too new.

There is no doubt that the old has a certain sentimental value. H. G. Wells says that when every house is heated by electricity millionaires will have smoke coming out of their chimneys to give them an antique appearance — artificial smoke.

At Hampton Court in England is a grapevine which brings the government more than $6,000 a year.

Only a little of the money is derived from the grapes it bears. Most of it comes from admission paid to see the vine because it is almost 160 years old.

There is only one thing that interests man more than the new.

It is the old.

Anything that endures—whether it be a bit of canvas, a scrap of ancient oriental tapestry, an Eutruscan wine jar, a bit of Mayan inscription on a volcanic rock from the forests of Guatemala, a printed page, or a lofty sequoia redwood—interests and fascinates man.

The fact that it has existed from the time his unknown ancestors lived, and will continue to resist the ravages of time long after he is dead, has something to do with his interest.

Mortal man looking at something which contains a touch of immortality is awed and fascinated.

A human being who has outlived the rest of his contemporaries is always of interest. In the same way an inanimate thing that has endured beyond the lifetime of all other similar things of its own era attracts our attention and wonder.

We travel far to see a giant tree that was more than a sapling before Caesar massed his troops on the Rubicon, or to gaze upon the very ornament that adorned a King's favorite while Moses was leading the Children of Israel to their Promised Land.

Nothing new, however sensational, can hold a man's interest generation after generation as something old is able to do.

Time works for the old.

The automobile, the airplane, the radio, are seven-day wonders. Then they become commonplace things of the present, neither new nor very old.

But time increases its attraction for the old. Each year it becomes older and thereby more remarkable.

The same years that tarnish the interest of the once new enhance continually the interest in these objects which attract by virtue of their ancientness.

RIGHT ANGLES

By Alexander Cairns

A DECADE or more before Gladstone slipped his moorings and drifted away into the great beyond, he declared that there were three things he would ask of God over and above all the bounty which surrounded him.

First, that he might escape into retirement.

But destiny had slated him for another term as Premier, and although he built an octagon room as a steal-away den, he was granted but few hours to browse there.

Retirement is a questionable joy. Emerson says that to live in solitude one must be either a beast or a god. Retirement is semi-solitude.

When a man tells Mother Nature he is done and will retire, she often takes him at his word and leaves an order at the florist's.

Secondly, Gladstone desired that he might speedily divest himself of all things resembling wealth. But he didn't. He began, continued and ended in the lap of affluence.

Gladstone is an old pilgrim, tired of the journey and longing for home. His religion was as orthodox as his politics. To him, heaven was as tangible as the Tower of London and the tree of life as real as the elms of Hawarden.

His third desire was that when he went he might go speedily. John Neihardt says it eloquently:

"Let me go quickly like a candle-light
Snuffed out just at the heydey of its glow!
Give me high noon—and let it then be night!
Thus would I go!"

Gladstone was an old church man of 70 and said he would like to die in the church. He said that would be a euthanasia, a painless, happy death.

Church or no, that is the happiest leave-taking. To snap like a fiddle string rather than to linger through an inquisition by the demons of pain.

Gladstone's three desires are true to type. They voice the yearnings of men and women far down the sunset slope of life. The valley lies at their feet and they would hasten to its undisturbed tranquility.

Rest in peace!

Radio in the Desert

AND now the lowly caravan camel, "ship of the desert," is to be equipped with radio.

No more will a winding line start to crawl across the hot sands not knowing what its fate may be during months of absence from contact with civilization.

And mischance threatening its safety will be wirelessed and soon an airplane will bring rescue.

The old romance of waste places may be going, but the new romance is even more picturesque.
